THREE HELD IN MILK RACKET INQUIRY

MOTHERS OF AMERICA ARE GIVEN TRIBUTE

One Generation Properly Born and Educated, President's Wish.

DR. WILBUR PRESIDES AT PRIMARY SESSION

More Than 3,000 Registered and Work Is Planned During Day.

The President of the United States cast himself in a new role—vastly distant from the cares of government and party—last night when he stood on the stage in Constitution Hall to open the tthree-day White House Conference on Child Welfare before 3,000 delegates.

Revealed as a champion of children: as possessed of a kindly understanding as father and grandfather himself, Mr. Hoover summed up his views of childhood in five brief sentences. Of childhood he said:

"We approach all problems of childhood with affection. Theirs is the province of joy and good humor. They are the most wholesome part of the race, the sweetest, for they are fresher from the hands of God. Whimsical, ingenious, mischievous, we live a life of apprehension as to what their opinion may be of us; a life of defense against their terrifying energy; we put them to bed with a sense of relief and a lingering of devotion."

President Sounds Keynote.

The President sounded the keynote of the conference in another sentence in which he declared that the fundamental purpose of the meeting is to "set forth an understanding of those safeguards which will assure to them (the children) health of mind and body."

To the mothers of America he paid the highest tribute and threw wide the doors to two divergent corridors of his mind. As a man and a father, he said, "Our country has a vast majority of competent mothers. I am not so certain of the majority of competent fathers. But we are not concerned here with things that are beyond her power. . . . She can be trusted to put public officials to the acid test of the infant mortality and service to children in the town—when you set some standard for her to go by."

Then, as a public official himself, he declared, "If we could have but one generation of properly born, trained, educated, and healthy children, a thousand other problems of government would vanish. . . . Moreover, one good community nurse will save a dozen future policemen."

Dr. Wilbur Presides.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the Interior, presided and made a short speech of welcome to the more than 3,000 delegates who have come to Washington from all parts of the United States to attend the conferences. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. A. J. McCartney, of the Church of the Covenant, and the benediction was offered by the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University. The program, including the address of President Hoover, was broadcast over a radio hookup of both major chain systems to which many local groups interested in child welfare had planned to tune in.

Although yesterday was devoted to registrations, with the actual work of the conference not to begin until last night, it was announced that the committee on procedure, whose task will be to collect the body's findings and recommend on them, was appointed.

The committee consists of P. J. Kelly, of the University of Chicago; Dr. S. J. Crumpine, of New York, formerly director of the American Child Health Association, and Homer Folks, of New York, executive secretary of the Charity Aid Society. As soon after the conference can assemble facts brought out in meetings, the committee will study and report on them.

Group Dinners Tonight.

Today's work of the conference is to be divided among several meetings beginning at 9:30 o'clock this morning and continuing until night, when various group dinners will be held. This morning's first meeting will be a general session in Constitution Hall, after which special sections will

Text of President's Speech

President Hoover's address last night in Constitution Hall before the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection was as follows:

Something more than a year ago I called together a small group of representative men and women to take the initial steps in organization of this conference on child health and protection. Under the able chairmanship of Secretary Wilbur, and the executive direction of Dr. Barnard, organization was perfected and enlarged until by the fall of last year something over 1,200 of our fellow citizens were enlisted from every field of those who have given a lifetime of devotion to public measures for care of childhood. These skillful and devoted friends of children have given unsparingly and unselfishly of their time and thought in research and collection of the knowledge and experience in the problems involved. Their task has been magnificently performed, and today they will place before you such a wealth of material as was never before brought together.

I am satisfied that the three days of your conference here will result in producing to our country from this material a series of conclusions and judgments of unprecedented service in behalf of childhood, the benefits of which will be felt for a full generation.

I wish to express my profound appreciation to all those who have so generously contributed the time and

Province of Joy, Says Hoover of Childhood

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover has drawn upon his knowledge of parenthood and wealth of experience in child relief work for a five-sentence summation of childhood.

He expressed it last night to his child health conference in this way:

"We approach all problems of childhood with affection.

"Theirs is the province of joy and good humor.

"They are the most wholesome part of the race, the sweetest, for they are fresher from the hands of God.

"Whimsical, ingenious, mischievous, we live a life of apprehension as to what their opinion may be of us; a life of defense against their terrifying energy; we put them to bed with a sense of relief and a lingering of devotion.

"We envy them the freshness of adventure and discovery of life; we mourn over the disappointments they will meet."

OKLAHOMA TORNADO KILLS 17; 100 HURT

STORM STRIKES KANSAS

Oklahoma City, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A tornado cut a swath of death and destruction today through the little church colony of Bethany, 7 miles west of here.

Seventeen persons were killed. At least 100 persons were injured and more than 200 buildings were destroyed. Several persons were injured so critically that they first were included in the death list.

Striking during a heavy rain storm, the tornado leveled a 200-yard-wide path through the eastern edge of the town, burying many persons in the splintered wreckage of their homes.

All ambulances in Oklahoma City were rushed to the scene and the dead and injured were brought to city morgues and hospitals. Red Cross and Salvation Army workers rendered first aid.

Five companies of Oklahoma National Guardsmen went into the area after the storm had cleared to protect the scattered valuables from looters.

Temporary relief for 600 persons left homeless by the destructive tornado at Bethany today was effected tonight as Red Cross officials and Gov. Holloway issued a joint appeal for $30,000 to accomplish rehabilitation of at least 110 families.

The Red Cross moved quickly to supply food and clothing needs during the first steps of the rehabilitation program. Gov. Holloway made a State-wide plea tonight by radio for help.

Dropping first a few miles south of Bethany, the twisting funnel of death wrecked the Camel Creek School-

568 ARE RESCUED AS 2 VESSELS SINK

SECOND SHIP YIELDS 535

(Associated Press.)

The magic of wireless, plus the traditional heroism of the hardy men of the sea, saved the lives of 568 storm-tossed persons yesterday. Twenty-seven men and a woman followed the ancient code of the ocean and rowed half a mile through raging waters to reach the liner Mauretania, summoned by an SOS after they had abandoned the distressed Swedish freighter Ovida off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland.

The United States Liner America, veteran of many rescues, was closer and the United States freighter Endicott also was nearby, but the valiant 28 pulled farther for the Mauretania, obeying the unwritten law of the deep that the first boat on the scene makes the rescue.

Far to the other side of the Atlantic, 535 men and women were taken safely off the liner Highland Hope in lifeboats and lodged in Lisbon after their vessel had crashed on the rocks off the Portuguese coast. Only two casualties were reported. Up in the North Sea, five sailors drowned after the collision of the British steamships Continental Freighter and Hebble in Antwerp Roads. The Continental Freighter sank, but five of her crew were rescued.

Shipping circles were concerned for the small Swedish steamship Tanja, which dropped out of sight in the South Baltic after she left Danzig ten days ago.

S. S. America, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The unwritten code of the sea today caused 27 men and a woman, already physically exhausted from hours of

INDIAN PARLEY, RENT BY STRIFE, FACES FAILURE

TENSE AIR PREVAILS ON SHOWDOWN'S EVE

WAR IS THREATENED BY FIERY COLONIAL

People Undaunted by Plague or Famine Can Also Die Afield, He Warns.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Nov. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—What may prove the crisis of the all-India conference is expected tomorrow. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will deliver a speech which, if not satisfactory to the almost unanimous demand for dominion status, may disrupt the great gathering.

While Indian after Indian in today's plenary session poured out demands for equality of status within the British empire, there was feverish activity in the private negotiations. So strong was the Indian pressure that the British gave way on the first practical issue to come up, and the conference agreed unanimously that the committee which is to discuss federal relations may also "include the question of responsibility at the center."

This means discussion of the vital point whether the new central government is to be responsible to the people or to British officials—and the ambiguous phrase quoted, therefore, implies that the supreme stake is at issue.

Forces Change of Mind.

Premier MacDonald had not intended to make a declaration of policy on behalf of the British delegation at this stage, but the pressure on him from Indians seems to have forced him to change his mind. That is the inference drawn from cabinet meetings held last night and again tonight at which Lord Reading, former viceroy and a most successful one, was the only outsider present. He is heading the opposition to granting dominion status.

According to parliamentary rumors, Lord Sankey is the only member of the cabinet standing out for the granting of dominion status to India. On another hand Lord Peel, former secretary of state for India, whose expressed opposition yesterday to concessions drew not fire in the conference from Indians today, is more reactionary than any other Conservative delegate, and notably more so than Sir Stanley Hoare. Lord Reading, although this attitude does not command the support of the majority of his fellow Liberals in parliament, is being strongly backed by former Premier David Lloyd George.

Powerful Influence Used.

The entourage surrounding the king-emperor is believed to be using its powerful influence against any real grant of dominion status and the prospects, from the Indian point of view, look dark tonight. The Indians have not succeeded, as they confidently anticipated yesterday, in estab-

HARASSED DRY BAND TURNS TO FIGHT CRITICS

Antisaloon League Stirs at Charge It Ceased to Function.

DR. M'BRIDE TELLS OF NEW COMMITTEE

Industrial Leaders and Business Men Will Be Organized.

OBJECTS OF UNITS TO BE EDUCATIONAL

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Antisaloon League has begun to fight back at the movement to displace it as the head of the dry movement.

Aroused by criticism within dry ranks that it has ceased to function effectively and by reports of efforts being made to get an outstanding leader to take the late Wayne B. Wheeler's place, Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the league, yesterday announced that committees of business men and industrial leaders were being formed throughout the country to function under the direction of, but aside from, the Antisaloon League.

These committees will have pretty much the same character as the local organizations of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and will have as their purpose the combating of these wet organizations.

Object Is Educational.

"The real object of the new units," Dr. McBride's statement said, "is educational. It is proposed that the whole Nation shall be informed regarding the merits of prohibition, through the newspapers, magazines, radio broadcasts, public addresses, motion pictures and other approved methods for getting information before the public."

The movement has "already taken the form of a definite organization, but the supporting group is not yet complete," he said.

However, he listed a score or more men who "have given it their official endorsement and will assist in guiding its destinies."

Names Plan's Backers.

Among these he named Willis J. Abbott, editor of the Christian Science Monitor; W. H. Hoover, president of the Hoover Co., North Canton, Ohio; Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, head of Battle Creek, Mich., Sanitarium; Senator Arthur Capper, Rear Admiral W. S. Sims, U. S. N., retired; Henry M. Leland, founder of the Cadillac and Lincoln motor companies, and Howard D. Taft, brother of the late William Howard Taft and headmaster of the Taft School, Watertown, Conn.

Local committees have been formed in Washington, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Lancaster, York, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Philadelphia, Chester, and Baltimore, he said.

All of those named by Dr. McBride have long been identified with the dry movement and the extent to which the formation of the organization has advanced, apparently not outside of Pennsylvania, Washington,

SLAYER OF GRANT KNOWN SECRETLY

Amherst County's Officials Plan to Conceal Name for Week, One Says.

RIGID SILENCE PREVAILS

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 19.—Amherst County authorities today continued to refuse any information relative to the killing of Ernest Grant, 35-year-old Government fire warden, which occurred last week on Snowden Mountain in that county. Edward Meeks, Commonwealth's attorney, said it was known who shot Mr. Grant, but for certain reasons this information will not be divulged for a week at least. And no report is being made now on the inquest held Friday.

Belief is held in the community that Warden Grant was shot by a prohibition officer, but Mr. Meeks said he was not certain whether the slayer was an official or not. Asked if the man was a deputized officer, he replied that such information will have to come from other sources.

Mr. Grant was shot with a high-powered rifle, probably Wednesday. His body was found Friday after friends had searched for two days. Ground around the place where the body was found gave indications of a struggle by the wounded man before he died.

Oscar Grant, brother of the dead man, and Armour Garrett, arrested last week on a charge of moonshining near the scene of Mr. Grant's death, were held yesterday for the grand jury session December 4.

William Brown, Negro, who testified at the coroner's inquiry, told newspapermen that he and Mr. Grant were together last Wednesday, when they came upon three men seated on the mountainside. One of them had a gun. He said he ran and as he did, he heard Mr. Grant run in another direction. Shots were fired and then Grant cried out, he said. Later he reported the incident to Roy Ware, filling station owner. Thursday, Mr.

$100,000,000 NAVAL PROGRAM PREPARED

GENEVA GROUP IS BUSY

(Associated Press.)

A tentative one-year naval building program, which experts said would cost about $100,000,000, was outlined yesterday by Chairman Britten, of the House naval committee, as having been drafted from recommendations made by the Navy General Board.

The recommendations soon will be presented to President Hoover for approval and preparation for Congress.

Mr. Britten outlined the program after a conference with Secretary Adams. He said he expected the Secretary to submit the program to President Hoover within the week. Specific figures and tonnages will not be announced until President Hoover has

West Coast Base Recommended.

Mr. Britten said that under the program recommendation was made for selection of a site and construction of a West Coast air base; provision for building one flying-deck cruiser, but no 6-inch gun cruisers; modernization of the three battleships and construction of a small number of destroyers and submarines.

It was estimated at the Navy Department that the cost of such construction would approximate $100,000,000—twice as much as Navy expenditures for building during the last three years.

Whatever becomes of the program in its entirety, Mr. Britten said, he would endeavor to secure sufficient appropriations to insure modernization of the battleships New Mexico, Idaho and Mississippi.

"As a measure of unemployment relief," he said, "we will try to have funds appropriated for modernization of the three battleships, involving an expenditure of approximately $30,000,000."

MOTIEV IS HELD DESIRE TO GAIN UNION SUPPORT

CONFERENCE TODAY TO PLACE CHARGES

CASES NOT BELIEVED TO BE CONNECTED

Police Say Labor Officials Had No Knowledge of Plans of Men.

With three men under arrest, Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of detectives, last night announced that the mysterious "milk poisoning" case had been solved and that the first evidence of racketeering in the District had been effectively squelched.

The motive for the incident last Sunday morning in which drivers for two dairies found bottles of milk in their wagons covered with an ill-smelling solution, was established last night y police as a desire on the part of the three men arrested to gain more members for the Milk Drivers and Dairy Employes Local, No. 246.

All three of the men arrested yesterday in the case have signed voluntary statements regarding their parts in the Sunday incident, Inspector Shelby declared.

Three Men Held.

Those held are: H. M. Rothgeb, 27 years old, Randolph place northwest, near North Capitol street, recording secretary of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Employes Union.

Elmer Carr Rayford, 29 years old, E street southeast near Fifteenth street, an alleged agent of the taxicab drivers' union.

Richard Conte, 35 years old, V street northwest near Fourteenth street, a taxicab driver.

In making a statement regarding the arrests last night at police headquarters, Inspector Shelby made it plain that while the three men held were members of labor unions, he felt certain that none of the higher officials of these unions had knowledge of the alleged plan of the trio or had sanctioned any of the moves which police say they made.

No Charges Placed.

No charges were placed against the men last night, the trio being locked up at the Twelfth Precinct Station on a technical charge of investigation, which is nonbailable. This morning police officials will confer with the United States Attorney's office to decide what charge shall be made against the men.

If possible, Inspector Shelby said, they will be charged with conspiracy to destroy private property. The maximum penalty for conviction on such a charge is three years' imprisonment. If police believe they can not sustain such atn accusation, they will place a charge of violating section 10 of the District pharmacy law against the trio, Shelby declared. This section prohibits throwing or dropping any chemical solution on streets or premises. Penalty for conviction is $200 fine or six months' imprisonment or both.

According to the gist of the three statements which police said were made voluntarily by the prisoners, the idea was conceived by Rayford, who called Rothgeb and told the latter that it would be a good idea to "stink up a couple of milk wagons." Rayford and Rothgeb are alleged to have arranged a meeting for early

As 25-Year Secret Is Bared Man Finds "Aunt" Is Mother

Prince Georges Resident's Suit for Share in Estate Discloses That Woman Who Died Was Sister of Parent Present in ourt.

Leroy Kaiser sat in the orphans court of Prince Georges County yesterday and heard that his mother was not dead, as he had thought for more than a year, and tha tthrough all the 25 yearsof his life he had associated wiht his real mother without knowing her.

The man's grandmother, Mrs. Annie Rhine, revealed that he had been placed in care of his aunt, Mrs. Pinkie Kaiser, when he was only a few days old, and that he had grown up thinking she was his real mother. His actual mother, Mrs. Elsie Rhine Skinner, was also present and verified the older woman's statements.

Leroy Kaiser had brought suto to compel his grandmother to pay him the money due from the estate of the woman he had thought of as mother. She died on Mothers' Day in 1929, shortly after she left the home of Mrs. Rhine, her mother.

The three judges of the court decided, after hearing the grandmother's testimony and that of the man's real mother, that he was not entitled to a share in the estate of his aunt. William C. Keefer and J. Enos Ray appeared for Mrs. Rhine.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: When prices are higher the value of the dollar is low. When prices fall the dollar rises. For that reason it is apparent now how wise it has been to reduce the national debt. It was done when the dollar was low and therefore more easy to get. Now that it is higher it will be more difficult to pay the debt. It takes more products to get the dollar.

Another advantage is the saving in interest. We have paid about five-thirteenths of the national debt which, with refunds at lower rates, has reduced the yearly interest about a half billion dollars. Otherwise the present decrease in revenues from declining trade would force a heavy increase in taxes at a time when the country can least afford to pay them.

Probably increased taxes can be avoided, but apparently debt reduction will be curtailed. Past governmental economies produced a surplus which reduced our debt and taxes and makes it much more easy to handle declining revenues. We may need some more old-fashioned governmental economy. Certainly it is a time to save all public money consistent with a policy of giving employment.

Flaming Gas Loud Speaker Booms Earth Music, Words

Vacuum Tube Amplifiers, Varying Volume of Current Passing Through Arc, Makes Invention Vocal; Another Device Records Violin Notes.

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The flames of a carbon arc were converted into a new kind of loud speaker for the first time tonight.

The white-hot gases of the arc boomed forth words and music to an audience of 3,500 at a meeting here of the New York Electrical Society.

This voice of flame produced sound by vibrating just like the cold diaphragm of a telephone. Its tones were not quite so strong as those of a loud speaker.

"Whether flaming gas loud speakers will ever come into use, I do not know," said Sergius P. Grace, assistant vice president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, where the speaker was perfected. "Their quality is poor at present. Dynamic loud speakers seem likely to keep the edge, but who knows?"

The carbon arc has "spoken" before, but only in a barely audible whisper. The first time was in 1896 when H. B. Hayes, of the telephone company, discovered the phenomenon.

The arc was made vocal tonight by hooking it up with modern vacuum tube amplifiers, which varied the vol-

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States
Appears on Pages 2, 3 and 12 Today

Sunday morning and Rayford appeared to get Rothgeb, accompanied by Conte, who is also said to have accompanied Rayford when the purchase of a can of disinfectant was made Saturday night.

Cruised Through Petworth.

The three men, in an automobile operated by Rayford, according to their statements, cruised through the Petworth section before turning west to Connecticut avenue, where they found two milk wagons parked near Cathedral avenue. Their stories of who actually dumped the disinfectant on the milk bottles are at variance, but all agreed that the stuff was used and that they then went to their homes. So strong was the odor of the solution used that all tthree noticed it on their clothes after reaching home.

While police were working on the case reported by the drivers of Chestnut Farms and Thompson Dairy wagons on Sunday it was learned from officials of the Alderney-Green Meadow-Fairfax Farms Dairies, Inc., of which Henry L. Black is president, that a portion of a wagonload of milk consigned to the Hine Junion High School had been covered with a similar ill-smelling solution some three weeks ago.

The tampering with the milk for the school was discovered by a teacher and Mrs. W. C. Draper, manager of the school cafeteria, notified. She reported the incident to R. L. Dixon, manager of the milk company and the entire shipment was returned to the dairy. None of the students at the school could have been affected, Mr. Dixon said last night, bcause he made a personal inspection of the entire load and ordered all the milk returned which bore the mysterious odor. It is believed that the stuff was thrown onto milk in the wagon while the driver was taking his first load into the school building.

Uses Union Drivers.

Police last night said they had received no report of the Hines school milk incident and were confident that the three men they arrested had nothing to do with this case. The dairy of which Mr. Black is president, is a union dairy using union drivers, Inspector Shelby declared, there being no similar motive for action similar to that taken last Sunday morning.

According to police officials who "sat in" on the conference last night, only 50 of some 300 milk wagon drivers in the city are members of the union.

Significant portions of the three statements given out by police as the admissions of the three men held show the line of reasoning followed in the alleged conspiracy to bring nonunion drivers into the union.

Statement of Rayford.

"Well it came about after a long discussion over labor troubles," says the statement of Rayford, as given out by Shelby. The gist of our discussion was to the effect that our international in this city was losing members fast, due to the action of the large companies. We discussed ways and means of intimidating different scab drivers in hopes that by this means we would force them to become members of our organizations. Various methods were suggested as a disinfectant in outside stores, using the stuff that is now in toilets. A gallon of that stuff was procured Saturday night, November 15, 1930, at ———, by Conte and myself for which we paid something less than $2. We got this with the idea that we would be able to place some of it on the rat milk drivers' clothing and in that way we hoped to make him be so offensive to himself and the public that he would realize what a rat he was and join our organization."

Questioned by Apt. Edward Kelly, chief assistant to Inspector Shelby, regarding the purpose of alleged conspiracy, Rothgeb is reported to have said:

"It would make him (the milk driver) late with his deliveries and we knew that he would have to go back and get some more milk and to start up public sentiment against nonunion drivers and their firms. I knew the wagons were nonunion, but did not know who they belonged to."

Detectives Are Credited.

Conte's reported statement, in part, said:

"Rayford asked me of some method that we could use to help organize the milk drivers, as they were in a bad way, and he asked me to suggest some method by which a load of milk could be destroyed without any possibility of injury to anybody, some substance with a very offensive odor, and I suggested buying this disinfectant for outside toilets, as the odor was so strong that they would not dare use the milk if any of this substance was placed near it."

Inspector Shelby, who worked on the case unceasingly since Sunday, last night gave credit to members of the Detective Bureau for the "clean-up" on this important mystery. From information received by the police when they started to investigate, they centered the inquiry on the activities of Rothgeb, Shelby declared, and he was under surveillance for 72 hours by detectives.

He was arrested at First and R street northwest yesterday morning about 10 o'clock by Detective Sergts. Thomas Nally, Frank Alligood and Louis Wilson when authorities believed their case was about complete. After questioning Rothgeb at the Twelfth Precinct station, Detective Sergts. John Flaherty and George Darnell were dispatched about 3 o'clock in the afternoon to arrest Rayford, who was taken in custody on H street near Fifth street northwest. About two hours later, when Rayford has been questioned, Sergt. Joseph D. Harrington and Policeman Robert A. Walker, of the Traffic Bureau, picked up Conte at Sixth and H street northwest.

Gunner Aids Case.

Considerable aid was given police by Ben Gunner, of the William J. Burns Detective Agency, representing the two dairies involved in the case, Inspector Shelby added.

No report has been received from the District chemist on the exact content of the solution which was thrown onto the milk of the two dairy wagons, Inspector Shelby said last night. However an inspection of the can, which police said was recovered in the woods near Pohick, Va., yesterday afternoon, showed a warning notice printed on it to the effect that the solution was "poison if used internally."

Mixed With Kerosene.

According to the statements of the three prisoners the disinfectant was mixed with kerosene before being sprayed onto the bottles of milk. Police confiscated Rayford's automobile which they said still held the odor of some peculiar disinfectant. Rayford is alleged to have told police he kept the can at his home until Tuesday and then drove near Pohick where he tossed the container into the woods where it was found yesterday.

Inspector Shelby, in conference with newspapermen last night, said he would urge a new law in the District covering just such an offense as the present case and would recommend a law wth drastic penalties for those endangering the lives of persons in such a manner.

The inspector also was extremely pleased over the arrests in the case, expressing the belief that good work by his men had put down what might have developed into a system of racketeering similar to the many schemes being used in other cities.

SPAIN RALLIES ARMY AS RIOTING SPREADS

FIVE DIE IN BARCELONA

Madrid, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Spain's widespread labor disorders extended today to Seville and Cordoba, and an alarmed government disposed troops at points where they appeared to be needed most, as a precaution against the development of a revolution.

Today the cabinet believed it had scotched a revolutionary plot by throwing troops into Madrid, with orders to use any means to break up street meetings.

As labor unrest spread to two new cities, however, the feeling of comparative security appeared to evaporate. At Seville rioters shouted insults to the king and government. At Cordoba strikers fought with police in the streets. At Barcelona clashes of the past two days continued. At other points the worst seemed to be over.

Tonight the strike spread to the town of Vich, not far from here, a center famous for its sausage factories. Five thousand sausage makers walked out, but there was no disorder.

Similarly, in the manufacturing town of Manresa, near Barcelona, 15,000 industrial workers threw down their tools today, but made no trouble for the police.

From Alicante came reports that a dozen or more had been injured when the civil guards put down a new riot. There was a general panic as strikers and police clashed in the heart of the city, but the disturbance was quickly under control.

There were several arrests, and one of the prisoners was the Communist leader, Rafael Villard. Some of the fighters fled before the police, ran into the sea and almost drowned before the police rescued them.

Premier Berenguer remained on the job in Madrid, ready for any emergency which might arise. Reports from several cities which have been affected by the strike were reassuring, but the government appeared to feel it would be best to be prepared for renewal of the strife which has disrupted the nation for the past week.

A round-up of Communist agitators was ordered in the provinces, so that the movement could not get a foothold there. Reports that the army was involved in a revolutionary plot were quickly denied, and the fact that workmen were returning to their jobs in half a dozen cities was regarded as evidence that the strike had spent its force.

Barcelona, where the heaviest fighting occurred checked up its casualties today and found that five had been killed and at least 200 injured.

Students Wreck Equipment.

Several hundred striking chemical students of the University of Madrid rioted in their buildings tonight, breaking laboratory apparatus and forcing other students to join the movement. Officials closed the chemical department temporarily.

From Salamanca it was learned students of the local university went on strike from their classes and staged demonstrations in the heart of the city, shouting for a republic.

Union men were asked to join them and walk out, as did the workers in Madrid and Barcelona, but they refused.

Communist Plot Revealed.

More than 60 Communist and Republican leaders of Madrid have been jailed since Monday.

As revealed by government officials the Communist and Republican agitators planned to create disturbances here yesterday morning and, in the ensuing confusion, bring about the fall of the government and the monarchy.

Dozen Are Wounded.

Alicante, Spain, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Rioting broke out again here late this afternoon, and a dozen or more men were wounded when strikers clashed with police and civil guards. The disturbance was quickly put down, but it left business at a standstill.

Seville, Spain, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A general strike was called in Seville today, disorders following immediately when striking workmen clashed with police. Two persons were wounded.

Barcelona, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A furious fight developed tonight, with three persons wounded as police closed one of the offices of the "Sindicato Unico," the labor organization responsible for the general strike which has swept Barcelona with disorder for two days.

Ten Are Held.

One of the victims was seriously wounded and ten others were arrested.

The police, pistols in hand, entered the offices of the union branch, following upon government orders to close every headquarters of the organization. The members attacked them with chairs and anything else available.

As the police were taking their prisoners to the station, other members of the organization waylaid them and stoned them heavily, causing the police to fire in the darkness.

Sindicao Unico Abandons Strike.

The Syndicao Unico late tonight ordered its members to abandon the walkout and return to work tomorrow morning. With the strike thus promising to be terminated, authorities believed the city soon would return to normal.

No precautions are being overlooked, however, and heavy forces of police and civil guards remained on duty tonight.

As a means to avoiding possible new disturbances, officials decided that those killed in the recent disorders would be buried with secret services, no one to know in advance the time or place of the funerals.

Seven Held After Raids In Washington County

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 19.—Three women and four men, charged with liquor law violations growing out of raids on rural hotels and roadhouses, made yesterday by a squad of prohibition agents in Washington County, were arraigned today before Commissioner D. Angle Wolfinger.

Miss Ella Wishard, proprietor of the Wishard Hotel, Smithsburg, gave bond in $1,000 for a hearing next month on charges of sale and possession. Mrs. Virginia Simmers, also of Smithsburg, was held in $1,500. Mary Anderson, a waitress, arrested in a Williamsport lunchroom, was held in $500. The owner of the lunchroom, Oliver Thompson, and two other men, also were held.

AIRPLANE IS FOUND; PASSENGERS KILLED

Bodies of Girl and Two Men Are Discovered in Wreck of Mail Craft.

MISSING SINCE MONDAY

Burbank, Calif., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The three passengers of the Pacific transport mail plane were found dead late today in the Tehachapi Mountain foothills, where the plane had crashed on a sloping plateau. Discovery of the bodies ended a 43-hour search by scores of planes.

The wreckage had not burned. The plane, piloted by F. A. Donaldson and carrying Miss Jean Markow, 18, of Los Angeles, and George Rogers, a Mechanic, left United Airport here Monday midnight and became lost in fog, snow and gales over Tejon, 80 miles north.

The end of the ill-fated flight came approximately halfway between Tejon and Antelope Valley Emergency Airport, the former in the Tehachapis and the latter in the flat at the edge of the Mojave Dessert.

The 319 pounds of mail the plane was carrying to Oakland and Portland, Org., was intact.

17 OKLAHOMANS KILLED IN TORNADO

Floyd Roettger, 12, one of the pupils, described how Miss Mary Proctor, the teacher, attempted to save the children and how he himself called an ambulance and removed two dead from the ruins.

"It kept getting darker all the time," he related. "I was looking out the window. Soon I heard a loud noise. I shouted:

"'Here it comes!'

"The kids screamed. Miss Proctor told us to be quiet and all to fall to the floor. Every one did. But before we were all down, it seemed the school was sliding. Then all of a sudden it crashed.

"The next thing I remember was a man telling me to call an ambulance. When I got back, I carried Delbert Sharp to the Zorline House. I knew he was dead. Then I found Marguerite Zorline, also dead, and carried her to her mother."

Brick Buildings Crash.

The tornado whipped on north, through the eastern side of Bethany, State headquarters of the Nazarene Church and home of Bethany Peniel College, a denominational school.

Like a gigantic scythe, the storm cut a sharply defined swath through a residential section, reducing frame houses to splinters and toppling brick buildings like toy block houses. Most of those killed were here.

There were many stories of heroism.

Mother Saves Baby.

The first organized relief unit to attack the wreckage was the football team of the nearby Putnam Consolidated School. Two members of this group alone carried eight dead from the wrecked homes.

Yates Hoover, an ambulance driver, found the body of his father where their home once stood. Unable to find his mother, he removed his father to the morgue and then rushed back in search of her.

When Mrs. W. L. Burton saw the storm approaching, she caught her baby in her arms and sheltered it as the house collapsed. Her husband found her, shivering in the rain, the child still clutched in protection. The baby escaped with minor scratches, but Mrs. Burton was badly lacerated.

The Weather Bureau said it was not unusual for a tornado to occur in this section at this season of the year. The weather has been warm, the low-pressure area being hemmed in with high pressure.

Governor Takes Hand.

John Hutchinson, who brought several of the injured to Oklahoma City, said at least 100 buildings had been destroyed in and near Bethany. Steady rain fell as rescue squads worked in the storm area.

The entire eastern half of Bethany was razed by the wind, Mr. Hutchinson said. He believed many persons had been buried in the wreckage as roofs and sides of houses collapsed.

Gov. Holloway issued orders for all available space at the University Hospital here to be converted into emergency operating rooms.

Police Patrol Streets.

Employes of the State Health Department were sent to this institution to help render first aid.

Traveling at a high rate of speed in an effort to escape the tornado, J. A. Hodgson, a salesman, saw a man killed by a steel beam as he passed the Bethany ice plant.

City policemen, firemen, deputy sheriffs and national guardsmen, with drawn guns were patroling the streets in an effort to protect property. A truck load of pocket books, loose currency, silver and other valuable possesions picked up from the wreckage was taken to a bank by officers.

Storm In Kansas.

Neal, Kans., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—One man was injured and 20 buildings destroyed and several others damaged by a severe windstorm here this afternoon.

The injured man was Jim Thompson, who was struck in the head by a board.

Not a single building escaped damage, and it is considered remarkable there was not a large casualty list. The storm appeared suddenly from the southeast and was accompanied by a heavy rain which lasted half an hour.

14 Children Injured.

Enid, Okla., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A terrific windstorm accompanied by heavy rain struck three miles south of Hilldale and traveled northeast five miles, demolishing four farm residences.

S. F. Vanhoosen was in an Enid Hospital tonight, but was not believed seriously injured. The remainder of the Vanhoosen family miraculously escaped injury.

The temperature today was 74, abnormally warm for the season.

Haya, Kans., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Sixteen school children were injured, none dangerously, by a tornado which demolished a rural schoolhouse 14 miles northeast of here today.

Dr. B. Anderson, Victoria physician who attended the injured, said all the boys and girls were cared for in their homes. Considerable other damage was done to farm property in the neighborhood.

Herman Pfeifer, 24, is teacher at the school.

GRAIN MART SHOWS MODERATE UPTURNS

ORDERLY MARCH HIGHER

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Grain trading settled to a normal pace today, with moderate upturns credited more to favorable news, principally from Canada, than to the stabilization efforts of agencies sponsored by the United States Government.

In strong contrast with the feverish sessions yesterday, in which foreign markets tumbled while Government money poured in to stem the tide in American exchanges, the trading today was an orderly, gradual march into higher ground. Nearly all grains in all leading world markets closed higher, wheat futures in Chicago scoring gains ranging from ⅛ to 1¼ cents.

Commission houses which have been handling Government trades made some purchases, but for the most part the Farm Board attitude appeared to be to let well enough alone, as long as the market was not going below the stabilization price.

The situation in Canada, where wheat prices crashed yesterday, absorbed much attention of traders today, and the news that Canadian bankers would protect the wheat pool's margins was taken as an indication favorable to the buying side. Another bullish feature was revival of export business, indicated by Mexico's reported purchase from the Canadian pool.

The gap between Chicago and foreign markets continued today.

The two futures that have attracted most of the Government buying have been December, old, at 73 cents and May, new, at 76 cents. Tonight's close in Chicago was 73¼ to 73⅛ cents for December, a gain of ⅛ to ¼ cent, and 76⅝ to 76½ cents for May, an increase for the day of ¼ to ½ cent.

Other wheat contracts gained as much or more, old May closing ⅞ to 1⅛ cents higher, at 76 to 76⅛. Corn was even stronger, with net increases of from 1 to 1¼ cents, and oats closed ⅜ to ¾ cent up.

Ottawa, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Canada had a surplus of 313,000,000 bushels of wheat October 31, an estimate issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said. If the present sales policy is continued, the carry over at the end of the present season will be less than last July, the estimate declared.

Report on Deer Killed Ordered by Game Board

Special to The Washington Post.

Keyser, W. Va., Nov. 19.—With the approach of the deer-hunting season in West Virginia, December 1 to December 10, the State Game, Fish and Forestry Commission called attention of hunters to the State law, which requires that each person, not later than twenty days after killing a deer, must report the fact.

The person reporting is also required to specify the day and place of the killing, by whom killed, the person or persons hunting with him at the time, the length and branching of horns or antler, and what was done with the deer. The commission also called attention to the closing of seasons on wild turkeys, ruffed grouse and quail, November 30, and bass, pike, pickerel, perch and frogs also, on the same date.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL WILL MEET TODAY

Demonstration Club Group to Gather in Rockville This Morning.

CRIME BUREAU PLANNED

The Montgomery County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs will hold its sixth annual meeting this morning at the Firemen's Hall, Rockville, according to an announcement by Miss Blanche A. Corwin, home demonstration agent. The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock. Mrs. James D. King will preside.

Among the features of the meeting will be an exhibition of baked and cooked products, sewing work, children's clothing, fancy and art work, as well as a table on which will be grouped suggestions for the making of Christmas presents. The morning will be devoted to reports by the various constituent home demonstration groups. Luncheon will be served by women who have attended the rural women's short course at the University of Maryland, College Park, and the proceeds will be included in the county gift to the special fund for the erection of a clubhouse at the University of Maryland.

Miss Florence L. Hall, home economist of the Eastern States Extension Service of the Department of Agriculture, will speak in the afternoon on "How to Increase the Spread of Influence of the Home Demonstration Work in Montgomery County." Miss Margaret Ansdell, Montgomery County nutritionists, will talk on her work in the schools and the county.

Mrs. Mary O'Brien will sing, accompanied on the piano by Miss Helen McLaughlin. A general discussion of the program for 1931 and marketing products of farm women will close the meeting.

Montgomery County is to have a criminal identification bureau, it was announced yesterday by Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley. Bertillon photographs and fingerprints will be taken of all persons arrested for serious crime in the county. The work is to be carried on by Theodore Vollten, at present attached to the Bethesda substation.

Chief Moxley pointed out that increased emphasis has been placed on the efficient recording of all criminals throughout the country and believes that the new system will be of special aid in such emergencies as jailbreaks and the apprehension of persons with criminal records. Several persons have escaped from the county jail in the past few months, and the police were handicapped in their efforts to broadcast descriptions by the lack of adequate records.

Annual donation day will be held at the Montgomery County General Hospital, Sandy Spring, November 29, according to announcement by Miss Elizabeth Jones, superintendent of the hospital. Tea will be served from 2 to 6 o'clock. Like most hospitals, the fees paid by the more affluent patients are not sufficient to care for those who can not afford to pay. By means of donation day, many of the necessities are acquired which otherwise would be a drain upon the financial assets of the hospital.

Plans for the annual meeting of the Maryland State Grange at Silver Spring December 2 to 4 will be discussed at a meeting to be held tomorrow at the home of Miss Pearl Marlowe, near Spencerville. About 300 members of the State Grange are expected to attend the meeting, according to Albert A. Ady, assistant county agricultural agent, who is chairman of the general committee.

Trial of criminal cases will begin in county circuit court at Rockville today. About 35 cases are scheduled to be heard by the court. It is expected that the cases will be disposed of quickly, inasmuch as there are no very serious cases involving a great deal of courtroom work.

The chief important case to be heard in this term of court is the Brady bombing case, and this probably will not be reached until early in January. Stedman Prescott, newly elected State's attorney for Montgomery County, probably will be among the prosecution in the trial of this case, which was transferred to Montgomery County from Prince Georges.

Leroy and Herman Brady, brothers, are charged with murder in connection with the bombing of the Hall home in Seat Pleasant last New Year's Day, which caused the deaths of Herman's wife and her small brother and sister. The brothers are in the Upper Marlboro Jail. A jury at the last term of court disagreed after trying Leroy. Herman has never been placed on trial.

Guards End Prison Riot With Tear Gas

Mutinous Inmates Destroy Valuable Property in Escape Attempt.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Rioting prisoners who attempted to force their way from the craggy prison camp last night were quelled by tear gas after they had destroyed prison property valued at hundreds of dollars. Details of the riot at the distant camp were received here today.

Officials said the trouble began soon after the prisoners returned to their barracks from the evening meal.

Shouting defiance at guards, the convicts smashed benches, broke out windows and put the electric lighting system out of commission. Extra guards were summoned as the prisoners openly attempted to remove bars from cell windows.

Under the light of a dozen automobile headlights, the guards advanced on the barracks with tear gas. As the choking fumes spread through the building the prisoners quieted and surrendered.

Rites Held for Youth Declared Self-Slayer

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Nov. 19.—Funeral services were held this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawson for their son, Melvin Dawson, 21, whose body was found Monday on Haystack Mountain, west of Cumberland, Md., with a gaping wound through the left chest and who came to his death by his own hand, according to investigating authorities.

Dawson, in the belief of the authorities, killed himself because of a love affair with a girl of Berkeley Springs. In addition to his parents, he is survived by three sisters and a brother. Burial was made in the local cemetery.

DRY EUROPE IS AIM OF RAILROAD ORDER

Federation of 15 Countries Will Attempt Program by Education.

60,000 JOIN IN PROJECT

Paris, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Plans for an energetic campaign of temperance education, with the aim of eventually "drying up" Europe and making it a continent of total abstainers, were completed in Paris recently.

Sixty thousand railroad men belonging to fifteen nations, grouped as the International Federation of Antialcoholic Societies, are sponsoring the movement primarily as a "safety first" measure.

Each member has pledged himself to be a total abstainer, except in France and Germany, where wine and beer are permitted "if consumed in extreme moderation."

The countries represented are France, Germany, Great Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Poland, Jugoslavia, Holland, Roumania, Switzerland, Finland, Belgium, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Karl Weber, Swiss railway executive at Zurich, is president of the federation, and M. Raoul Dautry, director general of French State Railways, is a member of the executive committee.

Moral persuasion and not legal proceedings or jail sentences, composes the entire program of the federation.

Appeal to Individual.

It makes its appeal to the individual will power of each worker. It preaches voluntary self-control. It does not believe, according to M. Dautry, "that the enacting of a law or the passing of a bill through parliament" can make a nation sober. It asks for no prohibition legislation, although it advocates laws forbidding the sale of liquor to minors, restricting the number of saloons and the hours in which they can be open.

At the banquet given in Rouen at the close of the congress not a drop of wine was served to the delegates, a feat hitherto unheard of in France. Plenty of grape juice, both red and white, and sweet cider, the corks of which popped like champagne bottles, gave the banquet its festive character.

In order to secure the neutrality, if not the support, of the peasants of Champagne, Burgundy and Bordeaux, who would be hard hit by a wave of total abstinence, the federation is sponsoring the "grape cures" now so popular in Europe, and the establishment of temperance bars.

Will Instruct Children.

Thus the work of "drying up" Europe is on, although it may be harder than watering the Sahara, Herr Weber confessed frankly.

"A dry Europe may be far distant," he said. "It may be even impossible of achievement, at least in this generation. But what of that? Even if we can't dry up Europe, there is still a great deal of useful work to do, and we intend doing it.

"We can instruct our children against the perils of alcoholism; we can encourage sobriety, moderation and self-control among railroad men, and thereby decrease railroad accidents. And all this is distinctly worth while."

FRANKLIN'S RIVAL AT BANDERILLEROS

V. Wong Never Wrong When It Came to Pricking Bull in Ring.

MATADOR WAS PICADOR

Special to The Washington Post.

Mexico City, Nov. 19.—Sidney Franklin, Brooklyn boy, who has the distinction of being the only American bull fighter in the world, had better look to his laurels. For in the field of foreign matadors and banderilleros he now has a formidable rival in the person of one V. Wong, a Chinese, and, according to reports from Spain, as fearless and clean a fighter as ever stuck a sword between a bull's shoulder blades.

Wong, "El Torero Chino," as he is called in the land of bull fighters and black-eyed senoritas, is at present in Barcelona, whence comes word that he is planning to visit these shores preliminary to a tour of Central and South America.

Comes From Spain.

Franklin, who recently returned to America from Spain, learned the art of fighting bulls in the Chapultepec arena. He came from the United States to sketch for an advertising house here; but the bovines beckoned and he entered the arena, first as a humble capotero and later as a banderillero, finally developing into an uncanny matador. In Spain his name has been linked with that of Mazantini, Gaona, Belmonte, Bienvenida and other famous stars of the bull ring, of this and yesteryears.

Wong, his Chinese rival, made his ring debut as a picador; but proving too light for the strong-armed and somewhat dangerous job of holding a freshly released bull at the tail-end of a 10-foot pole from the vantage point of a scared horse's back, he joined the "foot warriors" and gradually worked his way up to the stellar role of matador.

Fought Bulls in Spain.

Wong has fought bulls in all the chief corridas of Spain. He long ago discarded his picturesque Oriental costume for the no less picturesque garb of the bull fighter. On the street he sports the conventional Eton jacket of the clan, fancy shirt with ribbon tie and flat-brimmed felt hat, the whole set off by a brilliant colored sash.

In the arena he has a flair for yellow, and, of course, the bull fighter's pigtail comes natural to him. Wong intends to show Americans how a true son of the former Celestial Empire can dispatch a big, husky, charging bull without so much as wiggling his pigtail.

Building in Lynchburg To Be 17 Stories High

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 19.—The Allied Arts Building Corporation here has secured permit for erection of a 17-story office building at Eighth and Church streets, which is to cost $320,000.

The building will provide two stores on the Church street floor, a garage for parking automobiles on the Eighth street side and 104 offices. Work has already been started on the foundations.

64,747 Use Play Center.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 19 (Special).—Report of the municipal department of recreation and playgrounds for October showed 64,747 persons used the facilities of city operated play centers here during the month. This was a gain of more than 12,000 over the same month a year ago.

Union Treasurer Freed On Embezzling Charge

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 19.—L. B. Hackworth, printers' union treasurer, recently arrested, charged with embezzling $85.75, funds of the organization, has gone free without a trial.

When the case was called in court yesterday representatives of the union said they would not sign out the warrant against Hackworth on information which proved to be erroneous and that they had no evidence of any misapplication of funds.

Funeral for Mount Sidney Man.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 19 (Special).—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from Salem Lutheran Church, near Mount Sidney, for T. A. Calhoun, 75, prominent churchman and retired farmer, who died at his home early Monday morning following a stroke of paralysis two weeks before.

LEST WE FORGET

All the green pastures are not in the next county. It is true there are opportunities—plenty of them—to make safe and profitable investments in stocks and bonds which are offered for sale in the financial centers. It is equally true that Washington affords like opportunities.

This is a time for discrimination in investments. It is a time also for the prudent investor to investigate and analyze what is offered in his home city.

It should not be forgotten that no large city in the United States is more nearly depression proof than the National Capital. Administrations come and Administrations go, but the Government at Washington, with its 85,000 employees in the metropolitan area, is permanent. It will not slip back. Among those normally its own people, the percentage of unemployment is smaller here than in any other large city in the United States.

In the years immediately ahead the already large expenditures of the Government in Washington are to be greatly increased. There is no division in the political parties in the forward steps to be taken to promote the growth and development of the seat of Government.

We recommend to investors that they give thought to the securities of local public utilities, banks and trust companies, and our long-established and successful industrial corporations.

The facilities of our office are at the disposal of those desiring information and advice as to investments.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

STUDENTS WILL VIE IN POSTER CONTEST

VIRGINIANS ARE ELIGIBLE

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Junior and senior high schools throughout Virginia will be invited to enter a poster contest sponsored by the American Library Association and designed to promote interest in reading and the use of libraries, C. W. Dickinson, jr., State supervisor of school libraries and textbooks, said here today.

The subject for the posters, which will be the work of students, is "The Joy and Value of Books Found in Libraries."

Several States to Share.

The contest is being conducted in Virginia, West Virginia, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

Any high school student in these States may enter the contest by submitting an original poster which can be used to promote interest in reading or the use of libraries, on or before next February 14. The posters are to be submitted to the high school librarian.

Each high school librarian will be invited to send before March 2, to the American Library Association representative, Mr. Dickinson, one poster chosen to represent the school by judges whom the librarian is to select.

Jury to Make Choices.

Each State representative will appoint a jury to pick the best posters from those received. Such selections will be sent to the American Library Association headquarters before March 16.

One hundred dollars for books will be given to the school library of the student winning the first prize; the books to be marked with a plate bearing the student's name. Two $50 prizes, four of $25 and five of $20, of the same character as the first, will be awarded. The books will be selected by the school librarian.

Charles County Court Convenes in La Plata

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Nov. 19.—The November term of Circuit Court for Charles County convened here yesterday, with Chief Judge W. Mitchell Digges and Associate Judge William Meveral Loker on the bench. Fourteen criminal appeals from decisions of magistrates were disposed of during the day. The number of civil cases to be considered is greater than usual.

The case of Lula Mae Gamble, accused of the murder of Mrs. Elsie Davis, is before the grand jury. No indictments had been brought in by that body up to this morning.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IN this general reorganization, introspection and taking of stock that is going on among the drys they should give serious thought to one thing that has perhaps turned more intelligent people against them than anything else.

It is brought to mind by the declarations of drys in convention at Houston. Officially, formally and very solemnly they warn any wet candidate for the Presidency in 1932 that they will not vote for him. Regardless of party they will support the dry, they avow.

* * * *

NOW it can't be possible that they know what will be the issues in 1932, and there are a hundred in the making, many, in fact, that will bear heavily upon the destinies of this country.

Indeed, they can not be certain of the presidential candidates. Yet they say now definitely and unqualifiedly that they will vote against a man who thinks there should be some change in present conditions under prohibition.

This has long been the attitude of the drys. And it is downright offensive.

* * * *

NOW in the recent elections there were two outstanding dry senators up, Senator Borah, of Idaho, and Senator Walsh in Montana.

Senator Walsh's State is indisputably wet in sentiment. It has repeatedly demonstrated this in referenda. He was opposed by a wet. Yet he was reelected by one of the handsomest if not the greatest majorities in his career.

And there is hardly a worthwhile wet in the country who seriously wanted him defeated because he was dry. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is understood to have made a feeble effort, or perhaps just a gesture against him. It could not have had its heart in its work.

Neither was there any wet of notice who wanted Senator Borah defeated.

* * * *

BE it said for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment that every fight in which it entered seriously in the recent campaign it made certain that its candidate was capable. Indeed, its success can be largely attributed to the high caliber of the men it championed.

This has never been the policy of the organized drys. They measure a man solely by the prohibition string, and his dryness is the determining factor whether he is lacking mentally, morally or in capability.

The real grievance I have with them is that in the years they have been operating they have loaded up our legislative and governmental councils with more nitwits, more racketeers, more morons than the country can well bear.

The most heartening feature of the recent elections was not in the wet gains but in the fact that once again a high-calibered man who might happen to think the eighteenth amendment was wrong, could stick up his head without having it immediately cut off.

Doctors' Society Holds Convention

Group in Southern Virginia Discusses Tuberculosis During Meeting.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 19.—The Post Graduate Medical Society of Southern Virginia, composed of physicians of Petersburg and Hopewell and the counties of Nottoway, Dinwiddie, Prince George, Greensville, Brunswick, Surry and Sussex, convened in session yesterday in the Piedmont Tubercular Sanatorium at Burkeville, near here.

Among those who took an active part in the discussions and reading of papers on the different phases of tuberculosis were: Drs. J. B. Jones, H. C. Jones, R. W. McGill and Wright Clarkson, of Petersburg; Dr. Charles B. Grandy, of Norfolk; Drs. R. A. Moore and I. C. Harrison, of Danville; Dr. Thomas Hardy, of Farmville; Dr. W. C. Harmon, of Dolphin, and Dr. Lowry, of Crewe; Drs. P. J. Wright, W. B. McIlwaine, J. A. Profitt and Dean B. Cole were also on the convention program.

The next convention will be held at Hopewell Tuesday, January 13, when there will be a symposium on "Allegry." Dr. Meade Edmunds, of Petersburg, will consider "allegry" in relation to nose and throat conditions. A paper on asthma will be presented by Dr. Warren T. Vaughan, of Richmond. Papers in this symposium are also to be given by two physicians from the University of Virginia.

Petersburg May Drop Connection With Fair

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 19.—The consensus of opinion at the meeting of the city council last night was that the City of Petersburg, which is a stockholder in the Petersburg Fair Association, would abandon its connection with the association after March of next year, when its contract expires. The City of Petersburg holds at present 51 per cent of the stock and, is also the owner of the fair grounds and its equipment.

The city will continue to own the grounds and equipment, and in case the association continues to operate the annual fair they will be leased under a straight agreement providing rentals and not under an agreement as is in force at the present, which makes the city a part of the fair association.

Portrait History Of Virginia Is Out

Volume Contains Pictures of 200 Who Have Lifted State to Fame.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Virginia's valiant history, not in the prose of historians, but in a colorful volume whose stories of epic figures were painted on canvas, was released here today.

The volume commemorates the portrait exhibition held last year at Virginia House, the centuries-old Warwick Priory which Alexander W. Weddell brought to this country and to Richmond from England. Mr. Weddell, former consul general to Mexico, edited the book. It covers in historical portraitures the history of the Old Dominion and much of the Nation's history from 1585 to 1830. Original portraits of approximately 200 outstanding figures were reproduced from Queen Elizabeth to Edgar Allan Poe.

Among those composing a committee in charge of the book were Viscountess Astor, Plymouth; Thomas B. Clarke, New York; John Barton Payne, Washington, and Robert W. de Forest, New York. It has an introduction by Ellen Glasgow, a distinguished Virginia author.

Buyers Unloading In Beef-Price Drop

Lovingston Cannery Aids in Relieving Overstocked Virginia Dealers.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 19.—The drop in price paid for cattle has caused the local market to become overstocked and, as a result, many buyers are hastening to unload. One dealer who had several hundred head on hand recently closed a deal with the owners of a canned beef plant at Lovingston, Nelson County, for the purchase of virtually the entire lot, rather than ship the animals to markets at a distance.

These cattle are now being slaughtered at a local abattoir for shipment to the Lovingston plant, at the rate of 75 or 100 per week. Recently 50 were killed in one day for the Nelson firm.

The Lovingston plant, started several years ago by Thomas Boyce, Nelson County merchant, was recently purchased by Messrs. Mawyer and Page. It is being operated at full capacity now. Its product is disposed of in the smaller towns of this section of the State in case lots.

Lynchburg Man Appeals Fine of $50 in Rum Case

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 19.—George Dameron, facing a charge of transporting ten gallons of liquor, told Judge J. P. McCarron in the municipal court that he did not know the liquor was in his car until it was uncovered by a patrolman.

The patrolman told the court the liquor was found after he had chased the car two miles through the city. The policeman's word went and Dameron appealed from a $50 fine and sentence of three months at the city farm.

ARLINGTON RATES ON GAS DEFENDED

Woodhead Explains Scale in Reply to Protest by County Official.

WOMEN VOTERS GATHER

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Replying to the statement of J. W. Head, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Arlington County, that there was no proposed reduction in the rates of the Rosslyn Gas Co., F. A. Woodhead, vice president of the Washington Gas Light Co., of which the Rosslyn Co. is a subsidiary, said in a statement given out yesterday:

"The gas rates, as proposed by the Rosslyn Gas Co., will stand favorable comparison with any other territory of equal size in the United States. The gas furnished is of 600 B. T. U. per cubic feet, which is a very high standing of heating value which, of course, means money.

"There is a general feeling that poor people are small gas consumers but this is contrary to the facts, because poor people are usually at home all year, do their own cooking, washing and all other housework, and they use considerable gas to do their work.

"We believe that these rates are fair and equitable in that they provide a rate of 90 cents for gas consumption over 2,500 cubic feet.

"The average gas sales in Arlington County per customer per month show 2,600 cubic feet, therefore the average customer does get a small reduction. For the customer using 4,000 cubic feet a month he would pay for the first 2,500 cubic feet at the rate of $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet and the next 1,500 cubic feet at the rate of 90 cents or about $1.25 for the average gas consumption.

"The greatest advantage goes to the customer who is using gas for house heating, because in that case all the gas consumption would be registered on one meter at the low house-heating rate as follows:

"Meter charge of $1 per month, demand charge of $2 per 100 cubic feet of hourly demand, gas charge of 65 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

"Let us assume a house-heating customer using gas for heating, cooking and heating water in a small house. First he has a meter charge of $12 a year. He would have an average demand charge of $4 a month for seven months, or $28 a year. If his yearly gas consumption amounted to 250,000 cubic feet for house heating he would pay $162.50. Let us assume he uses $5 a month for heating water and cooking, or $60 a year. His total gas consumption of about 290,000 cubic feet a year would amount to 90.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

"As to the matter of making main extensions in the Rosslyn territory we have adopted a fixed policy of only making street main extensions where the net revenue for the extension will pay the interest on the extension. We are not seeking any profit immediately, but hav enough faith in the Rosslyn territory to believe that future business will justify our fixed nondiscriminatory attitude.

"The policy of the present for making main extensions is more liberal than the policy in the past, but we believe that main extensions should be made where they are self-supporting."

The Organized Women Voters of Arlington County held its fall meeting yesterday at the Clarendon Methodist Church with more than 40 members attending. Mrs. Ruby Simpson presided.

Muna Lee Munoz Marin, the principal speaker, said: "The Woman's Party was organized to obtain equal rights for men and women.

"We hope to see the equal rights amendment passed during the coming session of Congress."

She spoke on the injustice of the concerted efforts at the present time to solve the unemployment problem by throwing women out of work in order to give their jobs to men.

"Sometimes the suggestion is to dismiss married women from night-work jobs or perhaps to limit their working day to eight hours, thereby denying them the opportunity to receive time and a half for overtime.

"Women have the same right to work as men; they need their pay envelope just as badly, and a woman out of employment," she concluded, "gets just as hungry as a man."

Dean Grace Hayes Riley, of the Washington College of law, congratulated the organization on the part that it took in the recent study of the needs for a change in the form of county government and which met with the approval of the voters of the county at the recent election.

Other speakers were William L. Leitch, director of the Boy Scout movement in Northern Virginia, who spoke on the work of the scout and the plans now underway to raise funds in Arlington County to finance the movement.

The following members were elected to constitute the nominating committee which will prepare the slate for election of officers at the January meeting. From Washington district—Mrs. Ada Davidson, Mrs. Edith Simpson, and Mrs. Alice N. Fellows; from Jefferson district—Mrs. Isabel Davis, Mrs. Alice Semones, and Mrs. Anne Jackson Sloan; from Arlington district—Mrs. Bertha Kelly, Mrs. Helen Orr, and Mrs. Ruth B. Lowell. The committee elected Mrs. Orr as its chairman.

Delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation are: Mrs. Alice Semones, Mrs. Ada H. Davidson, Mrs. Jesse Roberts, and Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson. Alternates are—Mrs. Mary Williams, Mrs. Alice N. Fellows, Mrs. Jessie Skidmore and Mrs. Helen Bardwell.

The organization voted to have the civic committee have one of its members attend each of the meetings of the County Board of Supervisors.

The Arlington Rotary Club will meet at 12:30 o'clock today at the Washington Golf and Country Club. A. F. Thelander will preside.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, C. H. Turner was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Court Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday. Bond was fixed at $500.

The case of M. Bregman, charged with violation of the county zoning ordinance, was continued until November 26 to give him time to remove the building material stored on his property which is held in violation of the ordinance.

C. L. Kinnier, county engineer, speaking at the moothly meeting of the Arlington-Fairfax Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association held last night at Arlington, explained some of the plans that the county board of supervisors have under consideration for the improvement of fire protection.

He stated that a complete list of active fire-fighting men should be certified to the county clerk of the

Burglar Is Trapped In Filling Station

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 19.—A man, giving his name as Harry Miller, of Pittsburgh, was trapped in an oil and gasoline station here today. He pleaded guilty to breaking and entering when arraigned and his case was presented to the grand jury, now in session.

A policeman saw the man loitering near the station and watched him break in. The prisoner made no resistance. He had an imitation revolver in his pocket.

KIWANIS WILL STAGE 1930 BALL TONIGHT

NEW WATER RATE GIVEN

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

The annual ladies' night entertainment of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club will be given in the George Mason Hotel tonight, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. The weekly luncheon scheduled for today has been omitted on account of the celebration. A turkey dinner will be served, and an entertainment program will be staged by Jules Brazil, which will be followed by dancing.

The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of Roger C. Sullivan, chairman; J. William May, T. M. Jones, jr., D. C. Book, Dr. R. H. Case, Doll M. Zircle and F. Clinton Knight.

Nominations for officers for the coming year have been made by the club, the election to be held November 27. They are, for president, D. C. Book and Roger C. Sullivan, for first vice president, D. C. Book, Dr. R. H. Case, T. M. Jones, jr., and Joseph H. Newell; for second vice president, Irving Diener, C. C. Lamond and J. William May; for trustee, Thomas Chauncey and Robert C. Carter.

At the same time the club will elect seven directors, the nominations for these posts being D. C. Book, Dr. R. H. Case, Irving Diener, Elliott F. Hoffman, Harry Hammond, Authur Herbert, Robert S. Jones, T. M. Jones, jr., Charles W. King, F. Clinton Knight, Clyde C. Lamond, J. William May, W. Harmon Reed, St. Clair D. Shelton, John H. Trimyer and C. Page Waller.

The guests at the ladies' night entertainment, in addition to the wives and relatives, will be visitors from the Washington and Manassas Kiwanis Clubs.

Official announcement of the proposed increased rates for water consumption in Alexandria was made yesterday. The company proposes to make the rates effective February 1, provided the necessary authority is received from the State Corporation Commission, and the increases will amount to 33 1-3 per cent over the rates at present charged.

The application for the increase will be heard by the corporation commission in Richmond at some time prior to the proposed effective date, although the date for the hearing has not been announced. The city council of Alexandria has authorized City Attorney Carl Budwesky to resist the proposed increases, employing such legal aid as may be necessary, he to report to the council steps to be taken.

Pending the installation of meters, the flat rates charged under the proposed new schedule will be: For all private dwellings, stores, offices and other buildings having one water fixture only and not threaded for hose connection, $16.80 per annum; for each water closet, $5.60 per annum; for each bathtub, $5.60 per annum; for each set laundry tub, $3.50; for each set wash basin, $2.10, and for each hose connection, $4.20 per annum.

The nineteenth anniversary of the organization of Martha Washington Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, was celebrated in the Cameron Street Masonic Temple Tuesday night, with an extensive program, followed by refreshments.

Guests of honor attending the celebration were these past matrons and patrons: Mrs. Christine Bales, Miss Lucy Graves, Mrs. Ava Veach, Mrs. Mary Dyson, Mrs. Elsie Tenesson, Mrs. Anne Melchior, Mrs. Cora Shelton, Mrs. Mamie Risheill, Mrs. Louise Wade, Mrs. Lillian Amick, Mrs. Florence Clift, Mrs. Matilda Schwarzmann, and Messrs. Harry Kennedy, C. C. Bachelier, Virgil Davis and Gorman Ridgely, all of whom participated in the conferring of the degrees on several candidates.

Mrs. Susie Cassidy, worthy matron, and Thomas M. Jones, jr., worthy patron, presided at the ceremony. After the exercises plans were completed for the annual supper and Christmas bazaar which will be held tonight in the parish hall of Grace Episcopal Church.

Representative R. Walton Moore, of the Eighth Virginia District, will make his final appointments to West Point and Annapolis, Military and Naval Academies, as a result of a competitive examination which will be held in the postoffices of Alexandria and Culpeper January 10, 1931. Mr. Moore states there are no conditions except good character and actual residence in his district. There is one appointment to be made to each academy.

Christmas savings club checks amounting in the aggregate to $136,000 will be mailed out Saturday by the Alexandria National Bank to its 2,500 members, according to an announcement made yesterday by L. H. Dudley, vice president and cashier of the bank. The checks mailed Saturday will be only for those accounts which have been paid in full, and will be dated December 2, although Mr. Dudley stated the checks would be honored immediately by any bank in the city. Checks for the accounts only partly paid up will be mailed out December 1, and will also be dated December 2.

The main purpose of mailing these checks now is to stimulate early Christmas shopping.

The Antituberculosis Society has completed arrangements for the sale of Christmas seals to start immediately after Thanksgiving. Miss Fanny Herbert has been treasurer of the local society for twenty years, and her zeal and ability has been a largely contributing factor in the success of the organization.

These seals are never sold on the streets by children, but accredited members of the society will be in banks and stores to make sales.

Alva Aerie, No. 871, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at its meeting on Tuesday night presented John D. Normoyle with a silver loving cup in recognition of faithful and efficient services as treasurer of that lodge for 25 years. The presentation on behalf of the lodge was made by Albert G. Schlag, past president, while a talk was also given by J. D. Fuller, of Richmond, a State official of the order.

A verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury in the Corporation Court yesterday in the appeal case of W. M. Parker, dairyman, who some time ago was fined $50 in Police Court for having in his possession a milk bottle belonging to another dairy company.

In the case of D. J. Neville, a nonresident, given a year in jail for having in his possession a pistol, 60 days in jail was given, allowance being made for the time already spent.

Nolle prosses were entered in the cases of Willie Baylor, appeal from fine for assault; Thelma Polen, appeal from prohibition fine, and Joseph Jasper, appeal from conviction of having alleged lottery tickets.

Judge William P. Wolls presided.

Members of Osceola Tribe, No. 1, and Seminole Tribe, No. 35, Improved Order of Red Men, will leave Pythian Temple, 319 Cameron street, at 6:30 tomorrow evening to attend a meeting in Herndon, Va., of Red Men of tribes in the district designated as No. 1.

MILLS SEEK RULING TO STOP PICKETING

Department of Labor Is Not Prepared to Act Now in Danville Strike.

AGENT VISITS AT MILL

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 19.—No intervention by the Federal Department of Labor in the Danville textile strike will be attempted by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis at this time, according to word received here this evening from Washington. Hugh L. Kerwin, commissioner of conciliation, made the statement when inquirers who pressed Mr. Davis for a decision were referred to him.

Mr. Kerwin revealed for the first time, however, that agents of the Department of Labor under Kerwin have conferred with H. R. Fitzgerald, president of the Dan River Cotton Mills, after a committee of strikers saw Mr. Davis last week.

Report Denied.

When it was suggested that the decision not to intervene at this time was due to information which the Federal agent had received from Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Kerwin said: "I would not say that."

The textile mills have taken another legal step in the strike and secured today in the Pittsylvania Circuit Court a supplemental bill of injunction designed to bar pickets from hindering workers going to the mills.

The original injunction was filed against the officials of the union. The supplemental bill mentions 31 strikers by name. It was also learned that the mill counsel will seek to make the temporary injunction permanent, on November 25. Under present rulings the injunction is due to expire December 1.

Bonded to Keep Peace.

Harvey Boyter alleged to have used insulting language to Hardin duty mill workers, a few days ago, today began serving ten days in jail. Upon conviction of the offense, his wife pleaded with Magistrate Carter to suspend the jail term, but the magistrate refused, pointing out that it was the second time he had been convicted of such an offense within a week. Boyter must also post a bond of $500 to keep the peace for six months.

Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers, returned to Danville today and addressed the union members at a closed meeting.

PETITION ON POWER RATE HEARING FILED

EARNING INCREASE CITED

Petition for a public hearing on rate reduction plans of the Potomac Electric Power Co. for next year was filed with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday by William McK. Clayton, representing the Federation of Citizens' Associations.

The federation bases its stand on charges that the present earnings of the company are in excess of 10 per cent of its valuation; that there is no depreciation on the valuation figures upon which this percentage is based; that the company deducts Federal income taxes as operating expense, and that the interest paid on its depreciation fund is too low.

The commission already had been considering the possibility of a public hearing on the matter for other reasons. If such hearing is held, it will be the first time since 1924 that Washington's electricity rates have been fixed other than by private amicable agreement.

After lengthy litigation, an agreement was reached betwen the company and the commission, and ratified by equity court, under which the company was permitted to earn 7½ per cent of a compromise valuation figure with any future net additions. Any excess over this 7½ per cent must be divided evenly, the company retaining half in cash and returning the other 50 per cent to its customers through rate reductions for the following year.

Each rate cut, however, has resulted in increased consumption of electric current, with the result that the company's earnings have grown larger year after year.

The federation's petition will come before the commission at its meeting this morning. The point which the commission had planned to settle by means of a public hearing was the question of the figure at which the company's building at Fourteenth and B streets, bought by the Government, is to be retired from valuation.

Ruling on Jurisdiction In Divorce Case Sought

The suit for divorce of Catherine Filene Dodd, of Washington, against Alvin E. Dodd, was referred to John M. Whalen, master commissioner of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, yesterday, by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. The suit was filed October 23 by Mrs. Dodd, who gave her Fairfax county residence as Wolf Trap Farm, near Vienna, Va. She charges her husband with wilful desertion in 1928 and asks custody of their daughter and a settlement of property rights, according to a written agreement.

Commissioner Whalen was instructed by the court to make inquiry as to whether it had jurisdiction in the suit, if the divorce should be granted. If such right is found, ruling is desired as to which party should receive—suggestion regarding proper settlement of property rights, if a divorce should be granted.

Two Sons Save Mother As Fire Destroys Home

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 19.—Her clothing set on fire by the explosion of a lamp while she was engaged in quilting at a late hour last night, Mrs. R. H. Tate, of Watts Crossings, was rescued from an upstairs room with great difficulty by her two sons before the seven-room frame building collapsed, a total loss.

Her hands were badly burned. The husband was spending the night with relatives in charlottesville.

Student Leaves School and Borrows Rifle; Note Left to Father.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 19.—Leaving his studies at Meriweather Lewis School at noon with the announced intention of going to work, Earl Overton Mitchell, 15, went to the home of his grandfather, Andrew Ballard, near Stephens Crossing, and secured a rifle on the plea of going hunting.

An hour later an aunt, Miss Pearl Ballard, found a note left by the youth containing only one sentence, "Father, I shot myself."

Going to the hunting field she located the boy's lifeless body with a bullet hole in the forehead. Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Mitchell, of Ivy, the youth leaves four brothers and one sister.

MILDRED HUSTON UP FOR SPEEDING

OTHER DRIVER FINED $10

Miss Mildred Huston, 20-year-old daughter of Claudius Huston, former chairman of the Republican national committee, was haled into Traffic Court yesterday on the charge of speeding at a 50-mile-an-hour clip. She offered the unique excuse that three college boys in another automobile were chasing her and she stepped on the gas for fear she would be accosted. It failed to win her an outright acquittal, but, on the plea of her attorney, Thomas E. Bradley, that she was soon to leave Washington on a round-the-world trip, Judge Schuldt took her personal bond.

Edmund S. Morse, of Georgetown University, driver of the "pursuing" automobile, however, did not get off so lightly, having to dig down and surrender a $10 note. He, too, was charged with speeding.

Riding With Sister.

With Miss Huston at the time was Mrs. Fulton Lewis jr., her sister. Miss Huston stated they were en route to the sister's home in Foxhall Village from the Wardman Park Hotel, and drove by the Mayflower Hotel for a short visit. Leaving that hostelry, she said a powerful automobile began to trail them and when they would stop, the other machine also would halt.

Miss Huston said she started to call the attention of a traffic policeman to the pursuing car, but was swerved from that intention when the other machine seemed to turn. The other car, however, did not turn, she said, so she speeded up as did the other car. Her whole purpose was to get to her sister's house before the other car caught up with her machine, she declared.

Judge Schuldt asked Miss Huston if she thought the young men were thieves, to which she replied, "I didn't know who they were." Then followed other questions, and finally the judge's statement that he did not believe she had to speed in the city at 30 miles an hour under any condition.

Judge Refuses Dismissal.

Attorney Bradley asserted that a person, when he believes danger is near, has a right to go as fast as is necessary to avoid it. The attorney also asked that the charge be dismissed so as not to interfere with his client's plans, but the judge pointed out that he has a policy not to dismiss cases except in matters of life and death.

Policeman V. V. Vaughn, of the Traffic Bureau, the arresting policeman, told the court that the young woman and the college boys seemed to be racing.

Morse made no effort to fight the charge, but after being fined $10, remarked as he settled: "Who said the woman always pays?"

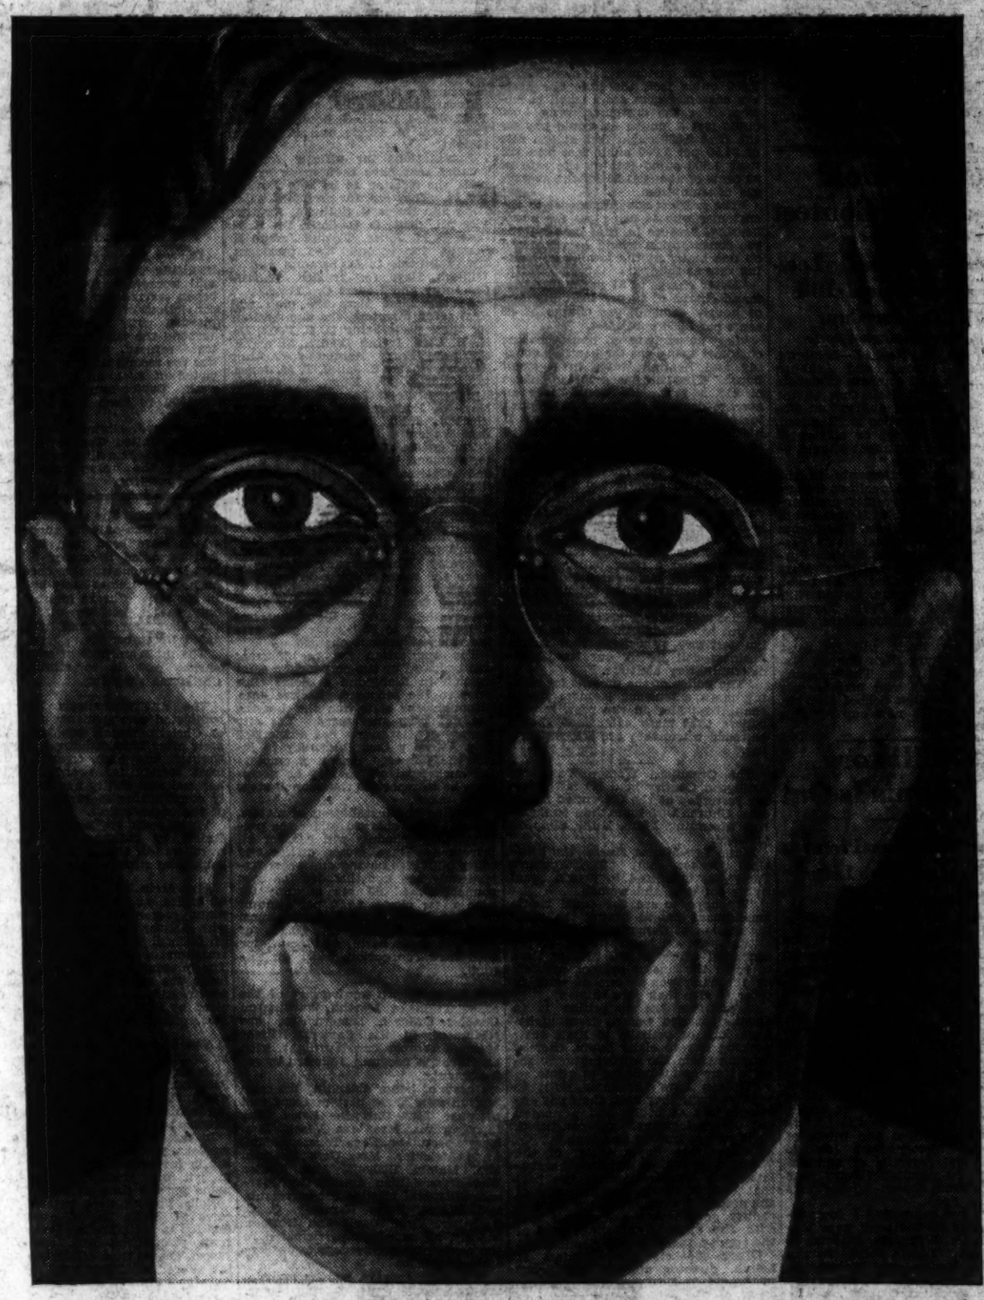
"Enterprising Management"



Says

THOMAS J. SPELLACY

Formerly Assistant Attorney General of United States

Member Connecticut Senate (1907-11)

"Public servants, interested in the general prosperity, are bound to hail with satisfaction such outstanding successes as that of your company in the recent months of business depression. The use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of your tobaccos is surely an evidence of the extent to which your enterprising management has gone to establish and maintain the quality of your product. It is obvious that the reason for your success lies in this spirit of enterprise."

BOB LEAVES HIDING; PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Promoter Quits Absence of Six Weeks to Deny Larceny Charges.

$97,000,000 SUM INVOLVE

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Charles V. Bob, mining engineer, friend of aviation and stock promoter, emerged today from six weeks of hiding to plead not guilty to three indictments charging larceny of $97,000 in alleged fraudulent stock sales.

Allegations of irregularity in the affairs of several companies headed by Bob caused him no evident discomposure. He walked blithely into District Attorney Crain's office with his attorney this noon, nodded to acquaintances and laughed merrily over a joke somebody made.

Nor did he lose any of his aplomb later as he was taken to police headquarters, where the whorls on the fingers that signed a large check to aid the Byrd expedition to the South Pole, were added to the roster of fingerprints.

General Sessions Judge Allen released Bob in $35,000 bail and permitted his counsel three weeks to present motions.

Two of three others indicted with Bob yesterday surrendered during the day and were arraigned with him. The identity of the fourth person was withheld by District Attorney Crain.

The two arraigned today were Bob's younger brother, Beverly, charged with larceny of $30,000, and Louis P. Jubien, a business associate, charged with larceny of $20,000. Beverly Bob was freed in $5,000 bail and Jubien in $2,500 after the younger Bob had pleaded not guilty and Jubien had been given a week to enter a plea.

Former District Attorney Banton, counsel for the Bob brother, said, "Mr. Bob and his brother will assist the authorities in every way possible to untangle their business affairs and will assist also in the criminal situation."

Bob's associates said the promoter had been in New York since last Saturday, although his previous whereabouts had been kept secret even from his wife, who sold the contents of their Fifth avenue home last week to raise money.

Air Victim Loses Memory of Crash

Hospital Patient Unable to Recall Tragedy in Which Three Died.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 19.—Ten days after he was badly injured in an airplane crash near here that claimed three lives, Paul Rimel, 24, of this county, still is unable to recall any of the events connected with the fatal trip.

Samuel A. Driver and Greenlee P. Boserman, both of Augusta, and Jairus Collins, jr., of Bluefield, W. Va., pilot of the cabin plane, were killed almost instantly and Rimel was partly conscious when pulled from the wreckage.

He is still a hospital patient here with a broken leg and a broken arm his principal injuries. However, his mind has not cleared regarding the events immediately before the crash.

Highway Session Favors Expansion

Wider Building Program Outlined as Relief for Unemployment.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Plans to expand road building programs to aid in relieving unemployment were outlined in resolutions adopted by the American Association of State Highway Officials as they concluded their annual convention here today.

The convention, asked by President Hoover's employment committee to aid in remedying conditions, passed a resolution asking a "substantial emergency Federal appropriation to be set up and expended under the existing Federal highway legislation."

In addition a "substantial emergency fund" was asked for the States, to be used for matching Federal funds and to be later repaid by the States.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE TURNS TO FIGHT BACK AT CRITICS

Has Defensive Note.

More significance in the light of the movement to displace the league's dry leadership was attached to that part of the statement setting forth the importance of the league in the dry scheme of things. It marked a departure in the league's statements and had a decided defensive note.

It refers innocently to the league, for example, as the organization "which led the fight for the elimination of the saloon."

"Although there are more than 30 different organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment," the statement said naively, "the Antisaloon League is by far the largest. It is nonsectarian, nonpartisan, and is a national organization and has an organization in every State. Its present budget is approximately $1,500,000 a year, which is many times that of any of the other prohibition organizations. Other bodies have indorsed this movement and are giving their support to it through the Antisaloon League."

Drys Expect Showdown.

The statement gives every indication to say the least, that the league is perking up.

In dry circles there has been the expectation that the movement against it would come to a showdown at the annual meeting here in December of the 30 or more organizations of which Dr. McBride speaks. Until then it is being widely described in the secular press as "but a shell of its former self," and there has been considerable evidence of late that it is losing its political hold.

The State organizations are in a large degree responsible for the league's decline. Dr. McBride has explained that they are autonomies and not subject to dictation from Washington. In this form some of them have come to be nothing more than political agencies to be bartered among rival political groups. In Colorado recently it was disclosed that the league superintendent was supporting a candidate who had invested in his stock promotion while the opposing candidate was just as dry.

Prepares Life Fight.

The belief has been increasing in political circles hereabouts, however, that the dry cause as such, instead of dying was preparing to make the fight of its life.

And while there has been no expression at the White House, the impression has been growing, and with many little tit-bits of evidence to give it weight, that Mr. Hoover instead of changing his attitude, will by 1932 be definitely committed to the dry cause.

Already there have been political developments in New York which pave the way for him to undo the prohibition squabble in which the party seemed lost there, and if the reports concerning the National Law Enforcement Commission can be relied upon that body of fact-finders, apparently headed wet a few weeks ago, are now headed dry.

Will Offer Career.

All things considered, the dry field in which no ambitious father would have bidden his son seeks a career a short while back, is coming around to offer considerable promise to the right man. And the Antisaloon League wants most intensely to be that man.

The talk of selecting another Wayne B. Wheeler from such availables as Senator Fess, Senator Borah or Gifford Pinchot, is disheartening to such a veteran as it is.

GAS LOUDSPEAKER BRINGS FORTH MUSIC

ume of current passing through the flame. This current carried the voice and musical electrical impulses just like a telephone wire.

Mr. Grace next put on the premier performance of a device which he said for the first time records perfectly the highest note of a violin. He was assisted by R. M. Pease.

The device is a new sound unit which works much like having a fly riding a phonograph record.

The sound track in this record is cut in up and down undulations, instead of the usual side to side groove. The pick-up riding the record is barely a sixteenth of an inch in diameter, and including its sapphire needle weighs 5 milligrams, or about one-tenth the weight of a postage stamp.

This fine pick-up, Mr. Grace said, records sound vibrations up to 12,000 oscillations a second, sufficient to "get the last upper note of a violin and bring it out in all its brilliancy."

Heretofore, he said, the upper recording limit which could be used without fuzziness has been around 8,000 cycles.

The device still is incomplete. After the perfected sound is recorded in the original disc there is yet no method of electroplating as smooth a track as the original. Microscopical roughness in the plating is translated by the fly needle into a high pitched sound. Research is under way to smooth the plated track more completely.

KIDNAPING CHARGES AGAINST 5 DROPPED

FEAR VIEWED AS MOTIVE

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Felony charges against five St. Louis gangsters for the kidnaping and holding of Sam Scorfina, wealthy St. Louis grocer, for ransom July 12 last, were dismissed by the State in circuit court here late today after Scorfina had repudiated his identification of the men. Scorfina was arrested for perjury. The State, after vainly trying to get Scorfina to identify his alleged abductors nolle prossed the cases against the five men, releasing two of the unconditionally, but holding the other three on a technical robbery charge.

Frank Agruso, reputed head of the St. Louis Mafia, and Vito Impastato, were those released while Sora Mantia, Mike Lombardo and Baptista Bommarito were held. Scorfina's failure to identify the men came as a complete surprise as taking of testimony began this afternoon with the St. Louis grocer as the first witness. State's Attorney Lindauer said that just before Scorfina was called he had got changed his story told the grand jury that the five men were his kidnapers.

The State was seeking to send the five to the electric chair for the crime, a capital offense in Illinois.

Scorfina has feared for his life since he escaped from his kidnapers after being held four days at an old farm near Ste. Genevieve, Mo., and since he named the five as his abductors. He has been under heavy police guard in his St. Louis home and was brought to court here today in a bullet-proof police limousine from St. Louis, guarded by fourten St. Louis policemen, one armed with a machine gun.

Scorfina refused repeatedly to identify the men as his kidnapers, although he testified Agruss and Impasto had extorted several thousand dollars from him prior to the kidnaping. He also said he saw Mantia at thte farm near Ste. Genevieve while he was held, together with Carl Fjorito, a defendant, who has not been apprehended.

Mooers, Charles Scott Sykes and J. Mark Trice.

Brotherhoods Hit Waterway Plans

Extension of Federal Taxation and Regulation to All Carriers Favored.

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Five major railway brotherhoods today voiced opposition to the Government's program of inland waterway development and demanded extension of Federal taxation and regulation to other carriers.

The resolution was adopted at a conference of the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, Railway Conductors, Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Railway Trainmen and the Switchmen's Union of North America. The five bodies, according to their officers, represent more than 350,000 American and Canadian railway workers.

A method to relieve unemployment in the trainmen's ranks will be discussed again tomorrow, following failure of the 70C chairmen to vote today on a proposal submitted by a subcommittee of 25 delegates.

Community Meeting Tonight.

The fall meeting of the Community Center Department of the District will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Franklin Administration Building. Miss Sibyl Baker, director, will read her annual report. Plans will be announced for developments next year.

THE BANKING SITUATION.

The closing this week of 69 banks in six Central and South Central States will lend impetus to the forthcoming Senate hearings on the subject of banking and the need for revising the banking laws. In Arkansas, where 53 banks were closed, and in Kentucky, where 8 banks suspended payments, the closings were precautionary, to prevent possible runs resulting from the failure of Caldwell & Co., a Tennessee investment banking house. In Missouri and Illinois the closings were due to failure of larger institutions in which the banks affected had large deposits.

While in most cases officers of the affected banks elected to close their institutions purely for the protection of depositors, and while most of the closings may be regarded as temporary the extent of the closings offers a dramatic illustration of the interdependence of individual banks in the present-day banking system. Some of the closed Kentucky banks were owned in part by Bancokentucky, a holding corporation organized seventeen months ago, which, it has been rumored, was affiliated with Caldwell & Co. Ramifications of the Kentucky failures extend as far as New York. The Chemical Bank & Trust Co., of that city, has filed suit against Bancokentucky to protect loans aggregating $1,600,000 made to Bancokentucky in June and October.

Congress is interesting itself in the banking system and is considering the need for new banking legislation because of the large number of bank failures since the war and because there is a growing demand that national banks be permitted to go in for some of the newer tendencies in banking. Chain and group banking, it has been said, must be permitted if smaller banks are to be protected from failure and if all communities are to be provided with adequate banking facilities. With 69 closings in six States in two days, it does appear that something is wrong with the present-day banking system. Congress will be called upon to decide whether these closings indicate a need for reversion to the older principles or the need for a new deal in banking legislation.

NEW SHORT-LINE RAILROAD.

It was to have been expected that the Eastern railroads would oppose the application of the New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago Railroad Co. for a certificate of public convenience and necessity that would enable it to construct 283 miles of new railroad across the State of Pennsylvania from Easton, on the New Jersey border, to Etna, near Pittsburgh. In the long and involved story of reallocation, the Eastern roads have shown little disposition to subordinate their selfish interests to the public good. They have been willing to take but not to give. A similar spirit is evidenced in the argument against the granting of the certificate. It is asserted that the new company could acquire traffic "only by diverting it from existing lines." This is the argument the Eastern railroads seemingly are depending upon to influence the Interstate Commerce Commission to turn down the application.

The New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago Railroad Co. was organized to carry out an original plan of the late E. H. Harriman, on behalf of the estate of whom L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson, is acting. The proposed construction would involve a total expenditure of $177,000,000. Four years would be required to build the road. Some 20,000 men would be employed on the project. The road would provide a new "short" "low grade" route between New York and Chicago. The construction of this road would be of immense benefit to the public at this time of slack work.

Construction of a line linking Easton and Etna would shorten the rail haul between New York and Chicago, as compared to the shortest present route, by 75 miles. The saving, expressed in per cent of present shortest distance, would be 8.3. Between New York and Columbus, the saving would be 74 miles, or 11.9 per cent; between New York and Youngstown, 64 miles or 13.3 per cent, and between New York and Pittsburgh, 74 miles, or 17.2 per cent. Moreover, the proposed new road would have no eastbound grade over 0.3 per cent and no [illegible] grade over 0.4 per cent as compared to grades running up to 1 per cent both eastbound and westbound on a "low grade" route the Baltimore & Ohio proposes to build. On existing lines grades run up as high as 1.8 per cent. The shorter haul and the absence of heavy grades would enable the New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago to operate at minimum costs.

By opposing the New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago in its plans, the Eastern roads take a stand in the path of progress. They can find no basis for contending that their several routes are superior to the proposed new route; they have had to admit that the New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago would be able to haul freight and passengers between the Atlantic seaboard and the West more cheaply, more efficiently and at considerable time savings if it were to carry through its construction program. They say: "Since we are already in the field, the Government must protect us from competition. Shippers must be compelled to continue to dispatch their goods over tortuous routes at excessive costs, to the end that our capital investment be protected. There shall be no advance in the efficiency of the Eastern transportation machine except as it may be made by ourselves."

The American transportation system is efficient because of healthy competition. If, as seems to be the case, the only argument against the proposed road is that it would compete with existing carriers, the certificate required to permit the inauguration of work should be issued forthwith. As the country develops, the railroads will be called upon to move goods in ever-increasing volume. There will be plenty of traffic in the Eastern territory to support the established roads and a new road. Before many years pass, the established roads will have their facilities taxed serving the transportation needs of the territory through which they pass directly. There is no economic excuse for the diversion of traffic over roundabout routes when capital is ready to provide direct routes.

If the United States had refused to permit construction of new railroads because they would become competitors of existing lines, this country would never have developed its magnificent railroad systems.

WASTE OF TAX MONEY.

The ever-rising cost of State and local government is generally extenuated on the ground that the services of these agencies are also rapidly expanding. Obviously that is a lame approach to the subject. The question to be considered is not whether the States have taken on new functions, but whether the taxpayer is getting full value out of his tax dollar.

The National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers, which held its convention in New York this week, says he is not. These men who audit, disburse and account for State funds should know better than any other group whether or not the funds are wisely distributed. The indictment of State and municipal policies in fiscal matters by this convention ought to arouse legislatures and city councils.

W. S. Johnson, president of the association, said his experience has convinced him that at least 40 cents of every tax dollar collected in the United States is wasted. Taxation is needlessly high because the principles of judicious spending are not applied to State and local budgets. Individuals and business institutions had a total income last year of $87,000,000,000, according to Mr. Johnson. Taxes took $13,000,000,000 of that amount. In addition millions of dollars were raised for public expenditure through bond issues, all of which must be repaid at some future time. The average wage earner, he said, contributes one day's work each week toward the upkeep of governmental agencies.

Employment of more help than is necessary to do the work of governmental units was especially condemned. "A few years ago," Mr. Johnson said, "it required 1 person out of every 22 to administer our governments—National, State and local—but today it is 1 out of every 10. This number could and should be reduced by 25 per cent. We must stop paying political debts and obligations out of the public treasury."

This problem is especially timely now when taxation is a great burden to the people. No one would advocate cutting down the public pay rolls while the depression lasts. Nevertheless, the drain upon taxpayers to support more employes than are actually needed to do the work of government delays the return to prosperity and dissipates the effect of good times when they arrive. Wasteful expenditure by public agencies can easily make a wealthy nation poor. The time is ripe for the States, municipalities and counties to do a real job of financial retrenchment. If the findings of the auditors and treasurers are correct, the States do not need to curtail their services to the public in order to reduce the tax burden.

PALESTINE IMMIGRATION.

Airing of the Palestine question in Parliament was followed with interest throughout the world. The Labor government's new policy of curtailing immigration of Jews to the Holy Land has met with vigorous protest from Zionist organizations in nearly every country. Jewish interests have looked forward to discussion of the subject in Parliament in the hope that the policy might be modified.

It is evident that the government has no intention of changing its position as outlined in the white paper issued by Lord Passfield, the colonial secretary. One concession is to be made, however, and it may have the effect of mollifying the Zionists. Great Britain will furnish a loan of approximately $12,500,000 for development of an agricultural project. This has the effect of softening the effects of the new policy, but it does not change the fundamental position of the government that Jewish immigrants must not be allowed to settle in Palestine any faster than they can be absorbed into the economic life of the country.

The loan is intended in the first place to relieve Arabs who have been dispossessed of their lands by the influx of Jews. Provision will be made for the settlement of about 10,000 families. When the landless Arabs have been taken care of the balance of the land will be available to families of both races. The ultimate effect will be to hasten economic development and make possible further immigration of Jews to the Holy Land.

David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberals, delivered a scathing denunciation of the new policy and accused the government of failure to carry out the terms of the mandate given by the League of Nations. But he completely ignored the fundamental fact that immigration of Jews into Palestine without regard for the economic capacity of the country to absorb them would be suicidal. Any argument which disregards the economic stability of the country as well as the necessity for promoting good will and maintaining peace is not worth considering.

The Zionists are disappointed by the policy of slower immigration. But they would be far more disappointed within a few years if they should find the national home for the Jewish people filled with starving people, or embroiled in a civil war. The Zionist movement can undoubtedly attain a measure of success, however, if its leaders abide by the fundamental laws of economics.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA.

A rousing welcome has been arranged in honor of John Philip Sousa, upon his arrival in Washington today. The famous bandmaster's name is indissolubly connected with that of the National Capital, and incidentally with that of The Washington Post. He is still a legal resident of the city in which his fame began, but in a large sense he is a resident of the entire world.

Some individuals seem to think, because John Philip Sousa's once piratical beard is now sprinkled with the snow of years, that he is subject to the tyranny of Time. But not so. Music not only hath charms to soothe the savage breast, but its creators attain immortality through their works. John Philip Sousa is one of the immortals who have become independent of years. Time may envy them, but he can not destroy them. The most hopeless task that Time has ever undertaken is his attempt to erase music from the world—real music, sprightly music, soul music, such as cheers the heart, enlarges the spirit and puts man in harmony with the universe.

So long as Time himself does business at the old stand, John Philip Sousa's music will reverberate around the world and stir the blood of mankind. Washington honors itself when it tenders homage to its great citizen.

ONE VOTE

By W. H. SMITH.

The narrow margin by which some of the members of Congress were reelected and others defeated again emphasizes the importance of voting. There have been times when the change of a single vote would have worked profound changes in our Government.

As an illustration of this fact take the election of President in 1800. Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr each received 74 electoral votes. John Adams received 63. Had one of those who voted for Adams voted for Burr, he would have become President instead of Jefferson. In view of what occurred afterward the mind is fairly startled to think what might have happened had Burr been President instead of Jefferson. On the other hand, had one of the Adams votes been cast for Jefferson, he would have been elected without resort to the House of Representatives, and he and Burr would have remained friends. In that case Burr would have been reelected in 1804 and would have been Jefferson's successor in 1808, instead of Madison.

On the last ballot in the Republican national convention in 1860 Mr. Lincoln lacked two votes of receiving the nomination. The result of the balloting had been handed to the president of the convention. Before he could announce it the chairman of the Ohio delegation arose and stated Ohio desired to change its vote, taking away four from Judge McLean and giving them to Mr. Lincoln. Had they been given to Seward he would have been the nominee. Great statesman as he was, it is extremely doubtful if he could have safely carried the country through the crisis which followed.

The vote of one farmer in DeKalb County, Ind., has been credited with bringing on the war with Mexico, with all its tremendous results of giving to the United States the vast empire now composing the States of New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah, Nevada and California, and making, first, Gen. Taylor President, and then Franklin Pierce.

Late on election afternoon the farmer remembered he had promised to vote for his friend, the Democratic candidate for the Legislature. He mounted his horse and rapidly rode more than 10 miles to the voting place. He arrived just as the polls were about to close. He cast his ballot. His friend was elected by one vote. A United States senator was to be elected. Edward A. Hannegan was the Democratic candidate. He was elected by one vote. The member from DeKalb County, who had been elected by one vote, voted for Hannegan. In the Senate, after long resistance, Hannegan voted for the resolution declaring war against Mexico, the resolution being adopted by one vote.

On another occasion a single vote elected a senator from Indiana, and probably resulted in the nomination and election of the defeated candidate as President. In 1837 Senator Benjamin Harrison was a candidate to succeed himself, but was defeated by one vote. Two years later he was nominated and elected President. In the election in 1886 one Republican legislative candidate had been defeated by three votes and another by five votes. Had four stay-at-home Republicans attended the polls that day and six in the other case Senator Harrison would have been reelected, and, in all probability, would not have received the nomination for President in 1888.

In the campaign of 1884 the change of fewer than 800 votes in the State of New York would have given the electoral vote of that State to Mr. Blaine, making him President instead of Mr. Cleveland. Had he been elected then he would, in all probability, have been renominated and reelected in 1888, and neither Cleveland nor Harrison would have held that high office.

In 1877 the Electoral Commission gave the Presidency to Hayes by one vote.

Andrew Johnson was impeached by the House of Representatives. He escaped conviction in the Senate by one vote.

The nomination of John Marshall as Chief Justice of the United States was confirmed by the Senate by one vote.

JAPAN LOVES BASEBALL.

Will the day come when the teams competing for the world's championship represent two nations, instead of one, as at present, asks the Rockford Register-Republic?

Such a situation is conjured as a result of the rapid progress baseball is making in Japan.

Coach Nelson Norgren, of the University of Chicago team, which recently made a tour of Japan, reports an astonishing increase in public interest in the game since his former visit to that country five years ago. Every youngster, it seemed to him, plays baseball now. The college games have drawn crowds of 70,000 people. They are the country's leading sporting events.

The Japanese teams have improved so rapidly under good coaching and a great amount of practice, that the Americans could do no better than break even in sixteen games. Even the prep schools have thoroughly organized baseball leagues.

The Japanese are an ambitious and thorough people in their undertakings. They have taken to baseball with an enthusiasm that has made it their national sport. And this means undoubtedly that they look ahead to the day when they will match wits and skill with America's champions.

THE WHIFFENS AND SPIFFENS.

"Times are bad," said Neighbor Whiffen, "and I don't know when they'll mend.
I have a little money, but I do not dare to spend.
So many men are out of work and everyone is blue.
I was going to buy another suit, but I'll make the old one do."

Said Neighbor Spiffen: "You are right. The outlook's very bad.
I should have bought an overcoat. It's time that one I had.
And I was on my way to town to purchase one, but I
Have decided since I met you for the present not to buy."

Went Whiffen and went Spiffen with their faces long and black,
Both wondering in sadness when good times are coming back.

And they whispered very dolefully along their dreary groove:
"We're afraid to spend a dollar and we won't 'til times improve."

Every time I meet the Whiffens and Spiffens I could curse,
For instead of helping business they are making matters worse.

Till the Whiffens and the Spiffens start to buy the things they need.

Wild Ponies Raised on Natural Hay Never Learn to Like Corn.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME months ago a lady who is interested in the welfare of children wrote to me for help. The parents of her community meet at intervals to discuss their problems, and she thought some good might be accomplished if the problems were stated in the form of questions and sent to me for answer.

Moved more by curiosity than hope, I agreed to attempt the role of Solomon. When the first questions came, I pondered over them with an ever-increasing sense of impotence and despair. I was whipped. Solomon himself could not have answered one of them intelligently.

"How can I teach my daughter of 15 to prefer the society of manly and honorable boys?"

How easy it would be to answer a question such as that if glib platitudes could solve problems! How difficult to answer it wisely without first asking questions!

The girl herself is not the whole of the problem.

There are parents and grandparents and great-grandparents whose weaknesses and oddities and temperaments and tastes meet in her and struggle for supremacy. What kind of people were they?

There are friends young and old who have for years exerted an influence for good or evil. What kind of influence was it?

Novels and short stories of many kinds have combined to establish ideals of manhood and womanhood. What kind of stories were they?

Motion pictures and stage plays have influenced the formation of tastes and standards. What was their influence?

And, finally, the parents and the other children in the home, by their daily example—their discussions, their chidings, their praise and their sympathy—have provided an atmosphere from which the girl has absorbed faiths and doubts, virtues and faults, preferences and dislikes that are as much a part of her as the color of her eyes.

How can anybody teach her to like or dislike certain qualities in other people? She has already been taught. The blood in her veins and the things she has read and heard and seen, and, most of all, the atmosphere of her home, have taught her things that can not be untaught.

Parents ask advice fifteen years too late.

A child doesn't learn ideals as it learns arithmetic. It absorbs them. And the only way under heaven to teach it the right ideals is to begin at the cradle and provide the right ideals for it to absorb.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Idaho's Big Potato.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

It is a waste of time to look for inference, implication, innuendo or insinuation in anything William E. Borah says. He will neither be stampeded into ill-considered action by the fear that deliberation might be stigmatized as dilatory tactics nor inveigled into a filibuster. This is Borah speaking for Borah. There is egotism in his make-up, but it is the egotism of self-respect. Idaho is the home of the big potato, of which Idaho is proud enough to grade and brand its produce, "A-1," to prevent its being mingled and handled with the general run of potatoes in bulk. Senator Borah is no small potato in Washington; no "leader" of any faction speaks for him or delivers his vote.

Wickersham Report—Who Cares?

Baltimore Sun.

One thing at least is certain about the Wickersham commission, and that is it will be a blessed relief when its report is actually filed and this overadvertised, overstressed, overvalued detail begins to pale into something like its true proportions. The absurdity of supposing that the people are going to let the commission make up their minds for them, is just a little too much.

Taught by the Enemy.

New York Times.

Following Democratic example, President Hoover and the permanent officers of the Republican national committee conferring with him have decided that it shall be busy all the time instead of remaining largely otiose and concentrating its activities on the few months before a presidential election. The results of the elections have convinced the Republican managers that the uninterrupted sessions of Mr. Shouse's executive committee and its skillful and steady propaganda contributed effectively to Democratic success. The sooner the Republicans give up their squabblings and try to get into better shape for 1932, the better. The machine can be reorganized, whether the party can or not, before happier times. The marvelous Democratic revival, if due in part to Republican blunders, sprang mainly from forces beyond political control.

Would Unite Against Radicals.

Brooklyn Citizen (Democrat).

It is a mistake to believe that the country voted in favor of Government ownership and operation of Muscle Shoals, or in favor of the abolition of labor injunctions, or revision of the tariff or any other controversial issue except prohibition. In addition to prohibition, the country voted against the Republican party because of the business depression and unemployment, although the Democratic leaders were careful to point out in their speeches that they did not hold President Hoover any more responsible for the depression than Grover Cleveland was responsible for the depression in 1893.

The Citizen is in thorough accord with the manifesto of the seven Democratic leaders. What business needs today is a period of convalescence and an absolute rest from political controversies, which merely have a tendency to disturb business. The Borahs, the Pinchots, the Nyes and the other radicals are destructive rather than constructive forces. They have little popular support behind them and their demands should go unheeded by the conservative Republicans and Democrats.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Virginian Says Republicans Will Win in 1932 if They Nominate a Dry.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One reason why the Democratic party can not win a presidential election is that the Democrats deal in generalities between such elections. Take, for example, the result of the late election. The wet Democrats are claiming it is a victory. On the other hand, the dry Democrats claim it was a vote against the Smoot-Hawley tariff.

Both are wrong. The people were sore and discontented because they have not had permanent employment, and they showed their resentment by casting their votes against "Hoover's administration," although a lot of them admitted that Mr. Hoover was not responsible for either the depression or the drought. I submit, therefore, that it was a fifty-fifty break—neither a victory for the Democrats, nor for the Republicans.

As to the next presidential election the Democrats will most certainly nominate a wet for President. It follows, therefore, that the Republicans should, and will, nominate a dry. The Republicans will win the next election, unless they make the fatal mistake of nominating a wet, in which case Pinchot will be nominated as a dry Republican and will either be elected President, or cause the election of the Democratic candidate. If the Republicans are wise and sane, they will stop all this talk of a wet Republican for President in 1932.

Finally, this is not the view of a pro-Hoover or fanatical dry, but one who favored the great and only Charles G. Dawes for President in 1928. A. SIDNEY JOHNSTON.

No Discrimination Should Be Made Against Women Who Are Compelled to Work.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We do not question the assertion that women seek positions outside the home for pin money or extra luxuries. Nevertheless, it is also true that there are many fine, hard-working, self-sacrificing women who much prefer the home, but are unfortunately forced into gainful occupations because of the necessity to aid in the support of their families. They are deserving of every consideration, if the families comprise aged parents, brothers and sisters of school age, or any incapacitated relative or dependent.

There should be no antagonism between the sexes, and there would be, none if our laws insured equal rights and if those who administer the laws could be depended upon to apply equal laws justly, regardless of sex. Laws can be made, but can not be enforced until we wake up to the fact that youth of both sexes must be educated from infancy in personal responsibility and justice.

Foreign Susceptibilities Wounded by Some American Films, But No Offense Meant.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some foreign countries object to the character of American films.

If objection to American pictures is based upon the circumstance that they do not do justice to the customs, manners and ways of foreign peoples, it is a matter that should be taken up with the American producers. Surely these producers do not err intentionally in this respect, but through ignorance of the ways of foreign peoples. American producers would not willingly offend their customers, and thus injure their own business. A little good-natured banter at the expense of foreigners does no harm, but only adds to the "gayety of nations." The peoples of every country like to poke well-meant fun at the peoples of other nations. It gives them a pardonable feeling of superiority. CHARLES HOOPER.

A Good Scout, Writes Mr. Bliss, Could Save, to the Hungry Poor, All That Nice, But Wasted Produce.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is well known that hundreds of carloads of produce are dumped every day, and that some of this produce is not even shipped, but allowed to go to waste.

Can not some good-natured scout be found with a surplus of money to pay for this produce and to distribute it for use by the unemployed? The present prices to the general public of such produce could still be maintained and rather than injure, it would help the trade.

Washington Should Have Splendid New Theater.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With the demolition of Poli's Theater here, the present and future generations deserve the attention of theater promoters in the construction of a magnificent theater in Washington. COURT SEEKS TRACE OF DIVORCEE'S SON Custody of Youth Given to Father, but Boy Has Never Been Located.

MOTHER IS SUMMONED

Paris, Nov. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The present whereabouts of Peter Gross, 7-year-old son of Christian Gross, grandson of Francis Burton Harrison, and great-grandson of Col. George Crocker, wealthy and socially prominent San Franciscan, is a mystery which the Grenoble courts are trying to solve.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Virginia Gross, and a Mexican citizen, Marius de Zayas, have been summoned before the court at the request of the boy's father, who is in the United States diplomatic service. The court has directed them to restore the boy to the father, as he was given custody of the child by a Chicago court last August when he obtained a divorce.

De Zayas, who also faces a charge of kidnaping, has admitted that the boy was under his name in another country to prevent the father from finding him.

Whereabouts of Boy Traced.

The boy is believed to be in England or Germany now, but for more than a year he was in an Austrian mountain resort part of the time and in a country place near Grenoble part of the time until detectives hired by the father succeeded in tracing him after he had been taken over the French frontier several times under an old diplomatic passport. At other times, detectives found, he was taken over the frontier on De Zayas' Mexican passport.

At the time of a separation in 1926 Gross was charge d'affaires in Haiti, his small daughter, Barbara, and Peter remaining with him until 1927 when the father temporarily left the boy with the mother.

This separation growing into an actual rupture, Gross was given a divorce this year, a Chicago judge awarding him custody of both children.

Daughter Born In 1928.

When the matter was aired yesterday before the Grenoble court it further developed that there was a daughter born in 1928 to Mrs. Gross and the question arose as to the child's legal father, which the Grenoble court will endeavor to establish.

Gross claimed that he is not father of the child as he had been in Haiti more than a year previous to the child's birth in Europe.

Under French law, however, children born during wedlock belong to the husband, regardless of absence.

gram. He said a definite plan of construction over a period of years had been outlined but that only a one-year program of construction had been prepared.

While construction of the dirigible ZRZ-5 does not necessarily hinge on selection of a site and construction of a West Coast air base, an indication that a second dirigible would be built was seen in proposals that a base be selected. Choice of the site rests between Sunnyvale, near San Francisco, and Camp Kearney, near San Diego, Calif.

Three Treaty Articles Adopted.

Geneva, Nov. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Three articles of a draft treaty for limiting the world's navies were adopted today by the preparatory disarmament commission, all embodying principles approved in the naval agreements negotiated at Washington in 1921-22 and at London last winter.

They provide a general limitation of total warship tonnage, additional limitation by classes of fighting ships and the right of transfer of a portion of the tonnage in one class into another. The spaces for figures are left blank for filling in later by the general disarmament conference.

An obvious attempt to jockey the American delegation into the position of being the only one favoring retention of the 35,000-ton battleship with 16-inch guns, permitted under the terms of the Washington and London treaties, was made today, but failed. The British, French, Japanese, Italians and Russians supported the idea of recommending to the general disarmament conference either limiting the size of battleships to a specific figure —the Russians suggested a 10,000-ton maximum—or to a maximum to be determined later.

Favored Blank Tables.

Despite the fact that the British previously accepted a joint memorandum prepared by seven delegations, which fixed the maximum size of dreadnaughts at the 35,000-ton figure of the London Naval Treaty, Lord Robert Cecil, London's spokesman, today advocated that the tables for figures be left blank.

This seeming desertion of Great Britain's earlier stand plainly exasperated Hugh S. Gibson, United States Ambassador to Belgium, who virtually laid down an ultimatum to the effect that if the table for battleship tonnage is left blank, then all other tables should likewise remain blank.

The American stand is predicated upon the theory that the London pact has disposed of the battleship question until 1936 and although the American delegation was willing at the time of the London naval conference to consider abolition of battleships or reduction in their size, Washington is not prepared to reopen the controversy here and now.

Gibson Fights Move.

The British, however, are opposed to reduction of the size of aircraft carriers below the 27,000-ton limit fixed in the Washington treaty—a reduction which the American delegation apparently favors. This led Gibson to adopt the attitude that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander and to his demand that every table or none should be left blank. The question of limiting the size of aircraft carriers will be debated tomorrow.

The small naval powers won a partial victory today in their demand for unrestricted right of transfer from one class to another of ships in fleets totaling less than 100,000 tons. The commission agreed to the principle of transfer rights with a reservation that some limit be fixed for the percentage of such fleets which may be put into submarines.

KING GEORGE OPENING INDIA CONFERENCE

INDIAN CONFERENCE MAY END IN FAILURE

Disruption Predicted Today if Premier's Address Widens Breach.

TENSE AIR PREVAILS

lishing an all-Indian united front, for the Sikhs in the Punjab still make demands which the Moslems will not grant. Sardar Ujjal Singh, for the Sikhs, sought fair play in the conference today and strongly hinted that his race represents the fighting force of the new India.

Other British delegates from the Liberal and Tory parties are making no bones about saying privately that their colleagues, who are members of the labor government, have no policy and they won't count themselves—or don't know—on how Mr. MacDonald will meet the Indian demands.

The oratorical sensation of the conference today was a violent speech demanding full independence for India, charging the British with unmentionable atrocities in suppressing demonstrators and breathing defiance, delivered by Maula Mohammed Ali, most influential man among the founders of the All-India Muslim League, who failed recently to reconcile differences between Mahatma Gandhi, still in prison in India, and the viceroy, Lord Irwin.

Unlike Any Other Document.

Probably no such document has ever been issued before by officials of the British government, but the speech was handed out in full to the press as proof that secret sessions do not mean suppression of news.

Lord Peel's lyrical praise of the services rendered to India by Great Britain had just been compared by Dr. B. S. Moonje to the services rendered a cow by a villager—in return for the milk it gives—when Ali got up to speak. He explained that he risked being called a traitor to "everything a man holds dear in life" by coming here.

Black flags were flown at home when he sailed for England, he said, and his coworkers in India hoped the ship would sink. Ridiculing talk of race superiority, Ali turned to Lord Reading and proclaimed himself of Jewish extraction: "I have blood in me," he said, "which Lord Reading, who sent me to prison, perhaps has running in his veins." From this, Ali went on to a more sensational passage, declaring:

Clamors for Independence.

"I haven't come to ask for dominion status. I don't believe in dominion status. The one thing to which I am committed is complete independence."

More than he trusts Premier MacDonald or any one else, however, Ali said, "I place my trust in the man who inaugurated this ceremony, whose name is George. Whether you call him his majesty, or whatever you call him, he is a man. He knows India better than any of his ministers."

In a passage of great eloquence which, it was said afterward, astounded his hearers, Mohammed Ali declared:

"We will not go back to India unless a new dominion is born. If we go back to India without the birth of a new dominion, we go back to a lost dominion. We shall go back to an America.

"Then you will witness, not within the British commonwealth, but outside of it, with the Indian princes, with Dr. Moonje, with Mr. Jayakar, with myself and my brother a free and United States of India. Something more than that. Something better than an America, because we shall have not only a United States, but we shall have united faiths.

They Can Afford to Die.

"We have 320,000,000 people. When they can afford to die in millions from famine and from plague, surely they can afford to die from British bullets, too. That is the lesson which Gandhi wanted to teach us and that is the lesson which we must learn now.

"Nobody wins in a battle. There is merely the will to kill. In India we have not the power to kill, but the moment we develop the will to die, numbers will tell. Three hundred and twenty million people can not be killed. There is no mechanization for which you can find money which can kill 320,000,000 people. Even if you have got that mechanization, even if you have got material, you have not the morale to dare to kill 320,000,000 people. We must have in us the will to die for the birth of India as a free and united nation."

Hungary's Heir Apparent Marks Reaching Majority

Royal Relatives Celebrate But Deny Gathering in Belgium Has Any Political Significance; Decorations at Budapest Show Homeland's Interest.

Steenockerzeel, Belgium, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—An ancient feud castle, in this little, isolated village, glittered with thousands of lights tonight, as a hundred guests attended a banquet in celebration of the fact that Archduke Otto, heir apparent to the throne of Hungary, has attained his majority. The guests included princes, counts and other nobles and dignitaries of the former royal court of Austria-Hungary.

The castle was beseiged by a small army of international journalists and photographers, who received with skepticism the announcement that the gathering was only a family affair, with no political significance.

General belief, however, was that no move would be made in connection with the celebration to proclaim Otto King of Hungary, since his mother, the former Empress Zita, when she settled in Belgium, solemnly promised not to abuse the country's hospitality by any potiltical undertakings. It was pointed out any such action undoubtedly would be followed by immediate arrest and expulsion.

Following a grand mass tomorrow, when Otto observes his eighteenth birthday, he will receive the congratulations of relatives, friends and various delegations arriving for the occasion.

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 19 (A.P.). Gay decorations on house fronts were the only outward manifestation today that Archduke Otto, heir apparent to the Hungarian Throne, attains his majority tomorrow.

The general impressions seem to be that Otto will never attempt to return to Hungary, unless invited by the government, and no emergency orders to cope with any possible demonstration were issued.

At a fete organized by the legitimist Union of the Holy Cross, 1,000 unemployed today received gifts in the name of Archduke Otto.

Man Injured on Stairs Files Suit For $25,000

Alleging he had suffered serious injuries when he fell on a flight of stairs at 1875 Mintwood place northwest, April 12, 1929, Nelson Wampler, of 1843 Mintwood place northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court for $25,000 damages.

The suit is directed against James T. Wolfe, of 1610 Sixteenth street northwest, said to be the owner of the premises involved. The plaintiff states that at the time of the accident, he was living at that address. He charges negligence on the part of the defendant in not keeping the stairs properly lighted and free from slippery substances.

RITES FOR MISS DODD.

72-Year-Old Washingtonian Dies in Braddock Heights, Va.

Funeral services for Miss Cornelia Dodd, who died Tuesday at her home in Braddock Heights, Va., will be conducted at her residence at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. E. L. Snyder, pastor of the Southern Methodist hurch of Alexandria, officiating. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery here.

Miss Dodge, who was 72 years of age at her death, was a native of Washington, moving to the Virginia town eleven years ago. While she lived in the District she was an active member of the Waugh Methodist Church.

She was the daughter of the late Alexander and Elizabeth Dodge, of Washington. She had been in poor health for several months.

Tear Fumes Cause Sad Interlude in Treasury

(Associated Press.)

The efficiency of safeguards protecting the Government's cash and gold supply drew tears yesterday from guards at the Treasury.

Unexpectedly they received a full load of tear gas intended for any one who might cast too covetous eyes upon the riches stored there.

Some months ago the Treasury door guards substituted night clubs loaded with tear gas bombs for revolvers. While one of them was toying with his stick yesterday the safety catch was slipped, he pulled the trigger and the entire corridor was enveloped by the gas.

Persons passing in and out of the building were affected by the fumes until the doors were opened and the corridor cleared.

battling to save their sinking ship, to choose the hardest path of rescue after the Swedish cargo vessel Ovidia had foundered off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland.

Through most of last night the United States liner—America, the British Cunard steamship Mauretania and the United States Shipping Board's Endicott had raced to aid the stricken vessel before it sank.

Although all three ships sighted the Ovidia within approximately an hour of one another, shortly before noon today, the Mauretania was first to reach the scene. The sailor's code demands that the first vessel to arrive shall save the lives and salvage the cargo, if possible, from any sinking ship.

All three stood close for an hour before Capt. Carlsson, of the Ovidia, decided to abandon the 1,893-ton freighter.

Then, although the America was closest and lay to the leeward side —where it would have been easier to drift down with the wind—Capt. Carlsson and his crew laboriously manned the oars of their two lifeboats, pulling half a mile against winds and wave to the Mauretania.

Listing to Starboard.

The Ovidia was listing dangerously to starboard when the America reached her at 11 a. m., Eastern standard time, today, at a position between 300 and 400 miles south by southeast of Cape Race.

Her deck load of lumber appeared to have shifted and Capt. Carlsson radioed that his vessel was leaking badly, with the pumps unreliable, but that he intended trying to reach St. Johns, Newfoundland, under tow by the Endicott.

But the weather grew worse on the tossing ocean and the fast mail rescue ships could not wait, so Capt. Carlsson held a council of the crew and decided to abandon the freighter.

As the next act in the drama, the figures of the 27 men and one woman were seen clambering into lifeboats and heading for the Mauretania. Capt. George Fried, of the America, hero of two dramatic rescues at sea, then manouvered his ship so as to afford the two lifeboats some shelter over their long half-mile to the Mauretania. Then the America resumed her normal course over the ocean paths.

The Ovidia, meanwhile, became waterlogged and was expected to sink shortly.

Highland Breaks Up.

Lisbon, Portugal, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The proud ship Highland Hope stuck fast on the treacherous rocks not far from the village of Peniche tonight while the sea broke her to pieces. The 535 men and women taken off her just after dawn today were safe in hotels here.

She had lost her course in a heavy fog and at 5 o'clock this morning ran on the rocks, with an impact which shook passengers out of their bunks. Lifeboats were lowered quickly, an S O S screamed through the morning and the officers and crew stood by until the last passenger was safely away.

J. H. Mackay, on his way to Rio de Janeiro in the Highland Hope, was one of the trainload of castaways brought here this evening from Peniche.

"That first shock when the vessel struck threw me out of bed," he said. "I ran up to the decks, which were already crowded, and saw the ship's bow was fast on the rocks. Women were running about in hysterics, shivering in their night clothes.

Threw Her Aground Again.

"She seemed to work herself loose from the rocks, then a sea picked her up and threw her aground again. The men were getting the boats over and the women piled in. One boat was shoving off when some Spanish emigrants, panic-stricken, jumped in and the boat tipped over. I was in it.

"Six of us struck out while the crew saved the others. We swam half a mile until a fishing boat picked us up. All the time the ship's siren was screeching, and fishing boats were all about us. Our rescuers bundled us up in warm clothes, gave us brandy and put us ashore at Peniche."

Armando Deshetres, with a worn woolen sweater pulled over his head, told his story over a bowl of steaming coffee.

"I thought we had collided with another ship," said he, "but I saw soon enough that he had hit the rocks. A great gash opened near the stern and the water flooded the cabins. We got away in the boats with hardly any confusion. We were pretty lucky."

Aged Duchess on Board.

One of the hardiest of the passengers was the 76-year-old Duchess of Hamilton, bound for Buenos Aires. She was generous in her praise of the Highland Hope's officers and crew.

The Highland Hope was on her way from London to Buenos Aires with 135 first-class passengers, including many representatives of British business houses en route to Buenos Aires for the British trade exposition to be opened next year. There were also a number of Spanish emigrants to South America, and 149 in the crew.

Salvage boats tried to pull her off the rocks, but the task was hopeless in the fog and heavy seas, and was abandoned until the weather cleared.

The Highland Hope was put into service only last January. She was the second of the Nelson Line ships to meet disaster in the past year. Last September, the Highland Pride jammed her nose into the rocks off Vigo and was wrecked. All her passengers and crew were saved.

Boulogne-Sur-Mer, France, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Caught by a squall while trying to make port, the packet Engadine, from Folkstone, was driven on a sandbank tonight and stuck there until floated off at high tide, three hours later.

In the meantime 176 passengers, including the Duke of Westminster, were landed, none the worse for their experience.

Baltimore, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Freed after going aground in the fog which for four days paralyzed shipping on Chesspeake Bay, the coal steamer Mangore reached port today. Twenty-one ships docked late yesterday and today. One was the steamer Schenectady, from Copenhagen, bringing 14 passengers.

FEDERAL OPERATION OF UTILITIES SCORED

BUS SYSTEM IS RAPPED

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Government operation of barge lines on taxation-built-and-supported inland waters, and private operation of motor bus and truck routes over taxation-built-and-supported highways in competition with railroads, were condemned tonight by speakers before the annual meeting of the Railway Business Association.

Elisha Lee, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said the time had come for the railroads to gird for battle, and to quit taking "vicious and evilly meant blows on the chin with a smile."

"Operation by the Government of barge lines that do not pay and probably never will, but take traffic from the rails by waterways built and maintained through taxation, is without rational excuse," he said.

"Unregulated, uncontrolled, haphazard competition of commercially operated trucks that serve no economic need, but use the public highways almost free of charge, * * * is unsound, injurious, wasteful and unfair."

president of the Buffalo, N. Y., Cham-

Samuel B. Botsford, executive vice ber of Commerce, said that in recent years construction of waterways had become "fashionable, official, accepted as sacred without investigation," and that it was time experienced transportation men took a hand in theproceedings.

Virgil Jordan, economist for a trade paper group, called on the railroads and business men generally to adopt a more far-sighted policy of management if they would avoid a recurrence of economic depression. By short-term financing, he said, they have played into the hands of "the speculative forces of unstability."

Government operation or ownership of utilities were condemned in several resolutions adopted today. They also contained expressions of protest against further interference with the railroads.

President Hoover was commended for "respecting the independence" of the Interstate Commerce Commission. An increase in the $12,000 salary for commissioners was urged.

Woman's Cuban Flight Blocked by Fog Blanket

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Her path southward blocked by a wall of fog, Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, once more abandoned her projected one-stop flight from Pittsburgh to Havana, Cuba, and returned to the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport near here. She said she would attempt the flight again tomorrow if weather conditions permitted.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, flying a low-wing cabin monoplane, left here this morning despite local fog, on assurance of better weather over the Southern States. She said she found impenetrable fog, however, in the vicinity of Latrobe, Pa., over a southern spur of the Allegheny Mountains. She had been weather bound here for more than a week. Her one stop was planned at Jacksonville, Fla.

Radio-Range Beacon Now at Hunter's Point

Another link in the Nation's rapidly growing network of radio "paths" along which airplanes may fly directly to their destinations was connected yesterday by Col. Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, at Hunter's Point, Va. This radio-range beacon, across the Potomac from Washington, will broadcast its radio "path" constantly to airplane pilots, who may pick up with earphones.

Opening of the Hunter's Point Station completes the setting up of a chain of seven installations between Boston and Spartanburg, S. C. Another is now under construction at Atlanta, Ga.

Sophie C. Nelson Addresses Group.

thought and labor to this preparation, and to you for giving your time to its consideration. The reward that accrues to you is the consciousness of something done unselfishly to lighten the burdens of children, to set their feet upon surer paths to health and well-being and happiness. For many years I have hoped for such a national consideration as this. You comprise the delegates appointed by our Federal departments and by the governors of our States, the mayors of our cities, and the representatives of our great national associations, our medical and public health professions. In your hands rest the knowledge and authority outside of the home itself.

Unseen Millions Listen.

In addressing you whom I see before me here in this auditorium, I am mindful also of the unseen millions listening in their homes, who likewise are truly members of this conference, for these problems are theirs—it is their children whose welfare is involved, its helpful services are for them, and their operation is essential in carrying out a united and Nation-wide effort in behalf of the children.

We approach all problems of childhood with affection. Theirs is the province of joy and good humor. They are the most wholesome part of the race, the sweetest, for they are fresher from the hands of God. Whimsical, ingenious, mischievous, we live a life of apprehension as to what their opinion may be of us; a life of defense against their terrifying energy; we put them to bed with a sense of relief and a lingering of devotion. We envy them the freshness of adventure and discovery of life; we mourn over the disappointments they will meet.

The fundamental purpose of this conference is to set forth an understanding of those safeguards which will assure to them health in mind and body. There are safeguards and services to childhood which can be provided by the community, the State, or the Nation—all of which are beyond the reach of the individual parent. We approach these problems in no spirit of diminishing the responsibilities and values or invading the sanctities of those primary safeguards to child life—their homes and their mothers. After we have determined every scientific fact, after we have erected every public safeguard, after we have constructed every edifice for education or training or hospitalization or play, yet all these things are but a tithe of the physical, moral and spiritual gifts which motherhood gives and home confers. None of these things carry that affection, that devotion of soul, which is the great endowment from mothers. Our purpose here today is to consider and give our mite of help to strengthen her hand that her boy and girl may have a fair chance.

Beyond Mother's Power.

Our country has a vast majority of competent mothers. I am not so sure of the majority of competent fathers. But what we are concerned with here are things that are beyond her power. That is what Susie and John take on when out from under her watchful eye. She can not count the bacteria in the milk; she can not detect the typhoid which comes through the faucet, or the mumps that pass round the playground. She can not individually control the instruction of our schools or the setting up of community-wide remedy for the deficient and handicapped child. But she can insist upon officials who hold up standards of protection and service to her children—and one of your jobs is to define these standards and tell her what they are. She can be trusted to put public officials to the acid test of the infant mortality and service to children in the town—when you set some standard for her to go by.

These questions of child health and protection are a complicated problem requiring much learning and much action. And we need have great concern over this matter. Let no one believe that these are questions which should not stir a nation; that they are below the dignity of statesmen or governments. If we could have but one generation of properly born, trained, educated and healthy children, a thousand other problems of government would vanish. We would assure ourselves of healthier minds in more vigorous bodies to direct the energies of our Nation to yet greater heights of achievements. Moreover, one good community nurse will save a dozen future policemen.

Our problem falls into three groups: First, the protection and stimulation of the normal child; second, aid to the physically defective and handicapped child; third, the problems of the delinquent child.

Statistics can well be used to give emphasis to our problem. One of your committees reports studies of 45,000,000 children:

35,000,000 are reasonably normal.
6,000,000 are improperly nourished.
1,000,000 have defective speech.
1,000,000 have weak or damaged hearts.
675,000 present behavior problems.
450,000 are mentally retarded.
382,000 are tubercular.
342,000 have impaired hearing.
18,000 are totally deaf.
300,000 are crippled.
50,000 are partially blind.
14,000 are wholly blind.
20,000 are delinquent.
50,000 are dependent.
10,000 are deficient.

And so on, to a total of at least 10 millions of deficients, more than 80 per cent of whom are not receiving the necessary attention, though our knowledge and experience show that these deficiencies can be prevented and remedied to a high degree. The reports you have before you are not only replete with information upon each of these groups, they are also vivid with recommendation for remedy. And if we do not perform our duty to these children, we leave them dependent, or we provide from them the major recruiting ground for the army of ne'er-do-wells and criminals.

But that we be not discouraged let us bear in mind that there are 35,000,000 reasonably normal, cheerful human electrons radiating joy and mischief and hope and faith. Their faces are turned toward the light—theirs is the life of great adventure. These are vivid, romping, every-day children, our own and our neighbors' with all their strongly marked differences—and the more difference the better. The more they charge us with their separate problems the more we know how they are vitally and humanly alive.

From what we know of foreign countries, I am convinced that we have a right to assume that we have a larger proportion of happy, normal children than any other country in the world. And also, on the bright side, your reports show that we have 1,500,000 specially gifted children. There lies the future leadership of the Nation if we devote ourselves to their guidance.

Where Expansion Is Needed.

In the field of deficient and handicapped children, advancing knowledge and care can transfer them more and more to the happy lot of normal children. And these children, less fortunate as they are, have a passion for their full rights which appeals to the heart of every man and woman. We must get to the cause of their handicaps from the beginning of their lives. We must extend the functions of our schools and institutions to help them as they grow. We must enlarge the services of medical inspection and clinics, expand the ministrations of the family doctor in their behalf, and very greatly increase the hospital facilities for them. We must not leave one of them uncared for.

There is also the complex problems of the delinquent child. We need to turn to methods of inquiry from the punishment of delinquency to the causes of delinquency. It is not the delinquent child that is at the bar of judgment, but society itself.

Again, there are the problems of orphaned children. Fortunately, we are making progress in this field in some of the States through the preservation for them of the home by support of their mothers or by placing them in homes and thus reducing the institutional services.

There are vast problems of education in relation to physical and mental health. With so many of the early responsibilities of the home drained away by rapid changes in our modern life, perhaps one of the most important problems we shall need to meet in the next few years is how to return to our children, through our schools and extra scholastic channels, that training for parenthood which once was the natural teaching of the home. With the advance of science and advancement of knowledge we have learned a thousand things that the individual, both parent and child, must know in his own self-protection. And at once the relation of our educational system to the problem envisages itself, and it goes further. The ill-nourished child is in our country not the product of poverty; it is largely the product of ill-instructed children and ignorant parents. Our children all differ in character, in capacity, in inclination. If we would give them their full chance they must have that service in education which develops their special qualities. They must have vocational guidance.

Child Labor Problem.

Again, there are the problems of child labor. Industry must not rob our children of their rightful heritage. Any labor which stunts growth, either physical or mental, that limits education, that deprives children of the right of comradeship, of joy and play, is sapping the next generation.

In the last half a century we have herded 50,000,000 more human beings into towns and cities where the whole setting is new to the race. We have created highly congested areas with a thousand changes resulting in the swift transition from a rural and agrarian people to an urban, industrial nation. Perhaps the widest range of difficulties with which we are dealing in the betterment of children grows out of this crowding into cities. Problems of sanitation and public health loom in every direction. Delinquency increases with congestion. Overcrowding produces disease and contagion. The child's natural play place is taken from him. His mind is stunted by the lack of imaginative surroundings and lack of contact with the fields, streams, trees, and birds. Home life becomes more difficult. Cheerless homes produce morbid minds. Our growth of town life unendingly imposes such problems as milk and food supplies, for we have shifted these children from a diet of 10,000 years' standing.

Nor is our problem one solely of the city child. We have grave responsibilities to the rural child. Adequate expert service should be as available to home from maternity to maturity. Since science discovered the cause of communicable disease, protection from these diseases for the child of the farm is as much an obligation to them as to the child of the city. The child of the country is handicapped by lack of some cultural influences extended by the city. We must find ways and means of extending these influences to the children of rural districts. On the other hand, some of the natural advantages of the country child must somehow be given back to the city child—more space in which to play, contact with nature and natural processes. Of these the thoughtless city cheats its children. Architectural wizardry and artistic skill are transforming our cities into wonderlands of beauty, but we must also preserve in them for our children the yet more beautiful art of living.

Many Outside Influences.

Even aside from congestion, the drastic changes in the modern home greatly affect the child. Contacts of parents and children are much reduced. Once the sole training school of the child, the home now shares with the public school, the great children's clubs and organizations, and a hundred other agencies the responsibility for him, both in health and discipline, from birth to maturity. Upon these outside influences does his development now very largely depend.

The problems of the child are not always the problems of the child alone. In the vision of the whole of our social fabric, we have loosened new ambitions, new energies; we have produced a complexity of life for which there is no precedent. With machines ever enlarging man's power and capacity, with electricity extending over the world its magic, with the air giving us a wholly new realm, our children must be prepared to meet entirely new contacts and new forces. They must be physically strong and mentally placed to stand up under the increasing pressure of life. Their problem is not alone one of physical health, but of mental, emotional, spiritual health.

These are a part of the problems that I charge you to answer. This task that you have come here to perform has never been done before. These problems are not easily answered, they reach the very root of our national life. We need to meet them squarely and to accuse ourselves as frankly as possible, to see all the implications that trail in our wake, and to place the blame where it lies and set resolutely to attack it. From your explorations into the mental and moral endowment and opportunities of children will develop new methods to inspire their creative work and play, to substitute love and self-discipline for the rigors of rule, to guide their recreations into wholesome channels, to steer them past the reefs of temptation, to develop their characters, and to bring them to adult age in tune with life, strong in moral fiber, and prepared to play more happily their part in the productive tasks of human society.

Vision, Understanding Needed.

There has not been before the summation of knowledge and experience such as lies before this conference. There has been no period when it could be undertaken with so much experience and background. The Nation looks to you to derive from it positive, definite, guiding judgments. But greater than the facts and the judgments, more fundamental than all, we need the vision and inspired understanding to interpret these facts and put them into practice. I know that this group has the vision and the understanding, and you are the picked representatives of the people who are thus endowed. It will rest with you to light the fires of that inspiration in the general public conscience, and from conscience lead it into action.

The many activities which you are assembled here to represent touch a thousand points in the lives of children. The interest which they obtain in the minds and hearts of our country is a turning to the original impulse which inspired the foundation of our Nation, the impulse to secure freedom and betterment of each coming generation. The passion of the American fathers and mothers is to lift children to higher opportunities than they have themselves enjoyed. It burns like a flame in us as a people. Kindled in our country by its first pioneers, who came here to better the opportunities for their children rather than themselves, passed on from one generation to the next, it has never dimmed nor died. Indeed human progress marches only when children excel their parents. In democracy our progress is the sum of progress of the individuals—that they each individually achieve to the full capacity of their abilities and character. Their varied personalities and abilities must be brought fully to bloom; they must not be mentally regimented to a single mold or the qualities of many will be stifled; the door of opportunity must be opened to each of them.

May you who are meeting here find in your deliberations new fuel with which to light this flame of progress so that this occasion may be marked with a fresh luster that will set us anew on the road through the crowding complexities of modern life.

Bits From Hoover's Talk On Welfare of Children

(Associated Press.)

Following are some pithy sentences from President Hoover's speech to the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection:

"Let no one believe that these are not questions which should not stir a nation; that they are below the dignity of statesmen or governments."

"One good community nurse will save a dozen future policemen."

"If we do not perform our duty to these children, we leave them dependent, or we provide for them the major recruiting ground for the army of ne'er-do-wells and criminals."

"Industry must not rob our children of their rightful heritage.

"Any labor which stunts growth, either physical or mental, that limits education, that deprives children of the right of comradeship, of joy and play, is sapping the next generation."

"Our growth of town life unendingly imposes such problems as milk and food supplies, for we have shifted these children from a diet of 10,000 years' standing."

"Architectural wizardry and artistic skill are transforming our cities into wonderlands of beauty, but we must also preserve in them for our children the yet more beautiful art of living."

meet separately to discuss matters on which they have concentrated.

The medical service section, meeting in Corcoran Art Gallery, will hear reports from the chairmen of its committees. These will include a report on a year's study of growth and development, by Dr. Kenneth D. Blackfan; prenatal and maternal care, by Dr. Fred L. Adair, and medical care for children, by Dr. Philip Van Ingen. Dr. Samuel McC. Hamill will preside at the meeting of this section.

Meanwhile, in the assembly room of the American Red Cross Building, the section devoted to a study of public health service and administration, will meet under the chairmanship of Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service. This section will receive reports on public health organization from Dr. E. L. Bishop; on communicable disease control from Dr. George H. Bigelow, and on milk production and control from H. A. Whittaker.

Other Section Meetings.

Other section meetings will include that of the secion on education and training, the several committees of which will gather at different places. The committee on the family and parent education will meet at the National Academy of Sciences, as will the committee on the infant and preschool child. The committee which has been studying the school child will meet in the main auditorium of Constitution Haill, and that on vocational guidance and child labor will assemble at Continental Hall.

Other committees of the section will meet as follows: Recreation and physical education, Hall of Nations, Pan-American Union Building; special classes, lower lobby of Constitution Hall; youth outside of home and school, auditorium of the Interior Building.

Morning meetings will also be held by the section devoted to the handicapped child at the District chapter, American Red Cross. These morning meetings will be followed by luncheons which will be devoted to round table discussions.

Hoover to Receive Group.

In the afternoon, the following meetings will be held: Medical service section, Continental Hall; and the section on the handicapped child, Constitution Hall.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, business sessions will be adjourned, and the delegates will be received by the President at the White House. The day will close with group dinners.

Registrations yesterday were made at the Interior Building, where headquarters of the conference have been set up. The conference was called a year ago by the President for the purpose of assembling and using already established facts with regard to the many problems of American childhood and parenthood. Many reports have been prepared on the basis of investigations by the delegates throughout the course of the year, and these will be presented, digested, and made the basis of recommendations during the three days of the conference.

The planning committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, has organized its workers throughout the entire country, and the delegates have come to Washington armed with a tremendous array of facts. The study of these is expected to result in many advances in child care and training in the United States.

GRANGE WILL FIGHT FOR DEBENTURE IDEA

HELD SHAMELESS GREED

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The principle of the export debenture plan, based on equality of agriculture under the tariff with industry, today received the support of the National Grange in a statement made by National Master Louis J. Taber.

Informed of a proposed conference of agricultural leaders in Washington under the chairmanship of Senator Charles W. McNary, Mr. Taber said that the grange "will never give up the fight for the export debenture plan unless we get something as good to take its place."

The grange will cooperate, said Mr. Taber, and will indorse any proposal under any name that will give it the equality under the tariff laws that is the basic principle of the export debenture plan.

Mr. Taber's statement followed an attack by Fred Brenckman, legal representative of the National Grange, in his annual report, in which he characterized the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill as a "naked and shameless" exhibition of "sordid greed."

In launching his attack on the measure, Mr. Brenckman said:

"The vice of provincialism, together with the sordid greed of certain favored interests, was exhibited in a most naked and shameless fashion in the handling of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill."

The report pictured the efforts of a coalition of senators from the agricultural States to write an equitable tariff bill, only to be defeated by "trading and log-rolling tactics of certain members."

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

STETSON SHOE PRICES REVISED ....DOWNWARD!

THE STETSON SHOE

THE STETSON management sincerely believes that Good Times can be materially quickened by a revision of prices downward, wherever practical and possible. It acts upon this opinion by announcing, as effective today, a reclassification of its prices for STETSON SHOES for Men and Women. In some groupings the new savings are quite substantial. Of course, the superlative Stetson quality and style smartness remain unchanged.

To you who know by performance or by reputation the character of the STETSON SHOE, the new values created by this timely Stetson policy will have but one sequel . . . immediate ownership of a pair of STETSONS!

New and lower prices effective immediately.

By ROBERT D. HEINL

DOUBTLESS other senators with thespian ambitions will begin brushing up when they hear that Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, is to play the part of the presiding justice in a radio drama, "The Trial of Vivian Ware," next Tuesday night.

They might stage a similar performance at the Capitol, some rainy afternoon, so all of the senators could get in on it.

The Senate has never disappointed an audience yet.

Usually heard at 10 o'clock Thursday night over WRC, the RCA Hour will be temporarily discontinued. Beginning tonight the Lucky Strike dance orchestra will play at that hour instead of earlier.

"Tony's Scrapbook" will compete with "Cheerio" for the morning audience, beginning Monday (WMAL, 8 a. m. weekdays and 10 a. m. Sundays).

Preparatory to broadcasts under direction of Maj. Clayton E. Emig, a special microphone has been installed in the headquarters of the Sons of the American Revolution.

IF Gen. Saltzman, chairman of the Radio Commission, makes a few more speeches like he did to the Broadcasters Association at Cleveland this week he will go down as the "Mark Twain of radio." His first sally was when he referred to some action the broadcasters feared the commission might possibly take as "probably one of those 89,756 rumors that mysteriously start about the commission."

"If you hear that the commission is about to eliminate your station or require you to paint your transmitter green, or require you to broadcast football games on Sunday mornings during July and August, don't worry," the general advised. "Instead, loosen up with a 2-cent stamp, write and ask the commission about it. But address it to the secretary."

There was a laugh at a reference to Dr. C. B. Jolliffe, chief engineer of the commission.

"Dr. Jolliffe, aside from his professional attainments," Gen. Saltzman continued, "is otherwise a big man. He weighs 230 pounds!"

The general concluded his speech by asking the broadcasters not to look upon the commission as the hard-boiled MP of radio.

"Don't regard it as a raging behemoth seeking what it may destroy," he said.

"AMOS 'N' ANDY" intimate that they may visit their friend "Scoop" (as they like to call him) Russell, vice president of the N. B. C., in Washington.

Heifetz, the last of the violinists to hold out against radio, will join the big money next month.

It was during a pause that Maj. Bowes asked Hannah Klein, the young pianist, what the next selection was to be.

"'A Maiden's Wish,' by Chopin," Hannah replied.

"The Lohengrin Wedding March," was Hannah's retort.

The college career of Dick Trevor, freshman, will be launched tonight, with the first of a series of sketches portraying the adventures of a typical undergraduate at a small co-educational school.

The campus of Wycliffe College, an imaginary institution at Three Oaks, Ind., will be the locale of the serial (WJZ and net, 8:30 p. m.).

IDA BAILEY ALLEN has a cook at home and a cook at her radio studios. When a recipe for coconut ice-box cake was broadcast the other day the cake was actually made during the program and served for afternoon tea at the studios.

Mrs. Allen was surprised on returning home to discover that the other cook, after listening in on the broadcast, had prepared a similar cake for dinner.

The election of Phil Loucks, Washington lawyer and former newspaper man, managing director of the National Broadcasters Association at Cleveland yesterday very likely means moving the broadcasters headquarters from New York to the Capital, where it should have been moved a long time ago.

Although radio is dominated by young executives, Loucks is probably the youngest man in the United States to hold so responsible a position in the industry.

Jane Corbin INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Nov. 19.

WHAT happens to those exquisite fabrics that I have seen in the show rooms of the textile manufacturers of the world?

For years I have asked myself that question; at last I know!

They are brought by the famous couturiers who are so sure of their ability to use them that they are not afraid of their price. And they are worn by the elegantes who appreciate them.

The day of the cheap fabric that is made into a flashy model, worn a week or two, then discarded, is over. Today the clever woman knows very well that in paying a hundred or so dollars for a garment of exquisite workmanship and marvelous material, she is the winner, both artistically and economically.

Buy the very best material you can possibly afford and then a little better than that. Always look at the quality of the material in the garment you are buying ready-made, and do not allow yourself to be smitten by a flashy model in cheap material.

The buying of good material always pays.

• • • •

Novelty, variety and practicability have all been introduced into the ensemble illustrated today. If you prefer a blue coat trimmed in white to a white coat trimmed in blue, it is yours. Likewise you may do as you please with the skirt and waistcoat, and you may be sure that what you please will be extremely chic!

Edging tulle with taffeta, and this season, even more unexpectedly, with straw, is a favorite whim of a few of the "unexpected" couturiers.

Want to know what kind of couturier that is? Well, that's the kind of couturier with the kind of nimble fingers that keep you guessing what kind of whimsicality he is going to evolve next.

• • • •

Buried, that's what one Dah-ray is going to be, beneath the avalanche of letters asking for the sketch 'n' directions for making that adorable boudoir doll that she brought back with her from Paris. It's no wonder, though, because this doll really is both lovely and practical, besides being easy to make—you know, the latest Parisian boudoir doll, with her wide skirt that makes a complete decoration for the bed, hiding the sleeping pillows.

Yes, there are plenty of leaflets, because Dah-ray knew what with every woman's instinctive delight in boudoir dolls, and Christmas coming, and there being no more delightful present for any friend, there would be a big demand for this leaflet. But you'd better hurry with that stamped, self-addressed envelope just the same!

• • • •

So sheer that it is hardly visible is many a tulle strap on a tulle evening gown. Again the straps may be of brilliants, or, as is occasionally seen at the Redfern or Molyneux collections, one strap may be of fabric and the other of flowers.

• • • •

Jenny uses black tulle over a lustrous black satin foundation to make the gracious evening gown I have sketched for you today. The plainest of narrow straps form the decolletage, and the smart plain belt is of black velvet. And I just wish you could have seen the soft yellow color of the velvet wrap that's worn with this dress, not to mention its oddly draped neck, or the huge cuffs of silver fox, or the interesting hem treatment!

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 4:30 p. m. to 7 p. m. The one danger period is from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Astrological signs on this date are quite encouraging from a material standpoint and business progress seems to be assured. On the other hand, there is a prospect of quarrels, bickerings and differences.

Children born on this November 20 will, even in their infancy, be original and not imitative. As they mature, they will be of an inventive turn of mind; patient, attentive to detail and quite persevering. A fair measure of success will attend their efforts.

You are both energetic and active, but are too keen to do everything yourself. You have no confidence in the work of others, and prefer to be entirely on your own. This attitude of mind, in view of your exceptional abilities and wide vision, is a drawback rather than an advantage. If you were willing to relegate to others the working out of detail, you would be able to accomplish so much more.

You are rather impatient, and as a result of your quick grasp of affairs you can not tolerate what to you are long, drawn-out explanations. In this manner you frequently make mistakes, and arrive at erroneous conclusions. Your memory is very retentive, and although not fooled by external appearance, you are often at sea when dealing with members of the opposite sex, as occasionally your emotional nature is aroused, and sentiment triumphs over reason.

Your disposition is rather mercurial and you are at times moody and sad. These fits, however, do not last long, and are immediately succeeded by a spasmodic gaiety and a very winning congeniality. On the whole, the stars promise you a life full of interest, and a fair amount of success. The greater blows in your life will be dealt during youth or early manhood or womanhood.

Successful people born November 20:

Benjamin Champney, artist.

Henry B. Dike, lawyer.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

RECEPTION THAT FAILED.

The above hand was played in a game of Contract Bridge. South bid two Spades, a conservative declaration with a hand very apt to take eight tricks.

West made the somewhat desperate bid of there Hearts; and North, with a singleton Heart, three Spades and the Ace and King of Diamonds, bid four Spades.

After East's pass, South reasoned that his first bid had shown only six tricks and so there was a good chance for a slam with a partner strong enough to double-jump. South bid five Spades and passed the slam back over to North. North had only the value of his five-card suit in addition to the strength he had already shown; consequently conservatism directed a pass, but he yielded to the slam lure and called six Spades.

At Auction Bridge South doubtless would have obtained a Spade contract, the size of which would have depended upon whether he bid one or three originally.

West led the King of Hearts and South won with the Ace, noting that East played the Nine which looked like a singleton. Of course, East might have either the Ten or Jack also, but West's high Heart bid with little side strength indicated unusual length. Anxious to ruff a Heart in dummy, but fearing an over-ruff if he tried the exepriment before East's trumps had been drawn, the Declarer led the Ace of trumps from South to trick 2, West played the Deuce, North the Five, and East the Queen—a false card to induce Declarer to stop trumps and lead Hearts. Declarer was not deceived and he next led the King of trumps from South, that being followed by a Heart which dummy ruffed; then dummy's Ace and King of Diamonds gave South two Heart discards; next dummy's Jack of Clubs was led and a Club finesse was lost. The small slam, however, was secure. If South had been deceived by East's falsecarding and had switched to Hearts after his first trump lead, he would have been defeated.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled, the PLAYING PROBLEMS. Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

PLAYING PROBLEMS present eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

PLAYING PROBLEMS which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of The Washington Post by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored. Address: Milton C. Work, care Washington Post.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me why the leaves of my plant dry up. What is its name? M. B.

Your aspidiatra is suffering from lack of water, lack of light or lack of root room. Better transplant it at once, using a size larger pot, fresh soil and a generous quantity of bonemeal. The aspidistra will live in a dark corner, but it does best in a light, sunny place. Give it water three times a week and spray the foliage once a week with cold, soapy water.

During the summer I was given a bouquet of garden flowers which contained some foliage like the inclosed branch, and was told that if I removed the seeds from some of the seed capsules I might grow some of these plants, which I understand are named snow-on-the-mountain. Please tell me whether I am to plant seeds outdoors at once, save them and plant them outdoors in May, or plant them in pots for house use. Also, what is a good location for it, sunny, dry or wet? Please tell me also whether Madonna lilies prefer a sunny or shady location and whether they require winter protection. If they do, is it well to use dead leaves or well-rotted manure? C. N.

Snow-on-the-mountain (euphorbia) is a plant grown for the beauty of its showy foliage, which is easily raised from seeds. It does best in a well-drained, sunny location, though it will stand some shade. Better save your seed and sow it in the open in the spring. The Madonna lily is very hardy, requiring no winter covering. However, it does best in a sunny location when the soil is well drained.

Please tell me why my fig tree has so far borne no fruit. It was transplanted three years ago and is a healthy tree about 10 feet high.

A CONSTANT READER.

A fig tree does not bear fruit until it is about 5 years old. Transplanting it may have checked its development. It will probably bear in the course of time. I had a friend who had a fig tree in a place where the climatic conditions were about the same as they are in your city, and after waiting ten years her tree bore profusely.

Please tell me where I can purchase such plants as crotons, marantas and caladiums. MRS. E. S.

Am so sorry, but it is impossible to publish names and addresses in this column. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you the names of several firms listing the plants you mention.

Was it right to plant pansy and hollyhock seedlings in the open ground in September, if they were sturdy plants? Should they have been given winter protection? If so what material should I have used for the purpose? Where can suitable manure for evergreens be purchased? M. A. H.

Seedlings such as you mention may be set out in September, and if given a light covering of dead leaves, well-rotted manure or straw and pine boughs, should live over the winter. Of course it is easier to handle seedlings if you have the facilities of a cold frame. If you care to write again inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall send you the names of two firms that will supply you with manure suitable for fertilizing.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Insecurity.

Children frequently have cause to feel doubtful of their parents' love for them and of their love for each other.

They sense whatever instability may exist in the family atmosphere. If fathers and mothers are beset by social and economic difficulties, the behavior of their children is sure to reflect them.

The child who is motivated, to a large extent by feelings of insecurity, shows this fact in ways which are not necessarily obvious at first glance.

He may appear merely as a bad-tempered child who flies into rages at the slightest infringement of his rights. He may seem extremely eager to make friends with adults, showing, at the same time, a tendency to dramatize a relation of intimacy with them when others are there to observe.

He may be the sort of child who, although already reasonably successful in his undertakings, is constantly seeking to gain more attention and marks of success. A child may respond to a feeling of insecurity in any one of a hundred ways, no one of them recognizable for what it is unless his whole adjustment is studied.

Clearly, when the unpleasant aspect of a child's behavior spring from feelings of insecurity it will not help much to try to "discipline" them away. Indeed in such instances it is not the child, but his elders, who must change their ways.

They must give the child reassurance evidence of the love which he may feel has been withheld. They must spare him as far as possible the reverberation of any difficulties in their adjustment to each other.

He should be "let in" on the money problems of the family only insofar as they touch his life in a realistic way and on a scale which he will not find overwhelming.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PLAGUE AMONG NEIGHBORS.

PLAGUE in Ecuador is regarded as a menace to Panama, just as yellow fever was. Our Government is going a long way afield in trying to rid Ecuador of plague, just as they did when they wiped out yellow fever there, and for the same reason. You and I may never have any personal interest in plague, but we are liable to be flea-ridden most any time, and we might have personal need of some of the information about fleas which Dr. Eskey gained in studying plague.

Plague can not be eradicated without knowing about fleas, how they live and act and have their being. Practically all the plague is spread by one species of the rat flea, cheops. Therefore, the wisdom accumulated in the study relates principally to cheops. I quote:

Cheops (to shorten and vulgarize his Latin moniker) is the only flea causing rat plague. If it were not for this flea plague would soon disappear. Cheops is found at altitudes of over 9,000 feet, but not in sufficient numbers to cause plague epidemics.

Cheops is the only rat flea found in the lowlands and in the mountains up to 4,000 feet. To maintain an epidemic in a high altitude it is necessary to constantly import cheops. Cheops may reproduce when the mean temperature is between 55 and 56, but a mean high temperature of 70 degrees or higher is necessary. The dampness caused by the rainy season is the chief factor in reducing the prevalence of cheops in the lowlands. The greatest effect of dampness is produced in poorly constructed buildings such as those built of bamboo. Dampness does not affect the prevalence of cheops on rats living on the second and third floors of houses, or in warehouses, as it does in low, poorly constructed buildings.

High atmospheric temperatures will cause cheops to leave the rats, but will not kill them. Atmospheric dampness forces fleas to leave floors and furniture and seek their host somewhere else if their natural one is not available. The disappearance of plague from the lowlands is due to the effect of dampness on the fleas and rats in the poorly constructed buildings.

Young Norwegian rats have most fleas; old rats have few. Few cheops are found on mice (musculus). Therefore, mice are of no importance in transmitting plague. As a further contribution to the general subject Dr. Eskey says: "Three other fleas can and occasionally do spread plague—pulex irritans (the one that likes man blood first), the body flea and the head flea.

At Thanksgiving... more than ever... our minds turn to Pies, Puddings, Candies... and don't forget CRANBERRY SAUCE

Beyond a doubt the most popular relish served with the Thanksgiving turkey is cranberry sauce

WHAT would Thanksgiving be without desserts, jellies, preserves and cranberry sauce? And how could these delicacies be made if it were not for refined sugar?

Americans are truly fortunate to have a feast day like Thanksgiving — also to be able to enjoy the goodness of refined sugar at such an unusually low price as it is today.

Winter diets demand fuel food and a zestful variety of dishes. There is no single food product that can fill these needs better than refined sugar. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with refined sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Jean's Santa Claus

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS.

Thinking it over, Jean decides to accept Mollie's invitation and go to New York. She leaves that afternoon. On the train she takes stock of her finances and discovers she has $1.32 left after buying her ticket. Oh well, she'll be with Mollie in a few hours. Arriving in New York she hastens to the store and Jean pauses only long enough to tip the driver the remainder of her dollar bill. One of the girls in the store informs Jean that Mollie had been married that morning and started for Missouri on a wedding trip.

Jean is accosted by an insulting stranger, but saved from an embarrassing situation by an attractive young man who introduces himself as Sandy Claus. He invites her to dinner, but she insists on paying for her own meal.

Now go on with the story.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IV.

Roast turkey Jean never seriously considered. But for one fat fried pork chop she would gladly have given the proverbial shirt. Hungry? A French fried potato would have looked like a meat loaf.

"Pork chop (fried) .....$.40."

So she compromised on an egg sandwich and a cup of coffee. Sandwich, 15 cents; coffee, 5 cents; total 20 cents.

"I'm not really hungry," she lied. "A late lunch. . . ."

The sentence died meekly. She was suddenly struck with a vague recollection that in a thoughtless moment before they entered the restaurant she had told him she had not eaten since breakfast. She raised her eyes shyly, but he was looking steadily at his menu.

"Same here," he said easily. He gave the waitress the order. "Two egg sandwiches and two cups of coffee." The girl looked at him as if she thought he must be joking, but after a moment she went off, writing on her pad.

"Now," said Mr. Clause, "we'll get down to business."

"Right," said Jean. "If you don't mind, I'll open the conference."

She took her purse from her lap and, after a humiliating delay, she fished out the two dimes and the two pennies. The 10-cent pieces she laid by his plate, the pennies by her own.

"All right, Mr. Clause . . . I've said my piece. Now it's your turn."

He rested his clasped hands on the edge of the table and gazed at her in silence for a moment. Then: "May I pry into your private affairs, Miss Melba?"

"You can try."

He hesitated, apparently afraid of offending her. "When I told you my name, you said you had already given Santa Claus your Christmas order and you accepted me as a good omen."

"Yes . . . I may as well tell you now, however, I begin to wonder if I knew what I really wanted."

"Isn't that a fairly common feminine trait? You know what you want until you see some prospect of getting it; then you aren't so sure. . . . Was it . . . clothes?"

"No."

"A car?"

"Don't be ridiculous. My name is Melba, not Morgan. But why guess? I don't mind telling you, it it matters."

"I'm curious. . . . What was it?"

"Adventure. . . ."

He stared at her, incredulous. "You mean that?"

"Of course. . . . You don't know what it is to grow up in a small town and never have anything happen to you."

He was laughing softly. "I was a favorable omen, wasn't I? Favorable for adventure, at least."

The laughter in his brown eyes was a little disturbing. She didn't know just what to make of it.

"Question two," he said quietly. "You came to New York expecting to be with your friend. She's away. What are your plans now?"

"You're going back to Connecticut?"

"I'm not sure. . . . That depends on what happens between now and Christmas."

"I'm sorry," he apologized, "but I promised to call the house at 6, and it's ten after now. Don't let your sandwich get cold; I'll be right back."

But Jean asked abruptly: "Why are you coming back? You've been awfully nice to me, but. . . . there isn't anything else you can do now."

He put his hands on the table and leaned toward her. "You mean you'd rather I wouldn't come back. . . ?"

He held his questioning gaze steadily. "I mean nothing of the kind, Sandy Clause."

She saw the laughter come back into his eyes, saw a smile on his lips, and knew vaguely that in that moment they had by common consent dispensed with the conventional barrier that had stood between them until now.

"Not more than 10 minutes," he said quietly, and was striding toward the door.

* * * *

When, all of 15 minutes later, he had not returned, Jean grew uneasy. Her sandwich was gone, her coffee cup was empty. His sandwich and coffee were cold.

The suspicion that he had taken the easiest means of getting away from her eased her fears none. Strangely, she felt as if she had lost her last anchor in a rough sea. This was New York. In her purse were two cents. Very soon she must find a place to sleep—on credit.

Suppose he didn't come back . . . ? Suppose. . . .

A little laugh from deep in her throat was her answer to her fears. She was no worse off than before he came. In fact. . . .

He came up so suddenly that she was startled.

"We're in luck," he said gaily, dropping into his chair. "She wasn't at home, but I finally located her. She's going straight to the apartment. . . ."

Jean stared at him, deeply puzzled. After a moment she asked quietly: "What are you talking about?"

He pushed his sandwich and coffee to one side and folded his arms on the table. "Now listen a moment. I want you to do something for me." He spoke in a low voice, slowly deliberately. "I was the cause of your losing your suitcase. Without it, you can't get into a hotel without having to answer some embarrassing questions. But even you will admit you must have some place to spend the night. Yes . . ?"

"Yes," said Jean, "but I don't understand. . . ."

"You will in a moment. While I was out I called Marcia White. She's a very dear friend of mine and a good sport. I told her frankly what had occurred. Before I could get to the point of it all, she interrupted to ask if you wouldn't spend the night with her. I told her. . . ."

Jean's yellow head was shaking firmly. "I'm sorry. . . . But don't you see I couldn't do that? You . . . you don't know women. She'd do it . . . for your sake, but. . . . Oh, no; I couldn't, really!"

"Don't say that . . . please." His eyes were pleading. "I'm asking you to do this for me, Miss Melba. You're not in your little Connecticut town tonight. You're in a city with no more heart than a cement slab. You've got to have some place to stay and by staying with Marcia you're relieving me of a responsibility. You see," he added, smiling, "if I hadn't thrown your suitcase away, you could go where you pleased."

Jean smiled, too; smiled at his innocence. Suitcase or no suitcase, she hadn't but 2 cents to her name; and where could one get a room for 2 cents?

Gradually she understood that she hadn't any choice but to do what he proposed.

She heard his voice pleading earnestly. "I wouldn't take you to Marcia's if I wasn't so sure of her," he told her, persuasively. "Two minutes after you've met her, you'll wonder if you haven't known her for years. Really. She's that kind. Intelligent and human. . . . Spend the night with her. Tomorrow morning I'll replace your suitcase and its contents and. . . . You're free to go and go where you please after that, of course."

Jean said quietly: "But you won't replace the suitcase. It wasn't your fault, and if you hadn't come along when you did . . . I don't know what that man would have done to me. . . . Besides, I don't need it."

"Don't you?" There was no laughter in his eyes now, only admiration. "All right. We'll not argue that now. But you will go to Marcia's with me . . ?"

Jean's eyes met his, helplessly. What else could she do?

"All right," she said after a moment. "I only hope you don't regret what you're doing . . ."

He jumped up quickly and held her coat for her. "Is it likely?" he grinned, and hurried her out, apparently afraid lest she change her mind.

It was not a short ride and the taxi could make but poor progress in the heavy traffic, but to Jean it was ended all too soon. She dreaded meeting Marcia White.

"Tomorrow," she told him as they entered the big building. "I'm going to walk somewhere and see if I can't find a job."

They left the elevator at the second floor and walked along a bread corridor. A door stood half open. Clause knocked loudly.

"And friend!" he called back, cheerfully. "We're coming in."

He pushed the door wide. They passed through a little hallway and entered a big, luxuriously appointed living room. Jean felt miserably small and out of place.

And then Marcia White came from an adjoining room, tall and darkly beautiful. She gave Jean a slim, firm hand. "I'm sorry I couldn't get to the door," she smiled. "I was tidying your room. Sandy'll take your things . . ." She suddenly moved forward, took his face in her hands and kissed him—"after I've rewarded him for bringing you," she finished, and kissed him again.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Careers don't begin very often as quickly and as simply as that of June MacCloy. She went to New York and got a job because some one liked her appearance and the way she sang.

JUNE MacCLOY

Of course, much happened before that time. Anyway, June is here now, playing an important role in "Reaching for the Moon" with Douglas Fairbanks, her second movie appearance. Her first was in a one-reel single, which as such didn't mean much, but as a test film it meant a long trip and a chance of residence, maybap a permanent one.

June is named after the month in which she was born, in 1909, and the town was Sturgis, Mich. She is blonde, willowy and rather tall. Blue eyes and pearly teeth complete the description.

June had a musical education, so when a high-school pal suggested a vaudeville act, she joined him. After a few weeks she had offers to sing in night clubs in New York and accepted them.

Her low-pitched singing voice won the public's fickle attention and soon Earl Carroll engaged her for the "Vanities."

She thought she was hitting pretty until she invited her mother to witness a dress rehearsal. And then she left the "Vanities" because mother felt June's costume was much too abbreviated.

Few Hardships.

Two days later June was discovered again. An agent for the "Scandals" saw her in a cafe and told her to report the following day. So in that show she sang and impersonated famous characters.

When June was "found" the third time, the finder represented a film company. She made a singing film, which also was a test, and that came to Hollywood by air mail for executives to see. Then the contract and a ticket here followed.

Few talkie Cinderella stories are as devoid of hardships and hard work and other handicaps as June's is. Things always have come her way—and she's hoping a contract for an indefinite stay in Hollywood is among them.

Comes the Yawn.

Stories around town:

Irene Dunn was given a perplexing assignment. Because she was to take part in a death scene, she was asked to stay up all night so she would look sufficiently haggard.

Mary Pickford has resorted to autographs, a favorite movie device, to stir up business on her miniature golf course. Players who break par or who make a hole in one are given a golf ball bearing the Pickford signature.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Broughton" is derived from two Anglo Saxon sources. In many cases it is the modern form of "Broctun," and its full significance is "he who lives at the farmstead near the brook." When this name is derived from "Burgtun" it means "he who lives at the farmstead near the castle or stronghold." There are over a dozen parishes and towns called Broughton in England. As often happens, many families owe their names to having formerly lived in one of these towns.

The family name "Kemp" (also spelled "Kempe" may be traced back to two quite different sources. In the large majority of cases it is derived from the Old English "cempa," meaning "soldier" and "champion." However, it is sometimes a variation of "Camp." A certain Alan Kempe and a William Kemp are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls.

The family name "Camp" is of French and ultimately of Latin origin. It means "the field," and obviously indicates an original place of residence. In early English records this name is frequently given a Latinized form. The Hundred Rolls mentions a Felicia in Campo and a William de Campo.

The family name "Rauscher" is of German origin. It was obviously first given as a nickname since it means "the noise-maker."

The family name "Pomeroy" (also spelled "Pomroy" and "Pommery") is of French origin. It means "the apple orchard," and indicates an original place of residence. It is found in the Hundred Rolls with the spellings "Pomereye" and "Pomeray."

Fifth Avenue Fashions

No small wonder for its popularity—it's so thoroughly smart, youthful and wearable.

It adapts itself especially well to the sheer woolen fabrics that are so entirely smart for all-day wear.

Style No. 813 is very easy to wear and easy to make. It comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. The 16-year size takes but 3¾ yards of 39-inch material, with 1½ yards of 1¼-inch ribbon and 1¼ yards of binding to make it. Think of the small cost for a stunning costume.

Spongy tweed in Bordeaux red is illustrated.

FRANCES M'DONALD

"Desperation."

MY Dear Miss McDonald: What shall I do? I am a broken-hearted wife and mother. I have eight children, the sweetest children and so bright. I have been married fifteen years and was happy and had a good, hard-working husband. He saved and I saved, I skimped myself and children and gave to him to save. Then he got going to these restaurants and road houses and at last he got in with a girl. He has been going with her over a year and he does not give me a thought. He does not even look at his children. She gets his money. He does well, for he is in business for himself. I think all she wants with him is his money. He stays out all night Saturdays dancing and wants to sleep all day. Sunday night he is out again until 5 or 6 o'clock and expects me to get him up at 6 a. m. for work.

He never gives his children one penny to spend. I sew sometimes for people to buy clothes for the children and give them what I can. If I ask him for money he says, "I have no change." He keeps us back in the woods. I sometimes don't see a woman in two months. All I see is the mail man and milk man.

I often thought I would follow him, but if I would catch him and that girl I might do something I would be sorry for. I think of my children. I do not want to part with them, so what am I to do? When I say anything to him he says "Don't you like it? You know what to do." I don't know if this girl knows he is married and has a family. But some don't care, but, oh, you young girls ought to make sure when you go with a man and first find out whether he is married. I wish the editor would have a space where all the women could correspond together who have troubles to tell. It would help us just to tell each other. I wish I could hear from some of these other wives and mothers whose husbands have gone wrong. Did they come back? When these young women find them out and send them off I guess they are only too glad to come home to their wives and children. Can some other woman tell me what to do?

I read so much where women kill other women and kill their husbands. What else can they do?

Please answer me before it is too late. "MOTHER."

Now listen, the women you read about are not women like you. Usually they are crazed by drink, and no longer able to figure out the consequences that await them after their insanity has passed. Whatever this man has done, he has not so far disgraced his helpless children as you would if you start following your husband around. You are a mother and far above such common behavior. Forget it for all time.

If you knew how many women have exactly the same thing to bear, you would be astonished. I hope some of these mothers who have lived through just such a heart-breaking experience, really will write to you. Thousands have learned to live their whole life in their children, and let the shallow, unfeeling father go his way. Battling and fighting simply makes a wreck of the wife.

Once a woman makes up her mind that a man is unworthy, it is surprising how swiftly she ceases to have any feeling whatever for him. It is only while she is still excusing his faults and fooling herself that she continues to feel love for him and long for what is past. Once she wakes up and accepts the fact that he is worthless, the battle is won.

Live in the love and loveliness of your children. Let their father be as if dead. With regard to the matter of support, go to the courthouse and ask for instruction as to how to proceed to force your husband to provide for his children and yourself. They will put him under bond to provide, which means that if he does not obey he will be arrested and sent to jail for contempt of court. A man can not be compelled to live with his wife and family, but he can be compelled to support them.

Stop worrying about him. He is not worth one of your thoughts. Be bright and happy and make your children proud of at least one of their parents. And write to me often. Whenever you are lonely. Will you do that?

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

The Menu.

Chilled Diced Fruit
Roast Turkey Savory Dressing
Mashed Potatoes Giblet Gravy
Cranberry Sauce Creamed Carrots
Bread Butter
Celery and Apple Salad Cheese Balls
Date Ice Box Cake Whipped Cream
Coffee
Assorted Nuts

Savory Dressing for 12-Pound Fowl.

8 cups bread crumbs
½ cup butter, melted
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
1 egg
2 tablespoons hot milk

Lightly mix ingredients with a fork. Lightly stuff dressing into the fowl.

Cranberry Sauce.

8 cups cranberries
3 cups water
3 cups sugar

Carefully wash and look over the berries, removing all stems. Add the water. Cook in a covered pan until the berries have burst their skins. Add the sugar and boil gently five minutes. Cool and chill.

It is advised to cook cranberries in an enameled kettle and to use a wooden spoon for stirring.

Celery and Apple Salad.

2 cups chopped celery
3 cups diced apples
½ cup broken nuts
1 cup diced pineapple
1 cup salad dressing

Chill the ingredients. Combine half the dressing with rest of ingredients. Serve on lettuce and top with rest of dressing. Serve at once.

Date Ice Box Cake.

(To be made 24 hours prior to serving)

2 cups rolled graham crackers
2 cups chopped dates
2 cups diced marshmallows
1 cup broken nuts
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
5 tablespoons cream

Mix ingredients with a fork. Shape into a roll 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill 24 hours. Cut in thin slices and serve on plates. Top with whipped or ice cream.

This is a convenient dessert to serve for company, as it can be made a long time before it is to be served.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

THE DIVISION OF FOOD MONEY.

(American Red Cross.)

The much-urged economic rule helps: Spend at least as much for milk as for meat and fish; at least as much for fruits and vegetables as for meat and fish. Or divide the food money approximately into fifths:

One-fifth for milk.

One-fifth or more for vegetables or fruit.

One-fifth or less for meat and fish.

One-fifth for cereal products.

One-fifth for other foods.

Even if no serious outward ill effects are observed, habitual overeating of any nutritive essential should firmly be discouraged. Our bodies are all too patient and long suffering, and our aim is not to avoid disaster but to achieve abundant health.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

WORK IS STARTED ON BANK BUILDING

ADOPT COLONIAL DESIGN

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Workmen are now engaged in digging the foundations of the new building which is to be the future home of the National Bank of Fairfax. The contract was let this week to C. W. Wohlgemuth, of Washington, who submitted the lowest bid. The plans for the building were drawn by a Washington architect and approved some time ago. The building is to be located on the site formerly occupied by the historic Fairfax Tavern, on the corner of Main and Payne streets. According to the contract, the building is to be completed within 120 working days, which will allow the bank to transfer its business to the new structure about the 1st of April.

According to the plans, the new building will be 45 feet wide and 64 feet long, will be set back 25 feet from Main street and 21 feet from Payne street. The structure will be a one-story and basement building of colonial brick, with white wood exterior trim and a slate roof to harmonize with the courthouse across the street. An attempt is being made to keep the building a pure Virginia colonial type, both inside and out. The two stores in the semibasement will face on Payne street. The building will be landscaped on all sides.

The plans for the interior show an entrance vestibule with officers' and ladies' room on either side. The space for the public is in the center, with tellers' windows on each side.

The finishings are to be of knotty pine. The vault will be located in the rear center, with coupon booths on one side and book vaults on the other. The bookkeepers and clerks' room will be in the right rear, with directors' conference room in the left rear. A large directors' room and a smaller conference room will be located on the mezzanine floor, above the vaults

Fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed a three-story barn, 350 hogs and about 40 tons of hay on the farm of Vernon Lynch, near Annandale on the Alexandria-Fairfax pike. The loss was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $10,000. According to the statement of Mr. Lynch he visited the barn about 6 o'clock and did not detect any thing amiss. About 8 p. m., the light outside attracted his attention and he discovered that the structure was in flames.

The barn is located about 100 yards from the house. The fire departments of Falls Church, Fairfax and Vienna responded to the alarm and their efforts were confined to keeping the flames from spreading to the surrounding buildings which housed several hundred additional hogs. Because of the drought the streams in the neighborhood were too shallow to attempt to pump water on the blaze.

Joint funeral services for the four victims of the Colvin Run fire Tuesday night will be held this morning in the Andrew Chapel Church on the Leesburg-Alexandria pike, about 3 miles from Tysons Corners. The mother, Mrs. Vernice Sullivan, 27, and three children, Elizabeth 9, Elsie 6 and Daniel J. jr., 4, will be buried in the same grave in the Andrew Chapel Cemetery.

The victims are survived by the husband and father, Daniel J. Sullivan and Mrs. Sullivan's father, Edward Lyons, of Ballston, and her sister, Mrs. Mammie Sloper, of Haymarket, Va., and three brothers, William Lyons, of Falls Church; Elwood Lyons and Joseph Lyons, of Ballston.

The Ladies' Aid and Women's Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian Church at Falls Church will hold its annual fall bazaar and luncheon this afternoon in the church social rooms. During the noon hour a special luncheon will be served for the school children. Mrs. George C. Thompson has been named as general chairman for the occasion. She will be assisted at the food table by Mrs. John F. Trabold, at the fancy work booth by Mrs. E. L. McNair, at the apron counter by Mrs. E. L. Redfield and at the candy booth by Mrs. Frank N. Thompson. Mrs. Frank Eastman will have charge of the luncheon for school children.

Masonic Lodge Directs A. D. Strickler Burial

Special to The Washington Post.

Philippi, W. Va., Nov. 19.—Funeral services for Arthur DeWitt Strickler, 75, past grand master of the West Virginia Grand Lodge, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, were held this afternoon at the home of his brother-in-law, R. E. Talbott, with officers of the grand lodge in charge. There was a Knights Templar escort. Mr. Strickler was found dead at his home at Parsons, W. Va., apparently as a result of a heart attack. He was a native of Philippi.

He is survived by one son, Robert Strickler, professor of Greek and Latin in Southwestern University, Memphis, Tenn. He also leaves a brother, the Rev. Robert M. Strickler, New Castle, Pa., and four sisters, Mrs. Sam V. Woods, Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. William A. Burdette, Huntington; Mrs. R. E. Talbott, Philippi, and Mrs. E. F. Ervin, Weston.

Virginia Soloist Weds Silk Mill's Manager

Special to The Washington Post.

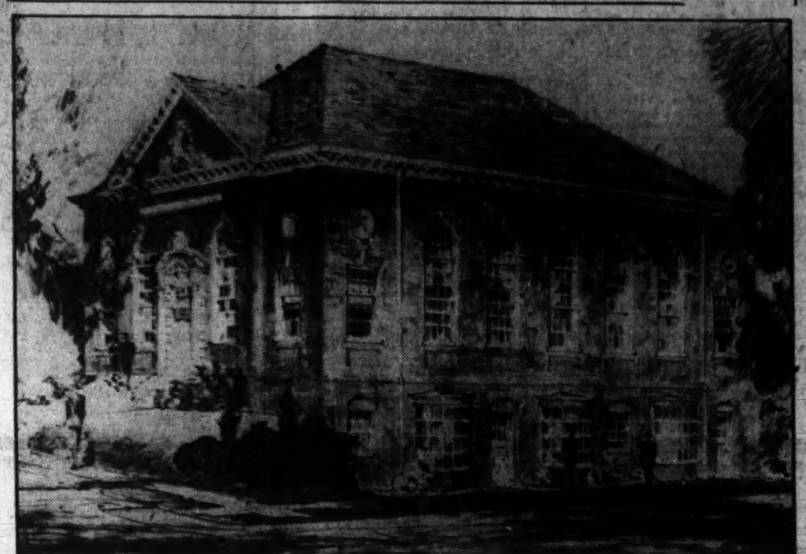
Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 19.—Miss Jane Grigsby Farrar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Farrar, of Franklin, in this county, and T. Dallas Bailey, of this city, were married at 4:30 p. m. today. The ceremony was performed in Grace Episcopal Church, near Cismont, by the Rev. Francis L. Robinson, rector. The church was decorated with chrysanthemums, palms and ferns.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bailey left for an extended motor trip North. The bride is a well-known singer and was soloist for the Charlottesville Municipal Band. Mr. Bailey is general manager of the S. & R. Silk Mills.

W. W. Johnson Dies in Charles Town.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 19 (Special).—William Worthington Johnson, a lifelong resident of Charles Town, near here, died at his home yesterday after a brief illness. Death was due to high blood pressure and came at the age of 76 years. Surviving are two children, Mrs. Daniel Walker and Joseph Johnson, and a brother, John O. Johnson, all of Charles Town.

NEW FAIRFAX BANK BUILDING TO COST $25,000



Architect's drawing of the new building for home of the National Bank of Fairfax, which is now under construction. The building is to be located on the corner of Main and Payne streets in the town of Fairfax, Va., and will cost approximately $25,000 when completed. It has been designed in colonial style, to harmonize with the historic Fairfax County Courthouse across the street.

TWO ARE SENTENCED ON DRUNKEN DRIVING

Fine Fixed at $101 in Each Case, When Heard in Prince Georges.

3 FACE HUNTING COUNTS

Convicted of reckless and drunken driving, Frank B. Winston, of Hyattsville, was fined $101 yesterday in Prince Georges County police court. One hundred dollars of the sentence was on the charge of driving while drunk. The man was arrested Tuesday by State Policeman C. W. Cubbage.

Charged with the same offense, William C. O'Connor, who gave his address as Fourth street near T street northwest, forfeited the same sum. Locked up and charged by Albert Anderson, chief of police of the town, O'Connor posted collateral, but failed to answer when his case was called.

A fine of $100 was placed against John A. Nettles upon his conviction on a charge of driving after his permit had been revoked. He was arrested by State Policeman Carl Storm. Three cases involving hunting without a license were also tried in the court before Judge J. Chew Sheriff. Rudolph S. Goddard, sr., Rudolph S. Goddard, jr., and Lester Payne were each fined $20 on similar hunting charges.

Two gypsies were also fined yesterday on disorderly conduct charges, each paying $10. They were George Mitchell and Peter Johns, who are alleged to have become unruly when a county policeman went to their camp on the Baltimore Boulevard near Berwyn, to tell them they must move.

Charging her husband, H. Bernard Ruppert, with intimacy with a woman whose name is not known, Sarada K. Ruppert yesterday sued for divorce in Prince Georges County Circuit Court. Through her attorneys, Albert M. Hassall and J. Wilson Ryon, the woman asks absolute separation from the man, whom she married in 1919.

Two children have been born of the marriage, but only one of them, Bernard, jr., 4 years old, is now alive. The wife asks the custody of the child as well as alimony.

Ruth Thomas also sued for absolute divorce, alleging that her husband, Louis Thomas, deserted her in 1925. The couple were married in 1923, and have one child, Barbara, 6 years old. The woman asks that the court award the child to her. U. Grant Tyler appears for her.

The release of most of the prisoners sent to the Maryland House of Correction from Prince Georges County hinges on the outcome of a habeas corpus hearing to be held next week before Circuit Court Judge Joseph C. Mattingly. Fred Young, who was sentenced to the jail, claims that his commitment was illegal because signed by the deputy clerk of the police court. Nearly all of the other prisoners sentenced recently have been committed on the same basis.

J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassall appear as attorneys for Young, who was sentenced to two years for assault and battery. He has served about six months of the time.

There was a similar case in Baltimore last summer, when the prisoner was released on a habeas corpus proceeding. In this case, however, the court did not pass on the constitutionality of the law. In the Baltimore affair, also, the commitment was signed by Thomas R. Renault, clerk of the police court. There is a special law, applicable to Prince Georges County, which is generally considered to make commitments signed by Henault legal, but whether it applies to deputy clerks has not been decided.

According to the general law in Maryland, only in courts of record can clerks sign commitments. Magistrate courts are not considered as courts of record, and Judge J. Chew Sheriff, of the police court, holds an appointment as magistrate at large. The specific law allowing his clerks to sign is definite, however, but it makes no mention of deputies. Young's lawyers claim that it is "bad law" for the deputy to have the power.

A result favorable to Young may cause the release of a large number of the criminals convicted of minor crimes within the past several months.

Results of the recent Schick test at the District Line School, made public yesterday, show that only 10.5 per cent of the children tested are susceptible to diphtheria. This low proportion is due to the fact, it is believed, that many children have been given the toxin-anti-toxin treatment within the last few months.

Seventeen per cent of the children tested were of pre-school age, and a few were older children from the Maryland Park High School. Tests were given to 100.

Of 220 children also given the test at the Bradbury Heights School, about 34 per cent are susceptible. No anti-diphtheria treatment has been given at this school recently.

Board of Canvassers Starts Work Monday

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Virginia's State Board of Canvassers will start to work on their task of determining the official returns of the November 4 election, when they meet at the capitol, Monday.

Col. Peter Saunders, secretary of the Commonwealth, has called the meeting of the canvassers under the provisions of the law, on the fourth Monday in November. The canvassers include State Treasurer John M. Purcell, State Comptroller E. R. Combs, Attorney General John R. Saunders, Col. Saunders, and Gov. John Garland Pollard. They will meet in the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth.

Alderman Warns Of Blasted Lives

Classes Bared Middle Age as Worst of Tragedies, in Annapolis Talk.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Nov. 19. — "The worst tragedies are not those which happen in front of street cars, under automobiles, or at railroad crossings. They are those of the men who at 45 or 50 have folded their tents, banked their fires, and sat down to inocuous old age with no interest in life," Lewis R. Alderman, of Washington, superintendent of education in the Department of the Interior, said in his address to the Parent-Teacher Association here.

"Know Your School," was his general theme. "Every one of your children is the most important problem in the whole world today," he said. "You can not exonerate yourself from the education of your child or children. Both father and mother should share in the responsibility of caring for and educating their boys and girls."

"Your problem is to strengthen your children at home and in the school," he went on. "Have a definite time and place for children to do their home work. Homes should be the most beautiful places in America." He urged his hearers to develop constructive conversation, an art of the foremost importance—to talk about the subjects which the child is studying and thus magnify their significance.

Keyser, W. Va., Nov. 19.—James Philip Naughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Naughton, and Miss Margaret Ann Tahaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Tahaney, were married yesterday in the Catholic Church of the Assumption by the Rev. Patrick J. Morahan, pastor.

Francis Naughton and Miss Teresa Tahaney were the attendants. Mr. Naughton, a graduate of Bliss Electrical School, Washington, is storekeeper for the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Allentown, Pa. His bride formerly taught in the Mineral County schools.

Chemical Society's Head Will Speak in Richmond

The address will be a part of the program for the annual visit of the society president. Dr. McPherson will be tendered a dinner at the University Club preceding his address.

Goal of Bag Limit Is Beyond Hunters

Game Reported as Small and Scarce in Virginia; Licenses Decline.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Nov. 19.—Hunters report very little game in Fauquier County. A large number were in the fields by sunrise of the opening day of the season, but none of them got the bag limit. The birds are reported small and scarce. A few sportsmen have been fortunate in securing wild turkeys on the Fauquier-Stafford line.

Up to the final hour before the season opened, 1,000 county licenses had been sold by the clerk of the court and his deputies. About 375 State licenses and 80 nonresident hunting licenses had been secured. This total is considerably under that of last year.

It is believed the game commission will be asked to close the season after December 6. It has already agreed to set that date for hearing throughout the 25 counties in northern Virginia. The first meeting will be held here on November 28.

English Author to Lecture Here.

FARM RALLY URGES FAIR TRADING PLAN

OPPOSE ROAD BUILDING

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 19.—Augusta County farmers held a rally here yesterday in the courthouse, in which they asserted they are not asking relief, but a "square deal," and adopted the following report, presented by a committee named recently by the farm local's board of directors:

"1. We believe our commission merchants in live stock are not giving our farmers a square deal. For instance, on October 25 we shipped some calves to market. One common calf brought 9 cents, one medium calf, 11 cents, and a fair to good calf, 13 cents. We felt this was a good price, so we thought we would ship some better calves. The next week we shipped three pure-bred beef calves. One common and one medium brought 6 cents and one of the best calves ever shipped brought 8 cents.

Price Spread Shown.

"We shipped our baby beeves to Baltimore. They were fed and attended to good, with an average loss of 80 pounds. One boy having two calves weighing 20 pounds difference when they left home, and 110 pounds when sold; one bringing 14½ cents that lost the most weight; the other 12 cents. No dealer or farmer can do business under these conditions. A lot of good cattle have been sold from 5 cents to 7 cents, while good roast is selling for 25 cents and steak from 35 cents to 45 cents.

"2. Wheat is 70 to 90 cents, while bread is selling at ten cents a loaf—as high as it ever was known to sell. One-half of the people use baker's bread and two-thirds of the flour comes from the outside of the big district. We noticed some comment a short while ago on some things being cheaper; but we did not notice any comment on the things that remained high. We feel a great deal of good could be done by reducing the retail price of these products and getting people to eat more of our own products.

Ask Local Labor.

"We feel that any extra road appropriation made will not benefit the farmer financially, as they have a great deal of the tax to pay in the end; unless the contracts where heavy machinery are used are left off at present and preference be given to work where local labor and teams and trucks can be used.

"We believe that most of the money available should be at present used on the farm and market roads. Believing that our board of supervisors have done what they could along this line, we wish to thank them, and ask them to use every effort they can to use the farm and local labor to build more 10 to 12 foot market roads, and not so many boulevards."

Garber Will Fight For Conservation

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Nov. 19.—Though defeated for reelection November 4, Representative Jacob A. Garber, Republican, will continue with his efforts to have the Federal Government restock trout streams of this county that went dry during the past summer, causing the loss of millions of rainbow trout.

Jeremy's Run, the county's chief trout stream, a favorite resort for angling members of President Hoover's Cabinet, which fell to dry weather, bringing death to hundreds of thousands of fish during the past summer, will be the first stream to be restocked, Representative Garber will immediately make application for enough fingerlinings to restock this stream.

Other streams of Page and Madison counties will also be restocked, he said.

Former Almshouse Head Is Placed Under Bond

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 19.—George Tarpley, formerly superintendent of the Consolidated County Almshouse, has been placed under $1,000 bond to appear in the Pittsylvania Domestic Relations Court when needed by Magistrate C. A. Warren.

Ten days ago Trapley left the institution under circumstances which have not been revealed. It has been learned, however, that he went to Cuba, but returned to Chatham on Monday.

COLD WAVE HOWLS ON WAY EASTWARD

MIDWEST WILL SHIVER

Denver, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The Rocky Mountain region's first severe storm of the season tonight howled on its way Eastward into Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri, with clearing weather in the mountain States forecast for tomorrow.

The Arctic weather claimed two lives during its tour over the West. Tonight, however, twelve persons trapped by the snow had not been accounted for. Many were rescued from blockades.

"Ty" Cobb, oil driller, reported lost in the blizzard which raged yesterday along the Colorado-Wyoming border, was found today in a semiconscious condition. He had walked to an abandoned camp after his automobile stalled in deep snow.

The storm victims were Dr. H. P. Harp, who lost his life in a traffic accident in El Paso, Tex., attributed to blinding snow, and William C. Godfrey, chief forest ranger in the Crater Lake National Park, Oreg., who died after a struggle through snow nearly 4 feet deep.

Anxiety Felt For Hunters.

Anxiety was felt for seven of the 194 big-game hunters known to have been trapped by snow in the mountains of the Gila National Forest, N. Mex. One of the hunting parties of four men was headed by Colin Neblett, of Santa Fe, United States district judge.

Searches are in progress for Robert Hunter, 16-year-old deer hunter lost in the Coeur d'Alene (Idaho) district, and Allan Larson, of Fairview, Utah, missing since Friday.

The snow fall over the mountain States ranged from 2 inches to more than 3 feet. Denver was under a 12-inch blanket, and southern Colorado was covered 18 inches deep. The fall was much heavier in the mountains, where many passes were closed for the season by the drifts.

Transcontinental air mail travel was paralyzed over both the Northern and Southern routes by the heavy, swirling flakes, and drifts which blocked the Lincoln Highway west of Cheyenne, Wyo., and the Yellowstone Highway north of the Wyoming capital.

Covers Wide Territory.

Winter opened its invasion of the West Sunday and during its stand held most of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico and parts of Nevada, California and Oregon in its frigid clutch.

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—While a cold wave held forth in the Rocky Mountains today, Chicago and other midwest points enjoyed unseasonably warm weather. The mercury scaled to 74 degrees here this afternoon, breaking all records for heat in November.

Temperatures in this region at 3 p. m. ranged from 43 degrees in Duluth to 69 in Des Moines. Chicago will have another day of warm weather, since the cold spell is not expected to reach here until late tomorrow or Friday. But other points west and north will not be so fortunate, as rain that may turn to snow was forecast for tonight.

Rain or Snow Forecast.

Lincoln, Nebr., reported rain all day and 52 degrees at 3 p. m. A heavy snowstorm was blowing in the western part of the State. St. Paul, which experienced 63 degrees, the warmest November 19 in 60 years, was in the path of colder weather, rain or snow tonight. The same was forecast for Omaha, with a high today of 66 degrees, and Milwaukee, where the mercury touched 54.

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board yesterday began proceedings against the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. to require it to file its maximum rates, fares and charges with the board.

Declaring the company had persisted in neglecting its obligations, the board found the company required by a section of the shipping act to file its rates as a common carrier engaged in interstate transportation on the high seas. The board previously had determined Chesapeake Bay waters on which the company operates, to be high seas.

Mute Pastor Prepares Church for Deaf Folk

Durham, N. C., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A congregation which can not hear a sermon and whose rector can not speak today laid the foundation for a church building here.

It was that of Ephphatha Episcopal Church. All its members are deaf and many are dumb. The Rev. Roma C. Fortune, the rector, is a deaf mute and delivers his sermons in sign language.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL.

THIS column is informed by Mr. Hubbard Keavy, chief of its West Coast ear-to-the ground department, who frequently comes to bat with information which in its entirety is not immediately available otherwise so far from point of origin—that in Hollywood they call her Tashman, whether speaking of her or to her.

The case of Tashman, whose first name is Lilyan and whose legal one is Mrs. Edmund Lowe, is one of the enigmas of moviana.

The woman and the actress are two distinct personalities, which differ in a ratio exactly opposite to that of most film players.

The woman, Tashman is an exotic, interesting personality, known and talked about in Hollywood and on Broadway, or wherever else there is a group that has met her or seen her in person.

She has an uncanny instinct for wearing the bizarrely smart and her fads and foibles, so often written about, have brought her to the attention of moviegoers who scarcely knew she existed as an actress.

The actress Tashman is a pale and colorless individual compared to the lusty-voiced creature of flesh and blood, and deep-throated, not quite beautiful but oddly fascinating person who is the woman.

Lately she has been playing comedy characterizations for a change. Since her entrance into pictures six years ago vampire roles mostly have been her fate.

When the screen started talking, Lilyan Tashman was able through the use of her expressive voice to project more of her personality. Before that she never had an outstanding picture. Ask any film follower what he has been Tashman play in in silent pictures.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan" was her first sound picture. She did an excellent job of her part. "Bulldog Drummond" brought her to the foreground more strikingly.

Tashman came to the screen from the stage. She had been a Ziegfeld showgirl before attempting more serious dramatics.

Since 1924 she has played in countless pictures and she never has had an involuntarily vacation. Yet she never quite clicks—not to the extent of stardom, that is.

Maybe Tashman will get a role one of these days that will show her as she is.

And if she does—boy, howdy!

There is, I dare say, a foretaste of what the Bobby Jones golf reels are to be like in Grantland Rice's Sportlight on "Racqueteers," being shown as one of the major auxiliaries of the current bill at the Palace.

Mr. Rice appears in person in a brief introductory to his film, in which he outlines the salient features of tennis, jai-a-lai and lacrosse.

Thereupon "Big Bill" Tilden expatiates further upon the game in which he has won so many championships and then is shown in championship play on the Forest Hills courts.

Lou Magnolia, the celebrated referee, who has become habituated to wintering in the subtropics, then falls into a sea of picturesque verbiage on the topic of the Cuban and Latin-America sport and a West Pointer winds up the proceedings by finepointing a bit on the inheritance from the Canadian Indians—all illustrated by spirited play.

Mr. Jones—whose name now will probably be written Robert re-Tyre Jones—as I understand it, is to describe his shots and method of play as he goes along in the Warner celluloids. I trust Mr. Rice hasn't caught him off balance.

The newsreels are featuring another champion, too, by the way. Mr. James Joseph Tunney, the only man who ever won a heavyweight championship backing away, is shown caught in the crowd outside the courtroom where he was saved the trouble of passing the trivial sum of $500,000 smackers over to Tim Mara, the sports promoter.

Mr. Tunney, in a very what-ho accents, feels sure that he at lawst has been justified in the position he has taken in the case that has harassed him no end since 1926, the jolly old pipsqueak.

Lawrence Downey, for many months the "invisible master of ceremonies"—and later the visible—at the Fox Theater, and before that a member of Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue" company in New York, is vacationing in the Capital from his present home in Des Moines, Iowa.

Although Mr. Downey, one of the most gifted barytones Washington has ever contributed to the big time, is still active vocally, he has definitely abandoned the stage as a profession and is devoting his energies to pursuits that are wholly commercial—and, his many friends in the Capital will be happy to know, with conspicuous success.

Attractions for the new week in the downtown, first-run houses line up as follows for the week beginning Friday at the Fox, next Wednesday night at the Metropolitan and this Saturday everywhere else: RKO-Keith's, Richard Cromwell in "Tol'able David;" Palace, William Haines and Mary Doran in "Remote Control;" Fox, El Brendel, Maureen O'Sullivan and Marjorie White in "Just Imagine;" Rialto, Lupe Velez and Lewis Ayres in "East is West;" Earle, Marilyn Miller in "Sunny;" Columbia, Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in "Min and Bill," second week; Metropolitan, beginning Thanksgiving eve, star cast in "Outward Bound."

At the Metropolitan, Lila Lee, Joe Frisco and Harry Gribbon will continue through Sunday in "The Gorilla," following which the house will be closed three days for renovation and partial redecoration, preparatory to the establishment of the two-a-day, reserved seat policy.

Mr. Meakin, of the Fox, freewheeled to New York and back the early part of the present week to attend a de luxe conclave of the de luxe managing directors of the de luxe Fox houses along the de luxe eastern seaboard.

From de luxe of things a very elegant lime was had by all!

City Completes Christmas Plans

Martinsburg Will Appear in Festive Garb for Holiday Season.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 19.—Plans were completed here today for an ambitious and striking Christmas decoration program which will embrace the entire downtown section of Martinsburg and have its climax in the annual community Christmas tree.

J. E. Thrasher, chairman of the bureau arranging the affair, said streets would be arched and festooned with cross-street green garlands besprinkled with 2,000 colored lights; the "white way" street lamps flaunting the holiday coloring in place of their customary white. Sufficient business houses have pledged their assistance to assure the project, he said.

Laurel, cedar, pine and other evergreens will be used for trimmings. The light globes used will be alternately white and red. The decorations will be illuminated December 8 and continue in place until New Year's Day.

Guide Dies of Wounds Inflicted by Policeman

Cadillac, Mich., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Wake Sherwood, 60-year-old veteran Northwoods guide, died in a hospital here today from a bullet wound inflicted by Gerald Harris, State policeman, last Saturday.

Sherwood, according to Harris' version of the shooting, failed to stop the automobile in which he was carrying a party of hunters when ordered to do so by officers who wished to examine the game killed. Harris followed in a commandeered car, jumped to Sherwood's running board, was shaken off and fired from the ground. Harris' report said that there were two slain does in the car. Shooting of does is prohibited.

Fewer Unemployed in England.

London, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Unemployment for the week ended November 10 showed a decrease, for the first time in seven weeks. The figures were 2,361,777 unemployed, 1,350 fewer than for the preceding week. There was an increase, however, of 1,002,643 over the figure for the corresponding week of last year.

Policemen Injured As Car Overturns

One Private Is Seriously Injured in Chasing Rum Machine.

Two Thirteenth Precinct policemen were injured yesterday, one seriously, when the car in which they were pursuing a rum-running machine was overturned at Blair road and Longfellow street northwest.

The policemen were Privates J. L. Patton and J. H. Martin. Patton was thrown from the car and suffered a possible fractured skull, while Martin escaped with minor lacerations and bruises. He was driving the car.

The men were chasing a car they had seen while cruising around the precinct, and had chased it several blocks, when the rum-car opened a smoke screen. It is believed the steering gear of the car jammed.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of children and adults since Dr. Edwards invented Olive Tablets (the substitute for calomel).

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, had calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-covered tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Wife Unable to Solve Crater's Disappearance

Portland, Me., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Stella Crater, wife of former Justice Joseph Force Crater, of New York, who has been missing since August 5, today told County Attorney Ingalls that she knew nothing concerning his disappearance and had not seen him or been in communication with him at any time since then.

Ingalls interviewed Mrs. Crater as an intermediary for District Attorney Crain, of New York, who is investigating the justice's disappearance.

POSTOFFICE FILES ON LEASE ORDERED

Senate Investigating Body Finds No Basis for Complaint Claim.

BLAINE MAKES REQUEST

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—All correspondence between the local postoffice and Postoffice Department at Washington, bearing on the leasing of the St. Paul commercial postal station, was ordered submitted to the Senate committee investigating postal leases today, by Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, committee chairman. His order was given to Postmaster Charles J. Moos after the latter testified he had complained to the Postoffice Department that the station was unsatisfactory. Senator Blaine said that records he had obtained from the Postoffice Department failed to reveal the presence of any complaints.

Another witness today was Otto N. Raths, postmaster until September, 1921, during whose term of office the negotiations for the lease were conducted. This lease, which was renewed in 1925 with insertion of a noncancelable clause, provided for the payment of $130,000 annual rental for a station which a Federal grand jury in March, 1928, found had a value of only $290,000. The jury, in its report, charged the lease was "tainted with fraud, misrepresentation and corruption."

Chinese Bandits Seize Catholic Mission Head

Omaha, Nebr., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Officials of the St. Columban's Chinese Mission House today verified a report from Shanghai that the Very Rev. Cornelius Tierney, superior of a mission at Kienchang, was in the hands of Chinese bandits.

Father Tierney was stationed here from 1925 until 1926, when he was appointed superior at Kienchang. He came here from Ireland in 1920, was ordained, sent to China and returned in 1925 to join the seminary teaching staff.

Police Preparing Happy Christmas

Fifth Precinct Patrolmen Are Making List of Needy Families.

More than a month remains before Christmas Day rolls around, but police of the Fifth Precinct, under the command of Capt. P. J. Walsh, are already planning to make this Christmas the happiest in history for the youngsters and needy families of the territory which they patrol.

Policemen are already passing the word along to friends of the command, to merchants in the section, and to others who have helped in the past, that because of depression there is greater need than ever before for generous donations to the Fifth Precincts fund. The men who "pound the pavements" are making up lists of families deserving of help and baskets of food will be presented to these on Christmas Eve, following the custom of the precinct for several years.

Capt. Walsh and his men also will have the usual Christmas tree at the station house, with candy and gifts for the children of the neighborhood. Last year more than 3,000 boys and girls received a holiday token at this time, and it is expected the number will be materially increased this season.

Two Wills Left By Rich Magnate

Brother and Half Brother of James L. Hawley Get $4,000,000.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Two documents purporting to be the last will and testament of James J. Hawley, Wheeling capitalist, today were in the hands of the county clerk here. Both documents are similar in provisions, differing only in executors. Under State statutes, 30 days must elapse before they can be probated.

The Wheeling Register says that under the terms of both wills the bulk of the estate, estimated in excess of $4,000,000, is divided between Lewis B. Hawley, brother, and John M. Hawley, half brother, of Blythewood, S. C.

Blythewood, S. C., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Lewis B. Hawley, described in a dispatch from Wheeling, W. Va., as joint heir to James L. Hawley's $4,000,000 estate, is unknown here. John M. Hawley, named as the other heir, is a farmer. His children include Mrs. W. L. Bates, Atlanta, and J. Wood Hawley, Savannah, Ga.

Muscular-Rheumatic Aches and Pains

DRAW them out with a "counter-irritant." Distressing muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness—generally respond pleasantly to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant," because it gets action and is not just a salve. Musterole helps bring soreness and pain to the surface, and thus gives natural relief. You can feel how its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation. But do not stop with one application. Apply this soothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy; jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

ARCHDUKE IS TRIED IN NECKLACE'S SALE

$75,000 FIGURE IS FIXED

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The diamond necklace which Napoleon presented to his empress when she bore him a son may have untold historical value, but it did not look like more than $75,000 worth to a Federal customs man.

Archduke Leopold—who, his attorney said, might under other circumstances be heir to the Austrian throne—went on trial in criminal court today, charged with having connived in the sale of the necklace to a Fifth avenue jeweler against the wishes of its owner, his aunt, the Archduchess Maria Theresa, of Vienna.

John B. Kean, customs examiner, testified he appraised the necklace on its arrival in this country.

History Might Raise Worth.

"As an historical antique," he said, "it might be worth $150,00, but its intrinsic value would not be more than $60,000 or $75,000."

When David L. Michel, New York jeweler, bought the necklace for $60,000, the archduchess indignantly declared it was worth at least $400,000. The necklace was returned to her and Charles L. Townsend, who negotiated the sale and who had once had her power of attorney, was indicted with his wife and Archduke Leopold. The Townsends have not been apprehended.

Leopold is charged with having received a $30,000 commission as a party to the transaction. Today his former attorney, Conrad Milliken, testified that last February Leopold brought the Townsends to his office and showed him a letter whereby Townsend promised to pay a $50,000 commission for the sale of the necklace.

Reminded of Sale Price.

The Archduke demanded his $50,000 Milliken testified, but Townsend pointed out that the selling price had been only $60,000, and that Leopold had already been paid $22,000.

Michel, the jeweler, was the first witness.

"I got the necklace," he said with a sigh, "and the trouble."

Under cross-examination, he said he sold the necklace back to Leopold for $50,000, losing $10,000 on the transaction, and sent it back to Vienna at the archduke's direction.

32 Maryland Road Jobs Will Put 1,320 to Work

Baltimore, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Using increased gasoline tax collections and Federal aid funds, the State Roads Commission has drawn up a list of 32 projects to be undertaken this winter, at a cost of more than $1,500,000.

These are designed to provide employment for 1,320 men, it was announced here today for the Federal Bureau of Public Roads by Harry D. Williar, chief engineer of the commission, who outlined the projects in response to a request.

LEVINE TURNED OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

MABEL BOLL TO PARIS

Vienna, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Vienna police today formally delivered Charles Levine, American aviation enthusiast, to the superior court on charges of having prepared to counterfeit a foreign coinage.

The examining judge of the superior court now will declare Levine's regular arrest for the purpose of interrogation but also enabling attorneys to offer bail for his temporary release.

Police said that the French commission which will arrive here shortly can effect Levine's release if they declare that his alleged attempts at counterfeiting would not have endangered the French monetary system.

Levine was arrested Monday on charges of having sought to have manufactured dies and matrices for the printing of French two-franc pieces.

Youth in Fatal Stoning Sent to Reform School

Welch, W. Va., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Charged with responsibility in the stoning to death of Norman Williams, 13, a 13-year-old North Fork boy was sentenced today to confinement in a State industrial school until he becomes 21.

Four other boys testified the youth who was held threw the stone which killed the Williams lad at North Fork Sunday night. State law prohibits publication of juvenile delinquents' names.

State May Extend Its Game Refuge

Commission in Pennsylvania Plans to Take Over 3,000 More Acres.

Special to The Washington Post.

Ohiopyle, Pa., Nov. 19.—Fayette County's game refuge and public hunting ground may embrace approximately 16,000 acres in Wharton, Dunbar and Stewart townships. The State Game Commission, which has already purchased 7,000 acres, is now considering the advisability of taking over about 3,000 additional acres.

Already the survey of the huge acreage has been completed by engineers of the State game body and the fire lines which will inclose the tract have been marked out. It is not likely that the task of cutting the fire line will get under way before next spring.

Fayette County fish and game protective officials are highly elated over the progress that has marked the establishment of the refuge. It is largely through the association's interest that it was possible to secure the acreage, a committee being delegated to secure options on farm lands.

Higher Tax Rate Seen Under American Plan

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Edward Martin, Pennsylvania State treasurer, in a speech today at the convention of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers, predicted taxes would continue to go up because the American form of government is the most expensive in the world.

"Taxes are going to increase," he said, "because our people demand finer schools, finer roads and better sanitary conditions. Our form of government is the most expensive in the world, but it produces the finest citizenship our civilization ever has seen."

Sydney Chaplin Held Bankrupt.

London, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The London Gazette today printed a receiving order on a creditors' petition against Sydney Chaplin, actor, brother of Charles Chaplin, the film comedian. This action corresponds to an involuntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States.

BRUNDAGE OLYMPIC HEAD; A. A. U. BREACH HEALED

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Now that Gene Tunney has been technically absolved of ingratitude to his old counselor and friend, Tim Mara, the bookmaker, it would be interesting to know what Mr. Tunney intends to do with himself in the remaining years of his effective life. He is rich by his own earnings, if a millionaire prize fighter's fortune can be said to have been earned, and richer yet by implication, having married an heiress to even greater wealth than his own. But he is a young man who pines for distinction and the only distinction that he ever achieved was won in a business which he himself despised.

Therefore, so ambitious a man can hardly be satisfied with having won the heavyweight championship, and I hope I am not intruding too deeply into the private affairs of a suburban gentleman when I suggest that he must go on and achieve something else, preferably some work of the mind, lest he find himself no congenial person for Gene Tunney to live with.

Once, lately, I met Mr. Tunney on a train bound for Grand Central and upon arrival there we stood in the great main lobby talking of various matters, most of which he did not wish to be quoted upon. Aside from these things, he indicated that he was interested in the effects that athletes suffer from knocks on the head, and he reiterated on his word of honor that he first made up his mind to quit fighting when Frank Muaks, a clumsy and utterly hopeless preliminary boy, who was sparring with him for so much a day at Speculator in preparation for the second fight with Dempsey, butted him on the head.

Tunney's Intellect Befogged.

For some time after that, so he reaffirmed, the Tunney intellect was so badly befogged that he could not sleep for fear that he, too, would come down with that strange ataxia, which the profession in its brutal humor describes as fighter's dance, and, maybe, lose his mind. I told him that Dr. Tommy Richards, the chief of eight physicians who attend the Harvard varsity and other football teams in season, was interested in such research, and Mr. Tunney allowed that he would like to meet him and, presumably, sit still and listen.

But, to amount to anything in the field of this interest, he would first have to go through some college, then attend some medical school and serve in a hospital, and even then he would be only a preliminary boy in a game whose championships are won by no intervention from any Tim Mara or Boo Boo Hoffs. And Tunney grows no younger.

Mr. Tunney does seem to be doing something with his time, for he has office room in the Graybar Building in the premises of a firm conducted by one of his remaining old friends. He describes his activities there in a vague, general manner, with some mention of the correspondence which he has to answer as an obligation continuing over from his prize fighting career. But, surely, no prize fighter so long retired as he has been receives enough important mail to occupy his time and his mind, so it is hard to dismiss the idea that he is trying to do something or preparing to try to do something which will distinguish him anew and in some more satisfying way.

"Works" in Friend's Office.

Perhaps he is composing his memoirs. He has always been rather flirtatious with book writers and, although he has often disclaimed any ambition to become an author, this trait still suggests that he would be more pleased to write a creditable book, even an autobiography, without the assistance of a ghost, than to become chairman of the board of some business firm. After he became champion, but not before he took occasion to indicate a low opinion of newspaper writing, and especially of sports writing, there always seemed to me to be an unspoken but very definite conviction that if he were of a mind

Harvard and Yale Lose Backs

Devens and Parker to Miss Traditional Fray Saturday.

Army Seeks Successor to Letzelter; Other Notes of Camps.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19 (A. P.).—After an unusually hard workout today, Coach Mal Stevens announced that the same Yale team that started against Princeton will open against Harvard Saturday except for two men. Bud Parker, half back, who suffered a broken arm in the Princeton game, will be replaced by Ned Austen and Stewart will take Hare's place at left guard. A 30-minute scrimmage against the scrubs was included in today's drill.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Charlie Devens, Harvard half back, who was believed to have recovered from an injury received in the Dartmouth game, was declared definitely out of the Yale game today. Devens still was limping and was declared in danger of serious injury if he played. The Crimson varsity had a 60-minute defensive dummy scrimmage today against the freshmen.

Singer, Guard, Lost To Army.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Attempting to reorganize his back field after the loss of Cy Letzelter, Maj. Ralph Sasse, Army coach, tried several combinations today. Sebastian appears to be the most promising candidate. Hill Singer, injured right guard, was declared definitely out for the season. A full speed scrimmage closed today's session.

Notre Dame Takes Light Workout.

South Bend, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Warm weather and evidence that his squad is beginning to draw a bit fine, caused Knute Rockne to prescribe a relatively light workout for Notre Dame today. In spite of the imminence of the big test with Northwestern Saturday, Rockne gave the regulars a short defensive drill, and ran three teams through Irish offensive stuff.

Carnegie Tech Drills On Passes.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Carnegie Tech's grid squad had its last hard workout today before leaving for Philadelphia to meet Temple. Forward passing again came in for attention.

Offensive Plays Stressed By Fordham.

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—An intensive three-hour session, devoted mainly to offensive plays, made up Fordham's preparation for the Bucknell game today. Adam Elcewicz, injured end, remained in the infirmary while Tobin and Szeskowski alternated in his place.

Meehan Shifts Violet Back Field.

Dartmouth Leaves for Coast Today.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Coach Jackson Connell of Dartmouth today selected 38 players to make the trip to the Pacific Coast to play Stanford November 29. There were few surprises in the list of those chosen. The Green had its last hard drill today, stressing the overhead game, and will have a light workout before leaving tomorrow.

SOCIETY, host to the convalescents from Walter Reed Hospital, attended, at Griffith Stadium yesterday afternoon, the first renewal of the whippet races sponsored by the President's Own Garrison, the Army and Navy Union and the National Capital Kennel Club.

In keeping with the society background about 400 people braved the nippy weather and sat or stamped through seven sprints by the spindle-legged hounds.

Whippets Peeled Down Grayhounds.

Whippets are manufactured puppies, the fancy of English peat miners who, about 100 years ago, felt the need of a substitute for horse racing, without the accompanying cost, and so turned their attention to peeling down a greyhound or two and starting this generation of shivering, yapping, 15-pound, tissue-paper skinned, hairless little orphans whose brains are housed in a bony proboscis which appears at the end of their bone-numbered bodies; whose life is a succession of cod liver oil injections and heart-pounding 150-yard sprints for no particular reason.

Daytona Speed Trials Listed Jan. 26-Feb. 7

Daytona Beach, Fla., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Officials of Daytona Beach-Volusia County Racing Association announced today the 1931 international automobile speed trials would be held here January 26 through February 7.

Thus far, Capt. Malcolm Campbell, of Great Britain, the former record holder, is the only prospective entrant to notify the American Automobile Association he would be here for trials.

Pro Grid Teams Plan Exhibitions in Europe

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The Greenbay Packers and the Chicago Cardinals, members of the National Professional Football League, are planning a European exhibition tour after the close of the current league season. Plans call for exhibitions in Paris, London and other cities abroad. Dr. David Jones, owner of the Cardinals, was the originator of the plan and invited the Packers, champions of the league, to furnish opposition. The Packers gladly accepted. If the teams go through with their plans, it will be the first foreign invasion of American professional football teams.

"One Dollar a Yard" For Army-Navy Seats

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Football fans will pay "a dollar a yard" for seats at the Army-Navy charity game for the unemployed in the Yankee Stadium December 13. The scale of ticket prices for the first million-dollar football game disclosed today that the customers will pay according to the location of their seats along the sidelines.

Seats on the 10-yard line in the covered stands will sell for $10 each, one the 20-yard line for $20, on the 30 for $30, and both sides of midfield for $50 each. Top prices in the uncovered sections will be $30.

Cochrane Widens Gap In Play With Hoppe

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Continuing his great play to win the sixth block in succession, 300 to 75 tonight, Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, Calif., took a lead of 1,800 to 884 over Willie Hoppe at the half way mark in their twelve-block match for the world's 18.1 balk billiards championship.

Cochran won the afternoon block today, 300 to 230, ending it with an unfinished run of 33. Tonight he carried the cluster to 84 before he innings as Cochran made a high run missed. The block went only eight of 100 and wound up with an unfinished run of 75. Hoppe never could

The Hollywood star had an average get started and had a high run of 19. of 37 4-8 for the block to Hoppe's 9⅝. The grand averages now are: Cochran, 34 32-52; Hoppe, 16 48-52.

Philadelphia, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—George Evans, Cleveland, Ohio, boxer, was suspended indefinitely today by the State Athletic Commission. No reason was announced.

Win Over Notre Dame Promised Gift to Coach

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern University football fame, was 35 years old today. He asked his Wildcats to give him a victory over Notre Dame Saturday for a birthday present.

Until last fall Coach Hanley's football team at Haskell and Northwestern annually came through with a victory during their coach's birthday week. Notre Dame, Saturday's rival, ended the string last year by defeating the Wildcats, 26 to 6.

"We'll give Coach Hanley a double birthday party Saturday by beating Notre Dame," one of the Wildcats promised.

Old Fordham Had a Little Ram, Unlike Mary's Lamb, Nevermore

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The Examiner says "Rameses IV," mascot of the Fordham Football Team, was "kidnapped" after the St. Mary's victory, and today was en route to this city aboard a train with the galloping Gaels grid party.

"Rameses IV" was a successor to a long line of mascots cherished for years by Fordham, having been obtained just before the St. Mary's game from the stockyards, where it was about to be slaughtered.

The ram replaced "Rameses IV," which was killed by dogs on the Fordham campus.

After Fordham had been defeated, 20 to 12, the Examiner says a party of St. Mary's followers visited the Fordham campus and convinced the keepers of the ram that one of them was a veterinarian, and "Rameses V," needed immedidate medical attention. "Rameses IV" will be brought to the university and will be initiated into his duties prior to the final game of the season with Bucknell Saturday.

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—As a result of Fordham University's first football defeat in two seasons, "Rameses" IV," newly crowned team mascot, has been sentenced to death in the abattoir, New York newspapers said today.

The ram was shipped yesterday to the Jersey City (N. J.) yards, from whence he came, it was said, and will go to his death without the cheers that marked his coronation Saturday, when Fordham was beaten by St. Mary's Univeristy of California. He succeeded "Rameses III," which was killed on the campus by a pack of dogs.

Paddock to Wed Divorcee, 26, Daughter of Publisher

CHARLIE PADDOCK

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 19 (A.P.). Charles W. Paddock, once the world's "fastest human," has lost a race to Dan Cupid. His engagement was announced today to Mrs. Neva Frisk Malady, daughter of Charles H. Frisk, publisher of the Pasadena Star-News.

This isn't the former sprinter's first dash in this direction, however.

Once his engagement was announced to Bebe Daniels, motion picture player, but she became the wife of Ben Lyon, film actor. Then he was sued in the East by a young woman who alleged she had been engaged to marry him.

Mrs. Malady was wed six years ago to Z. T. Malady, jr., son of a Pasadena physician, and divorced two years ago. She is 26 years old, and Paddock about 30.

Paddock gave up the cinder path to try writing and then went back to school to study law, now being enrolled at the University of Southern California. He one time held the world's 100-yard dash record.

65,000 Seek Navy-Md. Tickets

Only 22,000 to See Saturday Battle at Annapolis.

Byrd Gives Old Liners Light Workout and Blackboard Drill.

AN indication of the tremendous interest being manifested all over the entire South Atlantic section in the Maryland-Navy game to be played next Saturday on Farragut Field, Annapolis, is seen in the unusually heavy ticket demands for the battle. Between 65,000 and 70,000 applications have been made so far for only 22,000 seats.

Farragut Field ordinarily seats only 18,000 persons, but in view of the importance attached to Saturday's contest Naval Academy officials have ordered the construction of bleachers to accommodate an additional 4,000. Even at that, the ticket demand still far exceeds the supply. The athletic office at the University of Maryland alone had more than 17,000 applications. Less than half this number could be supplied.

Reserves Scrimmage At Maryland.

The Terrapin regulars, because of their already finely trained condition, had a light workout again yesterday. Coach Curley Byrd had a long blackboard drill to start the session and then while the first-stringers went through a signal practice the Maryland mentor put two reserve teams through a stiff scrimmage which lasted an hour.

Coach Byrd intends to wind up practice for the Middy game this afternoon, when he will stage a long dummy scrimmage for his entire squad. Tomorrow the College Parkers will rest.

The Terrapins are in remarkably good physical condition, considering the tough games they have had so far this season. Byrd has not been pressing his regulars hard this week because he wants to avoid all danger of them going stale or becoming overtrained.

Scrimmage Marks Drill Of Middies for Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 19.—Continuing their preparations for the game Saturday with Maryland U., the Middies were taken through a stiff scrimmage session this afternoon that marked their last hard work. Tomorrow and Friday will be devoted to tapering off Head Coach Ingram had three full combinations working out in varsity formations at different stages, and this was taken to indicate that frequent changes will be made in the line-up in course of the game, having in mind also the hard games with University of Pennsylvania and West Point that are in the offing.

One and possibly two regulars will not be in the milling with the Terrapins, it was revealed today. Hagberg, the big full back, was slightly injured in Monday's practice and is definitely out of it. His place will be taken either by Hurley, Konrad or Antrim. Joe Tschirgs, dashing half back, who has been on the crippled list since the Ohio State game, was in togs today and ran through some of the plays. He says he feels in fine fettle, but the powers that be are dubious as to the advisability of letting him do any heavy work just now. Otherwise the line-up for the game will be Torgeson and Byng on the flanks, Capt. Bowstrom and Bryan, tackles; Underwood and Gray, guards; Tuttle, center; Bauer, quarter back; Kirn, half back.

Colonials Out To Check Oliver

C. U.-G. W. Contest Tomorrow Seen as Duel of Backs.

RIVAL back field stars are expected to play a big part in deciding the outcome of tomorrow night's eleventh annual clash of the Catholic University and George Washington football teams at the Griffith Stadium.

There is no doubt that both elevens will take the field mentally keyed to the highest pitch and physically fit. In this respect the two are a stand-off, so the question then boils itself down to a matter of determining whether Johnny Oliver, flashy Cardinal back, or Arthur "Otto" Kriemelmeyer, stellar G. W. full back, who, respectively, bear the brunt of their team's attack, can outdo the other.

Oliver has been the main threat of the Cards all season long. In fact, he has been more than a threat, because he has shone brightest in every C. U. game, despite the fact that he has been a marked man, also in spite of the fact that he has been handicapped by a bad ankle.

G. W. Out to Stop Oliver.

It is Oliver more than any other one man that the Colonials are grimly prepared to stop. While they concede Coach Dutch Bergman has able ball carriers and all-around good backs in Bus Sheary, Carl DeMello, Tommy Whalen and Fred Guarneri, it is Oliver on whom they will concentrate. Once the Brookland flash gets under way it's impossible to bring him down, for he is practically untouchable with his great speed and shiftiness in an open field.

Whereas Oliver is a spectacular player, a lad who is apt to take the ball and go down the field all the way to the goal posts whether it be 5 yards or 50 yards, G. W.'s big threat, Kriemelmeyer, is a plugger, but a consistent ground gainer. From his full back poistion he has little chance to break into the open, but he hammers a line hard for sizable hunks of yardage from start to finish. If there's a weak spot in an opponent's line Kriemelmeyer may be depended upon to tear it wide apart with his vicious charges. An added incentive to the former Tech all-high full back to star is that Coach Pixlee has named him to captain the team tomorrow night.

Rivals Are Ready to "Shoot Works."

Tomorrow night's game will resolve itself into more than a duel between just Oliver and Kriemelmeyer, however, for both teams will literally "shoot the works" to leave the field with the long end of the score. Both teams are likely to begin with a wide-open attack at the start with every idea of getting the jump on the other and thus pressing their psychological advantage to a successful ending.

While Catholic U. has been victorious for the past six years, Colonial supporters point out two factors which they feel will end the Cardinal supremacy. First, there is no Brookland bowl jinx, in which G. W. has lost every one of the last six games played; second, the present crop of Colonials are a new lot of men, players who scoff at the idea that C. U. just can't be beaten. Several apparently stronger G. W. teams who were favorites in the past have been beaten by the Cards simply because of an inferiority complex mental attitude. The 1927 game was an example of this when G. W.'s "iron men" lost.

Light Work Today For Both Teams.

Both teams will polish off their preparations for the game this afternoon with light workouts. Neither will do more than run through a timely signal drill and maintain just a stiff enough gait in this workout to keep on edge for the game. The hard work ended for both elevens last night with C. U. drilling in the ball park from 6 until 9 o'clock, while G. W. drilled at Eastern Stadium. Both drills were strictly secret, further Coach Bergman nor Coach Pixlee were quite sure of their starting line-ups, but both probably will start their strongest combines.

The students of George Washington are to hold a monster pep meeting tonight in Corcoran Hall. Besides this the Colonial Club has announced it plans to hold a victory dance following the game tomorrow night. This same affair has been held after every game in the past, but tomorrow night's hop may differ from those uniquely in that there actually may be a victory to celebrate.

Browns Trade Quartet For Brewer Catcher

St. Louis, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns of the American League have obtained Catcher Russell Young from the Milwaukee Club, of the American Association, it was announced today. In return the Browns have released four players, Catchers Manion and Hungling, Pitcher Holdhauser and Outfielder Metzler to the Milwaukee farm.

Maryland and Kentucky Will Meet Next Season

Maryland will meet the University of Kentucky's grid team on October 17, 1931, for the first time in the athletic history of the two institutions, according to the completed Kentucky schedule.

It was announced last night by Maryland officials that the game would definitely be played at College Park. There had been a move to stage the fray at the Baltimore Stadium.

The complete schedule of the colonels follows:

October 3, Clemson, at Lexington, Ky.; 10, Washington and Lee, at Lexington, Ky.; 17, Marriane, at College Park, Md.; 24, V. P. I., at Lexington, Ky.; 31, Alabama, at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

November 7, Duke, at Lexington, Ky.; 14, V. M. I., at Lexington, Va.; 26, Tennessee, at Lexington, Ky.

DUAL LEADER

of Chicago, whose recent reelection as president of the A. A. U. was followed yesterday by his election to the same office in the American Olympic Association.

Special Bed Is Made So Carnera Can Sleep

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, the oversstuffed prize fighter, turned in tonight expecting the first night's sleep he has had since he came back to Spain. Strike-breaking carpenters had built him a bed big enough for him to stretch out in.

The promoters of a bout next Sunday between Carnera and Paulina Uzcudun decided today they would not call it off because of the continuing strike disorders. Ticket sales are to be resumed tomorrow with $1.50 top.

U. S. Amateur Baseball Plans Outlined Here

Plans for the formation of a national amateur baseball association were outlined by Leslie Mann, former National League outfielder, to delegates at the convention of the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday in the Hamilton Hotel.

Mann, who secured donations from the National Baseball Commission and big league club owners to aid his work, declared that the organization of the new association will be completed probably in February and that competition will begin next summer.

Amateur baseball players of all ages would be supervised and encouraged by the association, said Mann.

Football Is Builder Of Character—Roper

Philadelphia, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Citing the dramatic last minute drive of the Princeton Football Team against Yale last Saturday, William W. Roper, who retires this season as the Tiger coach, today warmly praised football as a game worthy of all the effort and enthusiasm put into it.

Roper spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Rotarians.

"We are living in an age in which it is quite possible to create situations where young men may be brought up in an atmosphere of ease and luxury," said Roper, "without having to suffer many of the bumps and hard knocks we of an older generation encountered. But there is an opportunity for preparing young men to withstand jolts. The outlet is football. It is possibly overemphasized in some ways, but the Yale-Princeton game Saturday typifies the fact that football brings out the best in young men."

In Saturday's game Princeton drove the ball down the field to the Yale 2-yard line before the Tigers were stopped.

TIGERS VS, MICHIGAN IN '31

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A game with the University of Michigan to be played here October 31 is the feature of the 1931 Princeton football schedule, announced today. Michigan is the only newcomer on the schedule of seven games.

WALKER MUST FIGHT.

Philadelphia, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The State Athletic Commission today gave Micky Walker, middle weight champion, until January 1 to defend his title with a suitable opponent, or the championship will be declared vacant in Pennsylvania.

Boon to 1932 Games Seen In Action

New Constitution Is Presented; Mountain Teams Rejected.

(By Associated Press.)

ON the scene of the "Battle of Washington" of four years ago between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the two organizations buried their differences today and unanimously elected Avery Brundage, head of the A. A. U., to the presidency of the American Olympic Association.

In an atmosphere of harmony and concerted effort that augured well for the success of the United States in the 1932 Olympic games, the A. O. A., in quadrennial session, laid all the groundwork for America's participation at Los Angeles and Lake Placid.

A new constitution framed with the cooperation of the presidents of the A. A. U. and the N. C. A. A., was adopted without a dissenting voice.

Unanimity was the keynote of the occasion in striking contrast to the last meeting of the association here in 1926 when the leaders of the N. C. A. A. resigned and walked out of the meeting after a losing battle with the A. A. U.

A. A. U. Gets Most Of Offices.

The A. A. U. got most of the important offices today, but nobody seemed to care. Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, of Princeton University, president of the N. C. A. A., was made vice president; Frederick W. Rubien, of New York, member of the A. A. U., was reelected secretary, and George W. Graves, of Detroit, another A. A. U. man, was chosen treasurer, all without opposition. The title of President Emeritus was bestowed upon Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, the retiring president.

The new constitution presented by Gustavus T. Kirby, of New York, as chairman of the constitution revision committee, indicated in detail how much voice the various sport governing bodies in the country will have in conducting American Olympic affairs and was hailed as a distinct advance.

Not even the two-thirds rule, providing for two-thirds instead of a majority on all questions before the association, including the election of officers, produced opposition from the A. A. U., which defeated a similar proposal four years ago in the course of its successful effort to dominate the meeting.

The N. C. A. A. and the A. A. U. now will dominate their representatives on the American Olympic committee which will function actively in arranging America's part in the coming games. The personnel of this committee will be announced in a few days.

Reject Rocky Mountain Conference.

Among the developments of the one-day session were: The rejection of an application for membership from the Rocky Mountain Conference on the ground that its colleges permit their athletes to play semiprofessional baseball; the admission of the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association, called the "Big Six," and the rejection of an application from the Ohio High School Athletic Association because it was felt there is no place in the A. O. A. for a schoalstic organization.

Optimistic reports were received concerning the number of foreign athletes to be represented at the games and the arrangements being made the appointment of a committee of three to confer with the organizing committee at Lake Placid and Los Angeles was authorized.

Stanford University submitted a bid for the final Olympic track and field tryouts and it was referred to the incoming executive committee along with an application from Salt Lake City for the Rocky Mountain regional tryouts held in Denver in 1928. The same disposal was made of a request for financial support of the winter Olympics at Lake Placid.

SUN MISSION BEATS HAT BROOM BY NECK AT BOWIE

Whitney Colt Outgamed In Drive

Choices Win 4 of First 5 Races; Happy Scot Beats Juveniles.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 19.—Dr. Irving Jacob's Sun Mission outgamed C. V. Whitney's Hat Broom in the last strides to win the Conowingo Purse, feature of the card here today, to win by a neck from the contender. Mrs. James Arthur's Berber was third, a length and a half back, in a four-horse field, Aymond being the other starter. The time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:48 3-5. This was the fourth winning favorite, Sun Mission paying $3.80.

Aymond, at one time quoted at 100 to 1, led the field almost to the stretch, with Berber second, but once in the home lane, Sun Mission and Hat Broom fought it out for supremacy. It appeared at the sixteenth that Hat Broom would win, but Jockey Fisher laid on the whip and got the decision.

Injury Forces Withdrawal Of Flying Max.

The feature attracted the smallest field of the day, and was further reduced when an injury caused the withdrawal of Flying Max. A large crowd was in attendance, but the weather changed to a misty and foggy afternoon with a chilly wind.

The Alwington Stable's Alwington Dolly, ridden by A. Martini, led all the way in the first race, but barely scored by a nose over the Genesee Stable's Star Run, with A. Adams up, but the difference was very great in coin, for Alwington Dolly, in the field, was a long price and Star Run was heavily played. It meant $68.90 for those holding $2 tickets on the winner. Candy Pig, one of the favorites, was third and Croyden fourth. The latter also was heavily backed. The field horses coupled with Alwington Dolly were A. B. Bensinger, Babble and Golden Patch.

Wig was an early contender, then Candy Pig got near the leader. Star Run came from behind and almost spoiled Bowie form, but the narrow margin saved the parade of the long-shots.

Phalanx Best-Looking Horse Shown at Meet.

Marshall Field showed the best-looking horse seen at Bowie this season in Phalanx, strapping 3-year-old son of the English horse, Phil Aris, and he was making his first start. He won by eight lengths in 1:12, pulled up. Thurber could not hold him, and he ran much faster than necessary, only breezing. The Audley Farm's Elegant was second and Cane Heart third.

Thirteen started in the race for maiden 3-year-olds. Phalanx was favorite, paying $4. Mr. Field brought him to this country a suckling by the side of his dam, Princess Du Quart, and it has been said that he paid $100,000 for dam and colt. It is already predicted that he may win the Southern Maryland Handicap, $30,000 added, to be run Saturday. He is a good-mannered horse, dark bay, and leaves the barrier like a shot out of a gun.

Jockey Adams scored on D. McCaffery's Pillory gelding, Punishment, in the third race, winning by two lengths from George DeMar. Belmona was third, another length back. Belmona set the early pace, followed by Punishment, which finally got in front on the turn into the stretch. George DeMar closed very fast to snatch the place from Belmona, Wayfarer also was running well, finishing fourth.

Happy Scot Repeats in Fourth Race on Card.

The winner was favorite, partly because Adams had the mount. The drying out track produced better form, this being the second favorite to win in three races.

Happy Scot, Admiral Grayson's fleet Scotch Broom colt, won the fourth race, the Takoma, for 2-year-olds, duplicating the good time of 1:12 made by Phalanx in an earlier race. He only beat E. F. Sanford's Habala three fourth of a length and was extended by Coltiletti. He paid the short price of 1 to 5, the same odds as in his last race here. Uncle Henry was third and Angry Plume fourth.

Happy Scott led all the way. For part of the journey Uncle Henry gave him a battle, but tired in the stretch, and Habala came up strongly. Eight started in the six furlong dash. This was the third favorite to score in four races, reversing the usual order of winning choices.

J. E. Smallman's Make Believe, 3-year-old bay gelding by Omar Khayyam—Riding Hood, carrying top weight, was up to take the sixth under a good ride by L. Schaefer. He was the cochoice in the wagering and paid $9.40 for a $2 win wager. Nell W finished second, Sunny Morn third and Tymon, fourth.

Bright Day, 7 to 1, Scores In Day's Final.

Bright Day, a recent winner at Pimlico, scored handily in the final race of the program today at better than 7-to-1 odds, beating Aurica by a length and a half, with Fair Colly a neck farther back in third place. Bright Day paid $17.30 in the $2 straight mutuels.

The winner, a 3-year-old filly owned by J. E. Smallman and ridden by Pichon, ran a game race in the field of fourteen platers which competed over the mile and an eighth route. Rejuvenation was first away from the gate, but Fischer quickly sent Hogarty into the lead, with Aurica following the pace and Bright Day far back in eighth place. Bright Day moved up quickly in the later running and set out after Aurica which had gone into the lead. The drive to the wire was a duel with Bright Day finishing with good courage to win the $950 portion of the $1,360 purse.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

IT sounds impossible that such a small ball of gold can be made into a wire 25,000 miles long. But according to Dr. Dryden, of the United States Bureau of Standards, it is a mild statement. 1.43 cubic inches of gold, which weighs one pound, can be drawn, by the Wollaston method, into a wire long enough to encircle the globe three times, or, in other words, about 4,752,000,000 inches long. That's more than enough to make a solid gold wedding ring for every woman on earth.

A beau geste to the humble spud is the above German monument. We'll bet French fried potatoes were not included in this gesture of honor. The inscription reads: "Here are buried the first attempts at the cultivation of the potato as we know it today."

Let's sign this Sammy Yohn up to play on our side. Sixty-nine successive successful place kicks is not to be sneezed at. And he kicked fifteen of his goals in two games.

A head does not have an important function in a snail's life. That is why the creature does not die when its head is severed from its body. And nature has supplied it with the power to grow a new one. The snail is ahead of us in that respect.

Bowie Notes

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 19.—Before leaving for New York, from where he sails for Europe, Thomas McCreery, trainer of the Howe Stable, turned six horses over to Andy Blakely, who will take them to Miami, Fla., at the conclusion of this meeting.

McCreery is going to Europe to purchase some new horses for 1931 racing. At the conclusion of the winter's racing in Florida, Blakely will ship the Howe Stable's horses back here to await the session in April, which opens the Eastern racing season.

Mrs. John D. Hertz's string will be sent from here to Gary, Ill., on December 1.

There are 137 jockeys here, according to Jesse Bennet, custodian of the jockey's room.

Steve Judge has been named trainer of the stable which A. W. Abbott, who conducts a chain of confectionery stores in Baltimore, New York and Washington, is gathering together. Abbott has purchased Gay Bird from R. O. Egan and will send the colt to Miami for the winter's racing.

C. R. Miller claimed Nettie Belle for $1,500 out of yesterday's curtain affair.

Flying Mare was scratched from the day's feature due to his suffering a quarter crack while breezing this morning.

Jockey J. Burke has signed to ride for C. Buxton the remainder of the meeting.

Jockey J. O'Hara has departed for the Jefferson Park, New Orleans meeting, which opens November 27.

Howard Bruce's Avalon had his foot cut when being plated this morning and was scratched from today's program.

Lady Broadcast, a candidate for Saturday's $30,000 feature, showed she was ready by working a mile in 1:42 2-5 this morning.

The four horses which Joe Bartschell was training at Laurel, were moved over here today.

Sun Beau worked a mile in 1:39 4-5 between the second and third races today in preparation for the $30,000 Southern Maryland handicap, Saturday.

BONNIE DOON WINS DOG FEATURE

of them in front of the grand stand, then walked them down their separate lanes, which stretched from the center-field loud speakers to the home plate, a distance of 150 yards. The six worried whippets were jammed into small starting boxes, with only a "ki-yi-ing" head protruding from within. Handlers wagged rags in front of their quivering muscles and yelled, "Come on, you, Fire Chief! Come on, you, Sumner's Blazer, you!" Then down the lane ran the six motley handlers, wagging their respective rags and rending the quiet air with blood-curdling exhortations.

Harvest Moon Winner By a Squeal.

Safely down the end, the handlers gave the signal, the electrically opened boxes opened and six fleas from Hades tore down the field for a succulent bite at their rag dist. Harvest Moon, owned by George E. Hutchins, of Washington, won by a squeal over Fire Chief, the heaviest dog in the entire card—weight 28 pounds. Flash Light was a good third. This was the Bethesda Handicap. Time, 0:10 3-5.

The Walter Reed Handicap was next on the program, and after the competing dogs was walked in front of the stand and had been put through the other rituals it was admitted by judges that Sumner's Prince, Cats Keck, and Silver King were the dogs in the money. A slight dispute arose over Walter Johnson's all-black Koon Kahn, who got second bite at the rags, but it was found that somewhere along the path Mr. Kahn had jumped into a rival's alley. Time, 0:10 3-5.

The Army Handicap witnessed Bounding Deep, of the Long Green Kennels, winning by about two lengths. Steppin' Out and Sumner's Veda were the challengers. Time, 0:10 2-5.

The Washington Handicap was won by Mishap, the property of Mrs. George Spangler. Sonny Boy and Black Fox were the others. Time, 0:10 4-5.

My Sweetie Sweet One In Puppy Race.

The puppy race, listed as the Marine Handicap, fell to My Sweetie, a 14-pound, 2-year-old peanut, who showed real class in covering the distance in 0:10 4-5. Fashion and Majestic placed and showed.

In what was billed as the championship of the East, a special match race was staged between Bonnie Doon, a Perth Amboy, N. J., speedster, and Sumner's Beauty, pride of W. C. Sumner's Bethesda Kennels. Both dogs have had successful seasons. Bonnie Doon, according to an expert, won because he weighed 23½ pounds, while the loser's 15 pounds met stern opposition in the wind. Time, 0:9 2-5. A floral wreath went to the winner.

The Navy Handicap, the following race, fell to the disappointed Beauty, of Mr. Sumner's Kennels. Time, 0:9 4-5. Blue Maid and Ravenell were the serious contenders.

The Maryland Steeplechase, which promised to be the most interesting of the afternoon, hardly fell down in that expectation when Flying Slim, Sumner's Tom, Playboy, Sildelong, Getaway and Crackerjack, the contestants, threw reason to the winds and in a fine frenzy deserted their obstacle-ridden paths to run berserk along the sidelines.

G. U. Prep Daffodils; Beat Episcopal Team

The Georgetown Prep Daffodils defeated Episcopal High Midgets yesterday at Garrett Park by the score of 20 to 0. It being the second time the potential Hilltoppers have turned back their Virginia rivals.

Johnny Maycock, fleet Daffodil end, camped under two long passes from Keating to pave the way for the first and last touchdowns.

Mat Bouts for Charity At Strand Next Week

Sport fans of the National Capital —and they are legion—will have an opportunity of doing their bit toward alleviating any suffering or distress that may confront those unemployed and in need of financial, medicinal or other assistance during the present depression. The ball was started rolling at the Strand last night when the Pappas brothers, promoters of the weekly wrestling bouts at the Ninth street playhouse, announced that they would contribute 15 per cent of the gate receipts from next Tuesday's card to the unemployment fund of Washington.

Matchmaker Parker announced that to make the card a star one he would bring together John Pesek, regarded in many quarters as the greatest heavyweight since the days of Frank Gotch, and Allen Eustace, who a week ago made short work of "Tiny" Webster in the Strand's inaugural bill.

He further stated that he would exert every effort to match Joe Hackenschmidt, the winner last night over Joe Montano, with John Kilonis, the rough and ready Greek, and would round out the card with Jimmy Browning pitted against "Roaring Bill" Hileman and a bout between two local boys.

—Bowie Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 19.—The Cambat Purse, featuring the Bowie card tomorrow, has attracted a fast field for the mile and one-sixteenth. The Belair Stud's PETO, which ran second to Grattan in the W. P. Burch Memorial Monday, beaten by a length in 1:12, should be returned the winner. Peto has been in the money in eight of his last ten races. His last race was his best this fall, and he can go the route.

LUGGAGE, which has had a rest, his last start being at Laurel, should be the contender. He beat Volteer, Nile Maiden and others in his two winning races at Laurel and only lost when he attempted to beat Buckeye Poet and Inception. He is back in his class in this race and should hold the others safe. WE DUN IT comes from New York with seven races in which he finished in the money, winning two, and was third to Berber at Pimlico. He is entitled on his record to third money. The track is at its best, but the weather being unsettled, there is a doubt about its condition at post time. With the improvement in the course, the form has been more consistent.

FIRST RACE—The Fascination Purse, which opens the card, is for 2-year-old maiden fillies, and there are six on the eligible list, in addition to the fourteen permitted to start. AMERISK looks much the best, but her position at the bottom of the eligible list makes her an uncertain starter. She ran with good horses in New York, being second in races won by Avenger, Bubsy C. and Zaidee. If she starts, she should win. DOUCETTE, which has not started here, is another having a chance. The last race of THE MARQUISE was a good one, second to Unusual, and she belongs in the money.

SECOND RACE—The second race also is for 2-year-olds. The Harrison entry of GRACE DARLING and DUNFERN is selected to win. Either of the entry seems good enough to earn brackets. GRACE DARLING beat Phantasime at Laurel; in a subsequent race she was third to Buckup, and in her last start was third to Portcodine. DUNFERN beat Christmas at Laurel, and that race repeated would win here. HUNTINGTON'S last race, in which he beat a large field Tuesday in 1:13, was impressive, and he should be the contender. This colt seems to favor a heavy track. FLY GUY won so easily over Sandals that he has a chance here, and should be in the money. RAMUS has shown early speed and may improve. RELIC has a chance. RUNNING GIRL on some races should figure in this.

THIRD RACE—STERN CHEER has shown great improvement this fall and looks best in the third event, which is at a mile and a furlong. HOBCAW is rated the contender. DOLAN, which likes a longer route, may run close up in this. MARY McNEAL has speed and may not quit in this race. STERN CHASER, in his last race, was third to Night Signal, and is lightly weighted. EUPHRATES is expected to improve.

FOURTH RACE—The fourth race, the Aerio Purse, has some speedy sprinters. JUDGE SCHILLING looks best, if the track remains fast, but probably will not start if it should change. JOCK takes off weight and will be hard to beat. GRATTAN, which beat the Schort horse Monday, also is in this race, but will have a harder time in this event, and it is not believed he can beat either of those mentioned at the rearrangement of the weights and the difference a drier track will make. THE SPARE is not to be overlooked in this kind of race, and she will make the leaders dizzy for a while.

SIXTH RACE—The sixth race may see a battle between TITUS and BROWN TRAP. TITUS takes off weight, and if he runs back to best form, looks best. He has been running with stake horses on several occasions, such as Sun Beau, Sun Edwin and Grey Coat. Dropped down in a field of platers, and with the feather weight of 102 pounds, he should show marked improvement. BROWN TRAP looks all over the contender. He won his last start, beating Halcyon among others. BILLIE LEONARD won his last three races, once on a fast track and twice on a sloppy one, and should be a contender here. RUANE seems to be going back, but TAIL SPIN may be close up.

SEVENTH RACE—MAINSHEET looks as good as anything in the seventh event at a mile and a furlong. He was a Laurel winner and other recent races have been good. DANGER SIGNAL should hold his own in this company, and is rated the contender. PRINCELY ATTENTION has disappointed and may improve. PRETTY PATSY has the most early speed of the field and may get so far in front that she can not be overhauled. It is a very large field, and an uncertain one.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALWINGTON DOLLY, $68.90, $15.30, $7.30; STAR RUN, $4.70, $2.00; CANDY PIG, $2.70.

ALWINGTON DOLLY outran her field to the first turn, saved ground after resisting keen contention from WIG and, holding on desperately, outstayed STAR RUN. Latter, who had placed early, finished in resolute fashion. CANDY PIG showed a good effort throughout. CROYDEN was making up ground steadily at the finish. THE DOCTOR finished fast. LETALONE had no mishaps. CAROLER tired.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily. Place same. Went to post at 1:34. Off at 1:40. Winner, Marshall Field's ch. c. (3), by Phalarie—Princess Du Quart. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:47 3-5, 1:12.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAKE BELIEVE, $9.40, $4.90, $3.10; NELL W, $5.50, $3.10; SUNNY MORN, $3.00.

MAKE BELIEVE, restrained off the pace for the first six furlongs, reached contention steadily, slipped through on the inside when entering the home stretch and wore NELL W down to set up right at the end. NELL W, rated close up, rated TIMON into submission and held on well. SUNNY MORN raced wide from the start. He showed a splendid effort and would likely have been winner by saving ground. TIMON faltered in the final issue. ELONA stumbled at the break and was rushed off her feet to take the lead.

G. U. IN LAST HARD DRILL FOR VILLANOVA GAME

Hoyas Expect Real Fight Saturday

Hilltoppers Must Be at Top Form to Win at Philadelphia.

E. Bozek Back in Uniform; Bordeau May Not Be Ready.

WITH the important Villanova game but two days away, Coach Tommy Mills yesterday afternoon concluded all major preparations for the battle with a stiff workout for his Georgetown squad at Griffith Stadium. The Hilltoppers meet Villanova Saturday afternoon in the Municipal Stadium at Philadelphia.

Benefited greatly by Monday's rest and Tuesday's light signal drill, the Hoyas went at yesterday's task with a vim that was surprising when the terrific mental and physical strain they went through all last week before and during the New York University game is considered.

Mixed Varsity in Rough Scrimmage.

A snappy rough scrimmage found a mixed varsity team battling things out with the Freshmen. After this session, Coach Mills and Assistant Coaches Colrick and Smith sent the entire squad through a lengthy dummy scrimmage.

Emil Bozek, who is still bothered with old shoulder injuries which were aggravated in New York last Saturday, got in the latter drill for a short time. Leroy Bordeau, another casual, has been unable to don a uniform all week because of the terrific battering he took against the Violets. It is extremely doubtful if his injuries will have healed sufficiently by Saturday to enable him to face Harry Stuhldreher's outfit.

The rest of the Hoya squad is in good physical condition, with the exception of Bill Macnees, half back, whose badly strained hip will keep him out of action the rest of the season.

Villanova Promises G. U. Real Battle.

Coach Mills considers Villanova one of the hardest teams his charges will be called on to face this campaign. The Pennsylvanians, irked by close defeats at the hands of Duke, Bucknell, New York University and Gettysburg, will be out to atone at Georgetown's expense for the somewhat disappointing season they have experienced so far.

"Touchdown Pants" Help Make Tide Roll

Return of Line Star for Thanksgiving Game Likely.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 19.—Bob Kimball, veteran Virginia tackle, should be in shape to be back in the Cavalier line-up when North Carolina is played here on Thanksgiving Day. Kimball was hurt in the victory over V. M. I. and had to be carried off the field. He spent several weeks on crutches. He reported for practice before the Washington and Lee game, but was not strong enough to play Saturday. He hopes to get into action in the season's finale against the Tarheels.

After a month of absence from the field Kimball is going to have a job on his hands getting back his place in the starting line-up. Buck Poss, a husky from Charlottesville, has been doing so well in right tackle that he is likely to hold on to this position. Capt. Hunter Motley has been playing left tackle.

Kimball's Return Welcomed.

But whether Kimball starts against North Carolina or is used as a reserve, Coach Abell is giving him a warm welcome. He knows he has a line man of experience who will add strength to the forward wall whenever he is called on.

Kimball, whose home is in Ipswich, Mass., came to the University of Virginia by way of Andover Academy, where he was a line star. He is 22 years old, weighs 195 pounds and stands 6 feet 2 inches tall.

Virginia's varsity is resuming practice after a rest since defeating Washington and Lee on Saturday. The Cavaliers this afternoon began intensive training for the North Carolina game just a week away.

Every member of the Virginia squad has been refreshed by the lapse in training and from their conversation appear to be keen to get down to the serious business of learning how to lick the Tarheels.

Coach Abell expects to drive his charges at top speed all this week, with maybe a scrimmage on Friday and Saturday. Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday they'll be tapered off. The game on Thanksgiving Day is expected to attract the largest crowd in two seasons to Lambeth Field.

Many Good Linemen Developed in South

Atlanta, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Southern gridiron experts are agreed no recent campaign has furnished so many outstanding linemen as are found on Dixie football teams this year. Crack ends seem to run in pairs. Tulane has Dalrymple and Holland. Georgia lists Maffet and Smith. Vanderbilt boasts Schwartz and Scheffer, and along with these aces are Roski, Duke; Gressette, South Carolina; Moore, Alabama; Jones, Georgia Tech, and Nolan, Florida.

Most observers point to Freddie Sington, of Alabama, as the leader of Southern tackles. Close behind come Waters, Florida; Mares, Georgia Tech; McCanse, Tulane; Clements, Alabama; Cobb, North Carolina State; Wright, Kentucky; Shands, South Carolina, and Davis, Clemson.

Georgia has two powerful guards in Leathers and Maddox, while Steele, Florida; Bodenger, Tulane; Forquer, Kentucky; Davis, Duke; Thayer, Tennessee, and Howard and Miller, Alabama, are all outstanding performers.

Lloyd Roberts, center, has been a bulwark of strength in all Tulane's games. Other good centers include Lipscomb, of North Carolina; Williams, Kentucky; Boutell, Louisiana State; Gracey, Vanderbilt; Stimson, Sewanee, and Clemons, Florida.

Of these linemen, three were named on All-Southern last year. They were Smith, Georgia, end; Sington, Alabama, tackle, and Roberts, Tulane, center.

KIMBALL DUE BACK AT VIRGINIA

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 19.—Bob Kimball, veteran Virginia tackle, should be in shape to be back in the Cavalier line-up when North Carolina is played here on Thanksgiving Day. ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 19.—Dr. C. T. Dreifus, outstanding Alexandria athelete, has been appointed as basket ball coach of the Alpha Delta Omega Team, it was announced today by Manager "Shorty" Schreiner.

The new coach will take charge of his club immediately. Billy Travers, former high school star, and Jack Allen, late manager of the St. Mary's Celtics quint, will perform with the Fraters. The Fraters will meet the War College Five in Washington Thursday in a practice game.

Manager Johnny Travers, of the Virginia Juniors, has scheduled the Apaches Club, runners-up in the 125-pound division of the Sports Mart League for a game to be played here on Thanksgiving Day. The locals will hold a special practice Thursday night.

Roy Jennier, star half back with the Alexandria High School eleven, will be lost to his club the rest of the season, due to a fractured shoulder received in scrimmage today. He was treated at the Alexandria Hospital.

The loss of Jennier will be a severe set-back for the "Twins," as they are slated to oppose Culpeper High School in a championship encounter at Culpeper on Friday. If the Alexandrians win this game they will be dead-locked for first honors in this district competition.

Officers for the Third District Athletic Association will be elected on Thursday when this body gathers in the George Mason Hotel to discuss athletic problems. Henry T. Moncure is the chairman.

Manager Bill Hammond, of the Pirate A. C., announced today he had signed "Monk" Wells, former star with the old A. F. D. Preps, and Louis Schreiner to perform with his team the rest of the season. Both are backfield men. The Pirates play the Northern Cubs on Sunday.

The St. Mary's Lyceum Quint will trek to Washington Thursday evening for a game with the Monroe A. C. in the Wilson Normal Gymnasium. This is a practice contest.

Practice has been called for every night this week by Coach Rube Rayman, of the St. Mary's Celtics, to have his club set for Sunday's game with the Apaches, champions of Washington. The Celtics will present a revised line-up in this battle. Billy Padgett, varsity center, will be shifted to a guard position for the game.

Two Ga. Tech Stars Get Coast Game Bids

Athens, Ga., Nov. 19 A.P.).—H. J. Stegeman, director of athletics at the University of Georgia, announced today that Herbert Maffett, captain and end, and Jack Roberts, fullback of the Georgia Football Team, had been invited to play in a Christmas Day charity game at Los Angeles.

Stegeman said Roberts would not be eligible to play under a Southern Conference rule, as he has another year at Georgia, but that Maffett may play if he desires.

Home Fans to Watch Bison End Saturday

Special to The Washington Post.

Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 19.—Walter Nikodem, end on the Bucknell University Football Team, who started the game with W. and J. last Saturday, will be performing before his home fans when the Bisons battle Fordham at the Polo Grounds, New York, Saturday. Nikodem came to Bucknell from the George Washington High School of New York. He played on the football team in his senior year. Prior to moving to New York, Nikodem lived in Ware, Mass.

POLY ELEVEN CHOICE OVER CADETS

V. P. I. 1930 Record Is Much Better Than That of Rival.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 19.—After the gruelling Kentucky game, the V. M. I. squadron is enjoying the usual period of twelve days before facing the V. P. I. Gobblers at Roanoke in the Thanksgiving Day climax of the season for both teams. Although the Cadets are not scheduled to play, they will have a busy time, with Coaches Bill Raftery, Ed Hess and Stag Binish putting on a final drive to bring Capt. Roy Dunn and his mates to the top of their form.

For the third time in four years, V. M. I. is rated as the under dog in the Cadet-Tech classic, but members of the Flying Squadron point to three straight victories as evidence that the Flying Squadron can not be counted out of a Thanksgiving Day battle until the final whistle.

Gobblers Have Better 1930 Record.

In 1927 and 1928 V. M. I. victories were decided upsets, and even last year many fans and experts preferred the chances of the Gobblers to those of the Cadets. Again this season the Gobblers have the better season's record, but the Cadets believe that their goal of four straight wins is not out of their reach, even if they have to play far over their heads to reach it.

Before seeing their varsity in action at Roanoke, the members of the V. M. I. Corps will have an opportunity Saturday to watch the Gobblers and Cadet freshmen in action on Alumni Field. The young Cadets have won from Maryland and North Carolina State, while the Tech youngsters are undefeated. The Virginia and William and Mary freshmen have both turned in victories over V. M. I. The forward walls of the two yearling elevens appear to be fairly well matched, but the Cadets have no back field star to match Casey, ace of the young Tech ball luggers.

Dad of V. P. I. Captain Walks to See Games

Newport News, Va., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—If Bird Hooper, captain and quarterback of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, runs as many yards as his father covers miles, there will be plenty of trouble for the V. M. I. cadets on Thanksgiving Day.

For several years Frank B. Hooper has walked to see Bird Hooper run. This year he will step off the 174 miles from Raleigh, N. C., to Roanoke for the annual V. M. I.-V. P. I. game, the last to be played for the Gobblers by young Bird.

Mr. Hooper, who is a shipbuilder here, will start his long jaunt Sunday and will be joined in Roanoke by members of his family who are leaving Wednesday by automobile.

He expects to average 8 miles per hour. Two years ago he walked from Richmond to Roanoke, a distance of 180 miles, to witness a game.

V. M. I. Enters Team In Dixie Title Hike

Lexington, Va., Nov. 19.—The V. M. I. varsity cross-country team, winner of the State 5-mile championship race for Southern Conference teams last week, will enter the conference race at Chapel Hill, N. C., Saturday. North Carolina and V. P. I. are regarded as the strongest teams the Cadets will face in an effort to annex the Southern title. Capt. Ham Smith, undefeated for two years in hill and dale racing, will head the V. M. I. team of Bond, Wise, Romm, Bumgardner, Brugh and Gatewood. Coach Read and Freshman Coach Hesmer will accompany the runners when they leave Lexington by automobile Friday.

TRAINING AT BUCKNELL.

APACHE CLUB PREPS FOR CELTICS

District and Alexandria Rivalry to Be Renewed Sunday.

THE first of the "big time" sandlot football clashes between Alexandria and Washington is scheduled for Sunday when the St. Mary's Celtics, of the Virginia city, invade Griffith Stadium on Sunday to take a crack at the famed Apaches, District champions. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The Apaches are aware that the Celtics never come to Washington unless well fortified with football talent. The champions have been making the most of every opportunity to drill this week and Coach Jerry Carroll expects his charges to take the field ready to meet any kind of battle the Celtics can offer.

Coach "Rube" Hayman, who led the Alexandrians in their brilliant battles with the Mohawks last year, and Manager Corbett, who gathers the grid material, have been drilling a large squad each night at Baggett's Park. While there are rumors that the Celtics have obtained several Marine stars, no definite word has been received as to their line-up for the first of the intercity battles.

The Apaches are expecting to show some of their best football. Ty Rauber, former Washington and Lee star, who has recently returned to the champions, has been working hard at the quarter back assignment. His followers expect him to show his best form on Sunday.

Martinsburg Court Champs Ready to Play

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 19.—The Interwoven Athletic Club, basket ball champions of Martinsburg last year and rated one of the best quints in eastern West Virginia, western Maryland, southern Pennsylvania and the Shenandoah Valley section of Virginia for the past few seasons, announced today that it already has started booking games for the approaching season.

The Interwovens, like last year, will be coached by Rex Kershner, former West Virginia University man and former Martinsburg High School and Y. M. C. A. star. Jack Hardy, manager of the outfit since it was first organized, is also back and is hopeful of scheduling contests with such fast teams as the Hagerstown Aisatia Club, Massanutten Academy, Shepherd College, the Charles Town American Legion, Ike Powers' Hancock Chevrolets and several clubs in Baltimore and the District of Columbia.

A local team the Interwovens are anxious to meet is Hose Company No. 5, which, according to announcement made yesterday, is to be managed and coached by Hack Wilson, the most valuable player of the National League, whose home is in this city.

South Carolina Set For North Carolina

Special to The Washington Post.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 19.—Two more Southern Conference teams, N. C. State and Auburn, remain upon the University of South Carolina's schedule, and the Gamecocks this week are hard at work getting ready for the clash upon Melton Field Saturday with the Wolfpack from North Carolina. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

This will be the last game of the season for the Gamecocks, in Columbia, and thousands of fans are expected to be in Columbia for the game and to give the team a big "send off" as a close to the season. Tickets are already on sale and many mail orders are being received.

State brings a strong team to the Palmetto capital. The Wolfpack started out with a bad season, but has improved strongly in the last three games, and will give Carolina a real fight. Many N. C. State alumni are expected to be in Columbia for the game and a special section is being reserved for these fans.

Susquehanna Ends Grid Year Saturday

Special to The Washington Post.

Selinsgrove, Pa., Nov. 19.—After enjoying a day of rest on Monday, following their hard game with Washington on Saturday, the members of Susquehanna's varsity football squad underwent hard workouts Tuesday and today in preparation for their last game of the season on Saturday with Penn Military College. A check-up showed that every man came out of Saturday's fray in good shape and Coach Ullery should have every man available for the P. M. C. fray. Realizing that this game is one of the hardest on the schedule, the gridders will undergo several hard workouts during the remainder of the week.

This game will also bring to a close the football careers of several members of Susquehanna's squad. Among the starting men playing their final game will be Moser and Scott in the back field; Capt. "Al" Garman, veteran center; "Joe" Winters and "Ace" Hudkins, tackles. Other losses by graduation will be Wolf and Barber, who have been lost to the squad all year through injuries.

W. & J. Eleven Foe In W.Va. Home-Coming

Special to The Washington Post.

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 19.—After a week-end of inactivity as far as athletic competition is concerned for the football squads of West Virginia University, extensive preparations were started here this week for the closing of the home grid card next Saturday with Washington and Jefferson College in the annual "homecoming day" game. Likewise, the West Virginia freshman football squad and Coach Art Smith's undefeated Mountaineer harriers are getting ready to make their trip to Annapolis this week-end when they will compete against the Naval Academy teams in their respective sports.

During the past week Coach Ira Rodgers has drilled the Mountaineers intensively for the battle with the Presidents and the athletic department staff has been at work with university officials, making up the "homecoming" program. Invitations were sent out to 164 editors of State newspapers, 117 mayors of West Virginia and nearby towns and cities, 240 high school principals and 175 university and State officials.

LIONS END SOCCER SEASON.

State College, Pa., Nov. 19.—Penn States will close its soccer season on the home field this week, meeting the Western Maryland booters in a nonleague game Saturday. The Eastern league schedule was closed last week in games with Swarthmore and Lafayette.

Hawks Defeat Lansdowne, 19-0, After Two Failures

Indians Never Threatened After Scoring 2 Touchdowns in First 5 Minutes; Baltimoreans Held to 2 First Downs.

By JOHN V. HINKEL.

IN the case of the Baltimore Lansdownes, the Mohawks have adopted the old saw, "If you don't succeed at first try, try again." On their third attempt this season the Hawks finally managed to beat the Marylanders, 19—0, last night under the flood-lights at Griffith Stadium before 500 of the faithful. The best the District outfit could do in its two previous meeting with the same team was to absorb a 6—0 defeat on one occasion and battle to a scoreless draw on the other.

Punching across two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play and scoring their third six-pointer in the middle of the second period, the Mahawks completely outclassed their guests in every department of play. In doing so, the Hawks displayed the smoothest offense and defense they have shown so far this campaign.

Dewey Makes First Score.

The Indians scored their initial touchdown on the fifth play of the game. After the Hawks kicked off to Lansdowne, Bender of the visitors got off a poor punt which went outside on his own 41 yard strip. Two line plays gained but three yards and then "Admiral" Dewey broke through right tackle, eluded the Baltimore secondary, and dashed unmolested for 38 yards and a touchdown. Browning drop-kicked the extra point.

Colliere's beautiful 65-yard punt, which was downed on Lansdowne's 2-yard line by Briggs, paved the way for the second Hawk 6-pointer a few minutes later. Bender kicked out to his own 36-yard line. Sweeney then picked up 7 yards through guard and on the next play went wide around right end behind excellent interference to gallop 36 yards for a score. A drop-kick for the point after touchdown by Browning missed clearing the bar by inches.

The Mohawks scored their last touchdown in the next period after a 90-yard march down the field. Dewey started the proceedings with a pretty 42-yard run around right end, which started from his own 10-yard mark. Sweeney and Gass reeled off two consecutive first downs through tackle to bring the ball down to Lansdowne's 26-yard strip. Dewey then darted along the side line to be downed 6 yards from the Baltimoreans' goal.

Three line plays were stopped cold by Lansdowne, but Sweeney, on fourth down, dropped back to his own 12-yard line and flipped the oval to Brown, who gathered it in while standing in the end zone. Delaney's drop-kick for the extra point was low and easily blocked.

The Marylanders made but one serious threat to score. This occurred in the last six minutes of play when Bender and Weinstock made two consecutive first downs, which incidentally were the only ones made by Lansdowne during the game, to place the ball on the Hawks' 24-yard line. The istrict team then braced to take the ball on downs.

Twice in the third quarter a determined Lansdowne defense held the Hawks when they were within 12 yards of a fourth touchdown. On on of these occasions the Indians had possession of the ball on the Maryland team's 6-yard strip only to lose it on downs.

MERCURIES PRACTICE.

The Mercury A. C. will practice tonight at 7:30 on the gridiron at Seventeenth and B streets northwest.

MERCURYS VS. ST. MARTIN.

The Mercury 130-pound Basketball Team will play the St. Martin cagers in the St. Martin Gym tonight at 8 o'clock. Merc players are asked to report by 7:30 p. m.

WOLVES TO MEET ALL-STARS.

Manager Greg Gerdon, of the Wolverines announced yesterday that he has scheduled a game with the Prince Georges County All-Stars to be played on Thanksgiving Day at Byrd Stadium, College Park. The Wolverines last Sunday beat the O'Reilly A. C., of Richmond, 7 to 0.

BOUT FRIDAY ENTHUSES GOTHAM

McLarnin, Petrolle Promise Rare Ring Treat.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Business is due to boom again Friday night in Madison Square Garden, where the trade has been none too brisk lately, for Jimmy McLarnin, favorite fighting son of the Metropolis, comes back to work again.

McLarnin, socking Celt from Vancouver, who has plastered New York rings with some of the best of the lightweights, usually packs the Garden. The ticket sale already is booming for Jimmy's ten round go with Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, in the main go of the Garden's weekly show.

No Weight Advantage For McLarnin.

The customers who saw Petrolle all but whip Jackie Kid Berg a short time after McLarnin belted Al Singer, former lightweight champion, loose from his ruggedness, seem to be more eager than usual for the coming clash.

Jimmy will be without the weight advantage that has been his in most of his recent fights here. Petrolle, a hard hitting veteran, plans to weigh about 140 pounds, Jimmy's favorite weight. McLarnin is a 2 to 1 favorite.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA is having a bad football season, and the usual aftermath is being heard over the land—demands for the head of the affable "Nibs" Price, head football coach. Whether the disenters will be able to have the coach's head delivered remains to be seen.

Price, who is not without his friends in California, has entered the situation only to say that he has two hard football games ahead of him and is preparing his Bears for these contests.

Alumni have been shouting more or less from the house tops, both pro and con. Some have even gone so far as to nominate a successor for Price, the name of K. K. Rockne heading the list.

This, too, is not unusual for in any coaching upheaval, Knute's name is at once brought in the discussion of a probable successor. Thus far, however, Rockne has done his autumn coaching at Notre Dame. When he coaches other collegians it is in the summer.

SOME of the former California students have said that if they can't get Rockne they will be glad to have Tom Lieb. Lieb will be remembered as a former assistant coach at Notre Dame who pinch hit for the head coach on the field when Rockne was sick last year and confined to his bed. Lieb now is head coach at Loyola University of Los Angeles, and doing very well under the circumstance.

Other coaches, North, East, South and West, have been mentioned, but Price remains head coach for the time being.

University of California at Los Angeles seems about to force its way into select football company. Oregon won by a margin of only one touchdown from Bill Spaulding's team and a very satisfactory year on the whole is being brought to a close.

Schedule makers are looking ahead to next year with a hope that a card may be arranged for the season which will offer new football worlds to conquer. A trip may be made to Chicago for a game with Northwestern and six Pacific Coast Conference games will be sought.

COACH SPAULDING thinks Norman Duncan, his full back, is a big shot. "I haven't seen a full back on the Coast I'd trade him for," said Spaulding. "He has football intelligence, can kick and carry the ball and is one of the greatest defensive men I have seen.

"Playing on a winning team he would be a cinch for the All-Coast Team. He's one of the best fighters I have ever seen. Against Oregon, Stanford, St. Mary's and the Trojans, during the short time he was in the latter game, he was the outstanding player on defense."

Duncan weighs 187 pounds and is a product of Santa Barbara High School.

Jim Mooney, left-handed pitcher of the Charlotte Club of the South Atlantic Association, whose release has been purchased by the New York Giants, forced 23 Augusta batsmen to miss third strikes in the first night game played in the "Sally."

Suggestions that Mooney could not have equaled such a strike-out performance in the light of day are not supported by the facts. A dip into records of Mooney's past performances shows that as a pitcher for the Eastern Tennessee Teachers College in 1927 he struck out 34 Emory and Henry College players.

The southpaw is coming from a circuit which sent up a number of star players to the major leagues. Ty Cobb, Nap Rucker and Eddie Cicotte were graduated from Augusta in the days before home runs become commonplace.

Of the great players who have passed out of the major league picture, Joe Jackson, Ed Sweeney, the big catcher who was Russ Ford's battery mate on the New York Highlanders and emery ball accessory, and a number of others, came up from the South Atlantic when the circuit was young. Now it has celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary.

BLUES SHIFT DATE FOR GAME

Play St. Francis at Loretto, Pa., Tomorrow Night.

COACH TEDDY HUGHES and a squad of 25 Gallaudet football players will leave for Johnstown, Pa., this afternoon where the Kendall Greeners will stack up against the strong St. Francis' College eleven of Loretto, Pa., tomorrow night under the flood lights. The game originally was scheduled for Saturday night, but a last minute agreement between the two institutions moved the contest ahead 24 hours.

Little is known of the strength of the Saints as they have not met any of the teams played this season by Gallaudet. St. Francis, however, is considered to possess one of the best teams of any of the smaller colleges in western Pennsylvania. Two weeks ago the Lorettoans knocked off St. Bonaventure, which is a fair criterion of their ability.

Blues Have Good Chance To Win.

Gallaudet, though, is conceded at least an even chance to win, especially as Coach Hughes' players have been constantly improving in every game this season. Last Saturday the Kendall Greeners came through with a decisive 13-7 win over Langley Field, a team which had previously held the powerful Quantico Marines to a 7-0 score.

Three back field regulars will be wearing the Buff for the last time tomorrow, as they graduate next June. These players are Capt. Zieskie and Marshall, half backs, and Hoksinson, quarter back.

STOCK PRICES HOLD TO HIGHER COURSE

Motor, Railway, Utility and Industrial Shares Rise 1 to 4 Points.

B. & O. SCORES ADVANCE

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Speculative sentiment took a cheerful turn again today and the stock market completed its recovery from Monday's reaction. Grains, too, were stronger in sympathy with better prices at Winnipeg, but in the bond market only the best grade issues made headway.

In its present frame of mind Wall street is willing to regard no news as good news. Certainly there was little in today's grist of business items that could have an immediately constructive effect, unless it was the report of prospective support for the steel industry from large railroad orders, which, however, are not expected before the next quarter.

Nevertheless, the market's net gains of 1 to 4 points on a turnover of 2,481,410 shares indicated that the day-to-day traders foresaw profits on the long side. Motor, motor accessory, railroad and utility shares were favored, although representative industrials did well. A few specialties moved up briskly.

Brokerage House Fails.

Another stock exchange failure caused only a momentary flurry. Announcement of the suspension this morning found prices rising, and after a brief pause the rally was resumed. The insolvent firm was rather small, but brokerage circles were pleased by the market's disregard of what would doubtless have been the signal for lively selling a few weeks ago. The few stocks identified with the embarrassed firm reacted, notably Bulova Watch, for which the suspended house had done some financing more than a year ago. A statement by the Bulova management said the company was unaffected by the affairs of the brokerage house, having received full payment for the offering of stock.

Estimates that railroad orders for 50,000 freight cars would mean contracts totaling 700,000 tons for the steel industry, and a prediction belief that producers would soon announce a price stand on sheets and strips featured the midweek steel trade reviews.

These favorable prospects offset the Iron Age report that operations had been shaded 1 per cent in the past week, for prices appear to be more important than output at this stage of the depression. The recent announcement of a minimum quotation for bars, shapes and plates for a large U. S. Steel subsidiary was generally considered a forerunner of other important developments along the same line, and Wall street would not be surprised by definite announcements in this connection in the near future.

Improvement in January Seen.

It is admitted that prospects for improvement in the next month and a half are exceedingly remote, but business circles were reassured by Iron Age's assertion that "the gain in prospective demand is interpreted as a promise of improvement in January rather than in the immediate future."

Strength of the automotive and allied groups seemed predicted on recent signs of expanded activity among the motor car producers. Some plants have recalled idle workmen, new models are being advanced and the statistical position of the industry is concededly favorable. Rubber shares failed to extend yesterday's upturn, but there were gains of 1 to 2 points in Chrysler, Hudson, Eaton Axle, Electric Auto-Lite, General Motors, Briggs, Studebaker and Nash. The reduction in General Motors deliveries to dealers last month was attributed by the company to the advancement of dates for model changes.

The advance in stocks was preceded by a soft opening and some selling in the early trading, but the support accorded the leaders was sufficiently impressive to turn professional sellers into buyers. Activity was well distributed throughout the session, although the best display of strength came in the late hour.

Southern Railway Rises.

Prominent industrials like United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Du Pont, American Can and Johns-Manville closed 1 to 2 higher while in the rails there were net advances of 1 to nearly 4 in New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, New Haven and Atchison. American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Power & Light and other utilities rose 2 to 3. Ingersoll-Rand soared 10 points and Allied Chemica 4. R. H. Macy, whose directors declared the customary annual stock dividend in addition to the cash payment, was up 5¾. United Aircraft was also strong.

Wheat's improvement was fractional. The December future held around the 73-cent level on reported Farm Board buying. Export sales were larger. Corn closed 1¼ to 1¾ cents higher, reflecting the bullish weekly report and firm Southwest markets. Cotton recovered small early losses and finished unchanged to 7 points higher.

The Canadian dollar again approached the gold point in the foreign exchange market. Spanish pesetas improved in response to support from the Bank of Spain. Sterling, the French franc and the German mark were firm.

Electric Bond & Share Earnings Are Reported

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Electric Bond & Share Co. today reported for the twelve months ended October 31, earnings of $2.44 a share, compared with $2.46 a share in the twelve months ended June 30 and $1.97 in the twelve months ended December 31 last. Net income for the twelve months ended October 31 totaled: $42,300,147, against $41,095,006 in the twelve months ended June 30 and $32,511,823 for the twelve months ended December 31 last.

The company's balance sheet showed cash and call loans October 31 as $46,632,125, compared with $49,772,270 June 30, and $93,054,246 December 31, 1929. Investments amounted to $905,121,390, an increase of approximately $31,000,000 over the June 30 figure. Total assets were carried at $998,552,185 October 31, against $943,846,312 December 31 last. Total current assets October 31 amounted to $93,430,785, and total current liabilities were $9,796,611.

HEAVY TREND RULES FOREIGN BOND GROUP

Issues in List Lose Up to 4 Points; Rails' Advances and Losses Balance.

DOMESTICS UP SLIGHTLY

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Foreign obligations in the listed bond market softened today, while domestics improved a shade under the influence of a rally in the share market. The strong demand for high-grade investment bonds maintained the buoyant tone of United States Governments.

Gains and losses among rails were about evenly divided and changes were wider than they have been in recent sessions. Convertibles and industrials were considerably improved and more interest was displayed by buyers in utilities which registered small gains.

The tone of foreign loans was distinctly heavy with active issues in both the Latin American and European groups reacting sharply. Argentine 6s of 1959, Brazil 6½s, Chile Mortgage Bank 6s Chilean 6s of 1962, Colombian 6s, Peru 7s and 2d 6s, Rio de Janeiro 8s, Sao Paulo 6s and 7s, and Uruguay 6s were about a point lower. Bolivian 7s were off more sharply, the 7s of 1958 reacting 3¾ and the 7s of 1960 dipping 2½. Among Europeans German International 5½s dipped into new low ground for the year, then closed steady. German municipal and industrials eased fractionally.

The gradual improvement of sentiment toward high grade industrials was reflected in advances registered by Armour & Co. 5½s, Bethlehem Steel 5s and several others. Colorado Industrial 5s broke 7 points to the new low of 84½ and General Baking 5½s yielded a point.

The divergent trend of rail issues was reflected in both legals and second grade issues. Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh 5s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977, St. Louis San Francisco 5s B, Wabash 5s B and Seaboard 4s were under pressure. Baltimore & Ohio issues were slightly lower with the 5s at a new year's low on a 1¼ point decline. Highest price issues generally showed small changes. Among the firmest were Central Pacific Shore Line 4s, St. Paul 5s of 2000, Chicago Union Station 5s B, Great Northern 4½s and New York Central 6½s.

Laclede Gas Light 5½s, International Telephone 5s, Pacific Telephone 5s, New York Telephone general 4½s, Public Service Electric & Gas 4½s were among the public utility issues in demand. Postal Telegraph 5s were weak, sagging 2 points to a new year's minimum.

BALANCE IS SHOWN BY MERGENTHALER

CITIES SERVICE REPORT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The balance sheet of Mergenthaler Linotype Co. for the fiscal year ended September 30, and the annual report of President Norman Dodge, made public yesterday following the annual meeting, reveals the company in excellent financial condition, its surplus exceeding its capital and there being a complete absence of bonded indebtedness and bank loans.

Its only current liability is a small amount of accounts payable for current bills. Another noteworthy item is that rights, privileges, franchise patents and inventions of the company have been written off and its cash position is strong. The president's report shows a net gain from all sources, after proper allowance for depreciation and taxes, of $1,809,410.71, and that during the year there were paid to the shareholders cash dividends amounting to $1,664,000.

The balance sheet shows the following totals:

ASSETS.
Current assets	$11,525,901.68

Cities Service Earnings.

For the thirtieth consecutive 12 month period, Cities Service Co.'s net earnings showed an increase. For the year ended October 31, net earnings were $58,656,589, an increase of 44.53 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago. Aside from establishing a new high record for any twelve months in the history of the company, net earnings for the first ten months of 1930 amounted to $5,800,000 more than the total net earnings for the entire year of 1929.

The company's net earnings for October, 1930, were $4,400,751, an increase of more than 13.58 per cent over the same month last year. The total number of common stockholders on November 15, were 416,934, an increase of 7,753 since October 15. Since January 15, common stockholders have increased 65,657.

At a meeting at the Willard Hotel last night, the following officers of the Security Club of American Security & Trust Co., were installed: President, Edward E. Cissel; first vice president, William E. Schooley; second vice president, Paul Vanderbilt; secretary, Miss Dorothea Wassmann; treasurer, Miss Lucille Forbes; members of board of governors, J. Olan Skinner, main office; Henry F. Kimball, retiring president, central branch; Leonard A. Clark, northeast branch; Gilbert F. Murphy, southwest branch. The club was addressed by J. Dann Faber, auditor of the company. Dancing followed the meeting.

Midland United Extends Stock-Conversion Time

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The Midland United Co. today announced that it is extending the time within which the company's convertible preferred stock, series A, may be converted into common stock. The period during which warrants for the purchase of common stock may be exercised is also being extended.

Under the new schedule, the preferred stock is convertible to December 31, 1932, at the rate of 1.4 shares of common stock for each share of preferred stock held; to December 31, 1933, at the rate of 1¼ shares of common stock; to December 31, 1934, at the rate of 1.1 shares of common stock, and to December 31, 1935, at the rate of one share of common stock. The conversion privileges under the old plan expired June 30, 1933. Common stock warrants which accompanied each certificate of the convertible preferred stock and which entitle the holders to purchase an equal number of shares of common stock at $28.50 a share, have been extended one year to December 31, 1931.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Stockholders of the Midland United Co. today approved a merger with the American Public Utilities Co., a holding company subsidiary, which will be absorbed if its stockholders ratify the project at a meeting at Wilmington, Del., tomorrow.

Canadian wheat in store on November 14 was 197,398,333 bushels, 2,663,700 more than last week, it was computed today, but 20,000 less than a year ago.

Cotton goods were in moderate demand today. Prices on finished goods show some irregularity. Wool goods were being bought in very small lots. Raw silk was easy. Production was active on silk cloths for printing. Burlaps showed little change and the demand was light. Some of the leading rayon producers are guaranteeing prices, while others will not. Buying is held up.

Raw silk futures closed irregular. Sales, 380 bales; December, 228; March, 223; May, 221. Open market quotations (60-day basis): Shanghai steam extra B, 275; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, 185; Japanese crack double extra, 265.

While General Motors Corporation dealers delivered 57,757 cars to customers in the United States during October, sales by manufacturing divisions to dealers in this country amounted to only 22,924 cars, General Motors Corporation announced today. The statement said that this was due to the advancement of the date for model changes in certain of General Motors subsidiaries as compared with a year ago, and that the condition will adjust itself in subsequent months, deliveries to customers in September totaled 75,805, and in October last year, 114,408. Sales to dealers in September amounted to 69,901, and in October last, 98,559. Total sales to dealers last month, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, amounted to 28,253, against 78,792 in September and 122,104 in October last year.

Unfilled sheet steel orders declined during October to 319,518 tons as of November 1, compared with 388,599 tons October 1, the National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers reported today. Total sales in October were 158,700 tons, against 214,454 in September. October production amounted to 193,934 tons, or 50.5 per cent of capacity, against 179,928 tons, or 48.8 per cent of capacity, in September.

The New York Stock Exchange has admitted to trade on notice of issuance, 310,000 shares of $5 dividend convertible preference stock without par value of the Gillette Safety Razor Co., in connection with the acquisition of all the properties of Auto-Strop Safety Razor Co., and 322,500 additional shares of no-par common stock. Of the additional common stock, not to exceed 310,000 shares are to be issued from time to time upon conversion of the preference stock, not to exceed 210,000 shares are to be used for conversion of the company's ten-year 5 per cent convertible gold debentures, and 12,500 shares are to go to brokers as compensation for their services in connection with the acquisition of Auto-Strop.

J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, said that while gross revenue in October continued to show a substantial drop from last year, net operating income was off not more than $100,000 from October, 1929.

Edwin Corning has resigned as president of the Ludlum Steel Co., and has been elected chairman of the board, a newly created office. H. G. Batcheller, former vice president, was elected president.

Hardy & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, announced that November 24 they will transfer all their marginal commission business to Ungerleider & Co. The Hardy firm will retain membership in the stock exchange and will continue its investment security business, which has constituted the major part of its operations.

G. R. Loyall, president of the Norfolk & Southern Railroad, said that the road will show net income of about $70,000 for October, the best showing made in recent months. He said business in the road's territory was holding up fairly well.

Anaconda Wire & Cable Co., reported September quarter net profit of $8,701, equal to 2 cents a share, against $132,303, or 31 cents a share, in the preceding quarter, and $572,844, or $1.38 a share, in the September quarter last year.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Grain values tilted momentarily upward today, helped by well-timed purchasing for United States Farm Board allies and also by concerted action of Canadian banks. It was announced that wheat price stabilizing operations of United States Government-sponsored agencies were not confined to Chicago, but extended to all domestic markets. Meanwhile reports were current that Canada's banks would protect margins on wheat holdings of the Canadian growers' pool.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were firm at nearly the day's top level, ⅛@1⅛c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish; Corn closed 1@1¼c advanced, oats ⅜@⅝c up and provisions unchanged to 10c lower.

Evidence of relief from tension in the wheat trade made itself manifest almost from the opening. First and foremost as a stimulating market influence was buying which showed that Board allies were on the alert to prevent any weakening of prices. Then came widespread notice of authoritative reports that absence of consent of the Canadian Dominion government to guarantee a minimum price for wheat did not mean that there would be sacrifice selling of stocks of grain owned by the Canadian growers' pool. Reassurance was also gained from advances in wheat quotations at Liverpool and Buenos Aires and from advices that Russian shipments of wheat hereafter were expected to diminish.

Forecasts of wintry weather over the corn belt tended further to lift wheat values and all other grain. Much was probable widespread snowfalls, accompanied by drops in temperature, implied enlargement of livestock feeding demand for corn and every sort of substitute. Indications of a pronounced improvement in flour trade counted also on the side of higher prices for wheat, especially as late intimations were heard, too, that a liberal amount of export business in Canadian wheat had been put through today. Such was effective as more than a counterbalance word earlier that arrivals of wheat at Winnipeg today were on a big scale, totaline 1,102 cars, compared with only 346 cars a year ago. On the other hand, bearish comment was heard that rains and snowfalls in parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Colorado were favorable for the new domestic winter wheat crop.

Corn and oats went higher with wheat, and on more active buying of corn than has been the rule of late. Some of the buying of corn appeared to be in the nature of reinstatement of speculative lines which had recently been sold out.

Provisions eased down in the late dealings, responsive to setbacks of hog values.

Curb Review

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Curb market shares made further headway in quiet trading today. The day's advances, together with the moderate upturns of the previous session, about cancelled Monday's losses. Transactions totaled 575,700 shares, or 63,300 more than yesterday.

Electric Bond & Share was traded in large volume, gaining more than 2 points. After the close of the market, its earnings statement and balance sheet for the period ending October 31 appeared, showing earnings of $2.44 cents a share, against $2.46 a share on a slightly smaller number of shares for the 12 months ended June 30. The corporation had continued to increase its investments in client companies.

American Gas & Electric sold up 3 points, and gains of a point or so were recorded by American Superpower, Middle West Utilities, United Light A and Utilities Power & Light. Natural gas stocks also improved, United Gas moving up fractionally, and Duquesne and Lone Star gained about a point. Oils were largely steady to firm, although the weekly statistics showed another substantial increase in gasoline stocks on hand. Gulf and Vacuum gained about 2, and Cities Service rose ½. Standard of Kentucky, however, slipped off at 1½.

The industrials generally gave the best account of themselves in several days, although trading in this group remained light. Bulova Watch preferred moved contrary to the trend, selling down to 20, and closing at 25, off 4¾. This reflected announcement of insolvency of Bauer, Pogue, Pond & Vivian, an investment house which headed the syndicate offering the issue nearly two years ago, although the company announced that it was in no way effected, and that its earnings compare favorably with those of last year. Helena Rubinstein, Inc., with which the house had also been identified, sold at 1¼, compared to its previous close of 2½.

Aluminum Co., Charis Corporation, Glen Alden Coal and National Screen Service were among industrial issues gaining about 3 to 5 points. Ainsworth Manufacturing, Novadel Agene and Trans Lux rose 1 to 2. Ford, Ltd., and General Aviation gained fractionally. Sidney Blumenthal dropped 4 to a new low at 15, however.

Investment trust shares were quiet. Continental Shares convertible preferred gained 3 points, Shenandoah common and Sun Investing, 1 point.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri.: Weather Bureau, Washington, Wednesday, Nov. 19, 8 p. m.

Forecast.—For the District of Columbia and Maryland—Fair Thursday and probably Friday; slightly warmer Friday; gentle east, shifting to northeast or south winds.

For Virginia—Mostly cloudy Thursday; Friday probably fair and slightly warmer, except showers in southwest portion; diminishing northeast, shifting to southeast winds.

The Western disturbance is central tonight over the southern Plains States and moving north-northeastward to Wichita, Kans., 29.56 inches, while the Alaska disturbance is advancing slowly northeastward, Kodiak 29.00 inches. The Hudson Bay disturbance has continued to move slowly north-northeastward, while the disturbance over the ocean east of Newfoundland has remained almost stationary. The disturbance that was central north of Bermuda this morning has continued to move northeastward. Hamilton, Bermuda, 29.92 inches. Pressure is high from the Pacific Coast eastward over the Plateau and Northern Rocky Mountain regions to the Dakotas, Boise, Idaho, 30.54 inches, and over most sections east of the Mississippi River, Quebec, 30.56 inches. It has fallen quite generally within the last 24 hours from Minnesota and eastern South Dakota southward to the lower Rio Grande Valley and in the North Pacific States, and snow is reported from Colorado, northern New Mexico, western Wyoming, western Nebraska, and portions of the Dakotas. The rainfall was heavy in the lower Missouri Valley, Kansas and Oklahoma. The temperature has risen in the upper Lake region and the upper Mississippi Valley, and it has fallen in the Plains States, the Rocky Mountain region, Texas and the Atlantic States. The weather is still unseasonably warm over much of the eastern half of the United States and many stations in the North-Central States report the highest maximum ever registered so late in November, the highest in this area being 80 degrees at Cairo, Ill.

The southwestern disturbance will continue to move north-northeastward and it will cause showers in the western portions of the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and Plateau regions, in the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the southern Appalachian region during Friday. Otherwise generally fair weather is indicated in the Washington forecast district during Thursday and Friday. The temperature will be slightly higher in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States Friday, while somewhat colder weather will overspread Tennessee, Kentucky, and probably Ohio during Friday.

DEMAND THAT CITY PAY COSTS CAUSES MOVE

Holaday Declares Federal Government Should Not Contribute.

Investigation to determine just how many nonresident children of Washington go to school here free because their parents work for uncle Sam was ordered yesterday by the Board of Education on request of the board's president, Charles F. Carusi. George D. Strayer, jr., District school statistician, was instructed to compile the information as soon as possible.

Mr. Carusi explained he is interested to have this information because of the opinion of Representative William P. Holaday that the District should bear all the expense of financing the schools of Washington rather than have the Federal Government share part of the expense. Representative Holaday expressed this opinion in presenting a new plan for the proportioning of District finances between local and Federati governments.

To Consider Recommendations.

The Board of Education also promised Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou that it would consider a number of recommendations he has made for school improvements at its next meeting on December 3. Dr. Ballou made these recommendations in the final section of his annual report.

They include the suggestion that persons outside of the school system be allowed to qualify for the position of administrative principal. Dr. Ballou declares that the demand for administrative principals is greater than the supply in the school system.

Development of libraries in the junir and senior high schools, keeping school buildings in outlying sections occupied through transporting pupils by bus and thus eliminating portable, and employment of additional clerical help in offices of supervising principals are among other recommendations made by the superintendent.

Dr. Kober Addresses Board.

The board was addressed yesterday by Dr. George F. Kober, president of the District Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. He asked the board to allow lecturers to tour the schools to give talks on health. He also asked that the health school be put on a 24-hour schedule because the new tuberculosis sanitarium can no accommodate all the children afflicted.

Mr. Carusi said that the first request will be given study by a committee. uperintendent Ballous stated that it has already ben demonstrated that it will be impractical to put the health school on a 24-hour basis.

Lane for Santa Claus To Open November 28

Santa Claus Lane in Columbia Heights will open Friday night, November 28, instead of on December 1, as originally scheduled, it was announced yesterday by the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association.

The change was made for the benefit of the school children as a large float with Kris Kringle aboard will be a part of the pageant along Fourteenth street, from Fairmont street to Meridian place.

JAPANESE ARE SEEN NEW FILIPINO PERIL

CHANGED VIRGIN FOREST

Manila, Nov. 19 (A.P.).How to keep down the number of Japanese coming to the Philippines is engaging the attention of both the executive and legislative departments of the island's government.

The Japanese have entrenched themselves in the Davao hemp district of Mindanao, their number being variously estimated at from 10,000 to 16,000. They already control, through lease, most of the desirable land there and if their progress continues, it will be only a few years before the Filipinos are crowded out.

Inspected by Davis.

Governor General Davis went to the district to get first-hand information. Previous to his trip, two department secretaries, a legislative committee and one of the governor general's advisers inspected conditions.

They have agreed that the islands are indebted to the newcomers for changing Davao from a virgin forest into one of the finest hemp districts in the islands, but that does not ease the official misgivings of the ultimate outcome.

The problem is difficult because an exclusion law would be out of the question. The most likely course open to the government seems to be enactment of an alien land law which would prevent the Japanese from getting title to the lands they have leased.

Would Close Port.

Closing of the port of Davao was suggested by one of the department secretaries. It was generally agreed that this would get rid of the Japanese, but it would have ruined the whole region and the discrimination behind it would have been too obvious.

Another phase of the situation that is keeping some officials awake nights is the possibility of imminent international complications. The pagan Bogobo tribes have been steadily pushed back by the Japanese incursions and resent the establishment of new plantations. The land has been theirs from time immemorial and they have vented their displeasure by attacks upon the newcomers, some of whom have been hacked to piece with bolos.

CHARITY BEQUESTS HELD VOID IN SUIT

Will Made Two Days Before Death by Mrs. Downey Argued Invalid.

ACCOUNTING IS ASKED

The estate of the late William P. Downey, once widely known as a Washington livery stable man, was made an issue in a suit filed yesterday in District Supreme Court by fourteen persons, thirteen of whom claim to be his heirs at law. The estate is roughly estimated to be worth $350,000.

Charge is made that Mrs. Henry J. Downey, the widow, under her will made September 6, 1926, two days before her death, made certain trusts to care for an alleged imbecile daughter, Mary H. Downey, and Mary Laura Higgins, an employe, and specified at the death of the two beneficiaries the estate was to be converted and divided between St. Anne's Infant Asylum, St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum and the Little Sisters of the Poor, and the House of the Good Shepherd. It also is set out that the charitable bequests were void, in that the will was not made 30 days prior to death.

Resist Conveyance.

The plaintiffs also ask the court to set aside a property conveyance, involving $150,000, made November 19, 1925, by the daughter to the mother, alleging that the former, being of unsound mind, did not know what she was doing.

In addition the plaintiffs ask for an accounting from Michael P. Mangan, as executor of Mrs. Downey's will and as trustee, and the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., as trustee, substituted by the court for Mr. Mangan, for all funds and properties received by them, respectively, and by Mrs. Downey, as executor and trustee under her husband's will. The court also is asked to order Mr. Mangan and the trust company to pay over various sums of money which Mrs. Downey is alleged to have appropriated to her use or obtained by sale and encumbrance while she was managing her husband's estate.

Twelve Are Cited.

In addition to the trust company, Mr. Mangan and the five Catholic institutions, 12 individuals are named as defendants.

Plaintiffs are: William O. Downey, Richmond, Va.; Bernard J. Downey, 1450 Irving street northwest; Elizabeth G. Downey, 7107 Georgia avenue northwest; Regina G. Downey, 7107 Georgia avenue northwest; Richard J. Downey, jr., 7107 Georgia avenue northwest; Richard J. Downey, 1450 Irving street northwest; Agnes I. Rice, 1740 Irving street northwest; Matthew F. Halloran, Hyattsville, Md.; Bernard F. Halloran, Hampton, Va.; Charles E. Halloran, 924 Emerson street northwest; William T. Halloran, 2211 Thirty-fifth street northwest; John A. Haloran, 716 Kennedy street northwest; Mae F. Berry, 504 L street northeast, and Catherine E. McCalmont, of 1215 Fifth street northeast.

Order to Raze Center Market Officially Made

All plans are going forward for the razing of Center Market after January 1, despite organized efforts to postpone the date. The order became official yesterday with the notification of the Department of Agriculture by the Treasury Department.

The American Business Club has gone on record as being opposed to any further extensions of the leases at Center Market. One reason for the action, it was explained, is that any further delay would likely leave the market standing when the bicentennial celebration opens.

Tests for District Bar Slated for Next Month

The examining committee of the District Bar Association announced that the winter examination of applicants for admission to the bar of the District Supreme Court will be held December 18, 19 and 20 at Georgetown University Law School.

Applications must be filed with Frank E. Cunningham, clerk of the court, on or before December 13, according to the announcement.

Jury Finds Three Deaths Accidental

Building Men Are Blamed for Accidents Which Killed Them.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned verdicts of acidental deaths in the cases of Herbert Jett and John Jones, who were killed when they fell more than eight stories at the new Potomac Electric Power Co. building at Tenth and E streets, and 9-year-old Bryant Engel, who was run down by an automobile driven by Eldridge Keedy, 24-year-old salesman.

The jury held that none could be held responsible for the deaths of the two men because they had been operating the lift, which slipped from its stirrups, and that it was their own actions which caused the accident. Both men died almost instantly.

The same jury declared that the Engel boy's death came about because he ran into the road in front of the car which Keedy, who lives on Park road, near Seventeenth street northwest, was operating. The accident happened near the apartment at 1629 Columbia road, where he lived with his mother, Mrs. Mary Engel, who had obtained custody of the boy on the day he was killed. Mr. Engel is manager of the Chattanooga (Tenn.) Baseball Club, and scout for the Washington Club.

CHAIN OF 21 DAMS IN MISSISSIPPI PLAN

WOULD MAKE FLAT LAKE

St. Louis, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A new chain of lakes down the Mississippi Valley, from St. Paul to St. Louis, may be one by-product of the Federal Government's plan to clear a nine-foot channel in the upper river for navigation.

The proposed project calls for building 21 dams at a cost of $100,000,000.

Each dam, due to the flat nature of the river valley between rows of bluffs on either side, will create a wide, flat lake. These lakes will vary in width from two to five miles and in length from 10 to 20 miles.

First Near St. Paul.

Others are proposed for Alma, Wis., Fountain City, Winona, Tirempealeau, La Crosse, Genoe, Lynxville and Prairie du Chien.

Secretary of War Hurley, who has made a tour of the river valley with army engineers, indicated that work would begin in 1931. All plans have yet to be approved by Army engineers.

Congress has approved a nine-foot channel for the Mississippi, but funds for the construction still are largely unappropriated.

Conservationist organizations, including the Izaak Walton League, have complained the project would destroy game fish and other wild life in the Federal wild life refuge which extends from below St. Paul to Rock Island, Ill.

Sees End to Bass.

Capt. C. F. Culler, in charge of the Bureau of Fisheries work on the upper river, contends the dams would mean the end of small mouth bass propagation, for which this section has been famous.

Dr. Vernon Bailey, chief naturalist of the Federal Department of Agriculture, said he believed the project will be destructive of fur-bearing animals.

The conservation committee of the United States Senate, headed by Senator Frederick Walcott, has spent a week studying the project, and has yet to make its report.

Proponents of the plan, however, depend on the act of Congress passed in 1924 creating the wild life refuge which, they claim, states no refuge feature should be allowed to interfere with improvement of navigation.

HENRY IS REMOVED AS SMITH TRUSTEE

Order by Court Also Ousts Agents and Depositories of Four Properties.

ASKED BY BONDHOLDERS

Samuel J. Henry, former president of the F. H. Smith Co., was removed yesterday as trustee of four Washington apartment houses, said to be owned by Smith company subsidiaries. At the same time the depositories and paying agents for all these structures also were ousted and the American Security & Trust Co., was appointed in all three capacities.

The order of removal was signed by Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, as the result of a hearing several weeks ago. The action follows petition for removal filed by the bondholders' committee, appointed to safeguard the interests of Smith company bondholders, which is headed by George E. Roosevelt, of New York City.

In its petition the bondholders' committee asked the removal of Henry as trustee, pointing out that he and other former officials of the Smith company had become involved in criminal cases and that the widespread publicity given these matters was damaging to the properties involved in the litigation.

The apartments involved under Chief Justice Wheat's order are the Tivoli, of 3237 Hiatt place northwest; the Cedric, 4120 Fourteenth street northwest; the Al-Roy, 1615 Kenyon street northwest, and Stanley-Arms, 1125 Twelfth street northwest.

Henry is under joint indictment with G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman; C. Elbert Anadale, former vice president, and John H. Edwards, jr., also a former vice president, on charges of conspiracy to embezzle $5,000,000 of the company's funds and to destroy records. He, however, will not be tried Monday when the others are scheduled to go to trial.

Man Escapes Hospital And Waiting Jail Guards

Raymond Simms, 33-year-old colored man serving 15 years in jail on a charge of assault, yesterday escaped from Gallinger Hospital while guards from the District Jail were waiting to take him from the hospital after he had been discharged.

According to hospital attaches, the man was waiting for someone to bring his clothing while jail guards waited outside the ward door. He slipped through a door in the ward and made his escape from the basement, dressed in hospital clothing.

The escape was made about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

DISTRICT TO TRY OUT CIVIL SERVICE PLAN

Rescinder Will Be Asked if Dissatisfaction Is Found After Six Months.

QUOTA ISSUE IN DOUBT

Unless, at the end of six months, the new arrangement between the District Government and the Civil Service Commission has worked out properly, the District Commissioners will ask President Hoover to rescind his executive order of Tuesday.

This was the promise made yesterday by Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of Commissioners.

Dr. Reichelderfer said that he was going to insist that at least a majority of the employes supplied the city government by the Civil Service Commission shall be residents of Washington.

District Above Quota.

To insure this, he said, the city officials will seek to come to an understanding with officials of the Civil Service Commission.

Such an understanding will have to recognize that the District Government is not to be affected by the apportionment provision in the civil service act.

Under the apportionment provision, Government jobs are distributed among the States, the Territories and the District of Columbia, according to their population. Right now, the District has about ten or fifteen times more Government jobs than its population entitles it to. Maryland and Virginia are also above their quotas.

Attractiveness of Jobs.

In the last two years, as a result of pay legislation and retirement legislation, Government jobs have become much more attractive thay they were, and the result is that men and women in distant States are applying for them in greater numbers than was once the case.

As these applicants whose States have not filled their quotas are given preference by the Civil Service Commission, it follows that applicants in the District, Maryland and Virginia are having considerable difficulty in getting jobs.

If the apportionment provision were to be applied to the District Government it is conceivable that Washington residents would be debarred from jobs even in their own municipal government.

Solution In Doubt.

But Dr. Reichelderfer is convinced that this apportionment provision will not apply to the District. The President's executive order of Tuesday, he said yesterday, does not place the local government under the Civil Service law, but merely authorizes the Civil Service Commission to cooperate with the local government and help it to select employes who have taken a competitive examination.

Dr. Reichelderfer is not sure just yet what kind of a plan will be worked out to insure that at least a majority of new employes are District residents. This, he said, will have to await a conference between District and Civil Service officials.

National Grange May Convene Here in 1932

Renick W. Dunlap, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, yesterday telegraphed to the Washington Grange from the National Grange at Rochester, N. Y., that the prospects of selecting the Capital for the 1932 convention are good. The gathering was held here in 1928.

Mr. Dunlap addressed the national meeting Tuesday afternoon and presented the invitation of the local grange.

RITES FOR MRS. M. DURANT

Died in Garden City, Long Island; Burial in Oak Hill.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Justine Durant, who died at Garden City, Long Island, last Saturday, was held at St. Margaret's Church in this city on Monday last. Interment was in Oak Hill Cemetery. Mrs. Durant was the widow of James Maxwell Durant, whose family had lived in the District of Columbia for many years, and daughter of the late William James Wilson, a well-known resident of Georgetown, whose father was born there in 1806.

Mrs. Durant spent nearly all of her life in Washington, but after the death of her husband, four years ago, resided with her son, William Wilson Durant, and daughter, Mrs. Earl K. Burton, at Garden City. Besides another son, James Maxwell Durant, jr., who resides in Washington, she left four sisters, the Misses Julia and Sadie Wilson, of this city; Mrs. Charles M. Martin, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Mrs. T. Perry Lippitt, of Charles Town, W. Va.; two brothers, Claiborne A. Wilson, of Chicago, and Charles F. Wilson, of Washington, also survive.

Engineer Injured in Fall.

While going about his duties as engineer at the Ambassador Hotel yesterday, Carl Fisher, 35 years old, of 2211 Channing street northeast, fell about 15 feet in the subbasement of the hotel, receiving a badly lacerated hand and a possible fracture of the skull.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

CONTENTMENT, 1930 MODEL.
(After Oliver Wendell Holmes.)

LITTLE I ask; my wants are few;
I only ask a rise in stocks.
(A jump of fifty points will do)
To take me off the rocks;
And if I can't have that, why, then
I'll take a rise of five or ten.

Small favors are enough for me;
I never seek or crave a lot:
A rapid rise in I. T. T.
"Can," "Jersey," Erie, Kennecott;—
Just this I ask, and possibly
A bullish move in "Baking, B."

I care not much for piping times;
Give me a split-up here and there—
A winter trip to Southern climes
And dividends to spare—
I merely ask that Wall street may Bring back the sparts of yesterday.

Jewels are baubles; 'tis a sin
To care for such unfruitful things;
I'd merely like a diamond pin
To mark the market's upward swings;—
A ruby, bought through Radio,
Will be enough; I laugh at show.

My dame should dress in cheap attire—
She seeks no goods of costly grade,
Except perhaps a fur coat, sire,
Through profits in the "motors" made;
Some frocks of silk with lovely lace
Bought through a rise in J. I. Case.

I do not ask the finest car;
Content I'd be with simple means;
If certain stocks would get to par
I'd only buy three limousines;
'Til blue chip stocks again turn blue
I'd get along, perchance, with two.

Of pictures I should like to own
Titians and Raphaels three or four,
Provided that my "Telephone"
Would show a tendency to soar;
And I might own a Turner, too
With what I'm out on "Hup" and "Stu."

Busts, cameos, gems—such things as those
I do not ask at present, no:
I simply ask that Gotham Hose
Will rise, and also "REO."—
I'll be content to get, alas,
My losses back in "Fox and "Gas."

Wealth's wasteful trivia I will not ape,
Nor imitate the upstart fool
If e'er again upon the tape
I see my stocks soar in a pool;
I vow I will be satisfied
With ninety points in "U. Carbide."

Thus humble, let me live and die
Nor long for Midas' golden touch;
If Heaven more generous gifts deny
I shall not miss them VERY much—
If "Steel" gets back where once it went
I think perhaps I'll be content.

THERE'S AN OPTIMIST!

MR. ALEXANDER SIMPSON, who lost the New Jersey election to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow by 191,000 votes, wants a recount.

The Army and Navy have kissed and made up and will play a game for charity in New York December 13. This will probably carry out the prophecies of skeptics that it would be a cold day when they would renew relations.

A STICKLER FOR DETAIL.

James W. Hennessy, a New York public administrator, pleading guilty with his lawyer to misappropriating funds of estates, was let off on probation the other day.

"You must make restitution to the little boys and girls and widows from whom you took the money," said Judge E. S. Brown, the lenient official.

"I want to put you straight on that matter," interrupted Hennessy. "I did not take any money from little boys or girls. I took it from the estate of the dead."

THE world, according to a Yale professor, is 8,000 million years old. Well, it is beginning to look it.

"U. S. Treasury Has Deficit."—headline. That makes it unanimous.

WOULDN'T GROUND GLASS DO JUST AS WELL?

RECIPE for clam chowder in a New York newspaper:

ABUNDANT HARVESTS END MEXICAN CRISIS

FARMERS HAVE MONEY

Special to The Washington Post.

Mexico City, Nov. 19.—Information received from all parts of the country indicates that the basic crops of Mexico, namely corn and beans, will be excellent. These crops are now so far advanced that it is highly improbable that any drop in temperature can affect them to any appreciable extent. This year's rains were early and as a result the crops will be ready for harvesting in good time.

The lentil, naba bean and wheat crops are also in splendid condition, and the harvest will be at least 7 per cent greater than last year. The coffee crops in Veracrus, Oaxaca and Chiapas leave nothing to be desired. Sugar cane throughout the country is in excellent condition. The cotton crop this year will be approximately 175,000 bales, more than sufficient to supply the local mills and leave a small quantity for export. The tobacco crop has been good and the vanilla bean harvest promises to be abundant.

The effects of the excellent harvests will be highly satisfactory. The corn problem will not only be solved but there will be excess production which will permit fattening of pigs, poultry, &c., thus permitting a reduction in the amount of lard, eggs, &c., imported. A large proportion of the bean crop can be exported, especially to Cuba.

Thus the nation's food has been provided for, importations will be reduced and the country will even benefit from exports of food products.

The textile crisis will not be solved until the crops have been harvested, but as a result of the abundance of money in the agricultural centers, the large stocks accumulated in the cotton mills will commence to move.

The solution of our crisis has come in the form of abundant crops and within a few months trade in Mexico will be approaching normal.

Play With the Knowledge of Experts

THE social importance of BRIDGE makes it imperative that you have a complete knowledge of the game for your own pleasure and that of your associates. The cards have innumerable combinations that a lifetime of experience would not completely reveal, yet you may learn to cope with any bridge situation by taking advantage of the accumulated knowledge and experience of experts as revealed by the articles of MILTON C. WORK.
